However, the "Telegraph" predicts that the new Government will not have a very long life.

The general attitude in the Hague and Amsterdam is negative. There is an inclination to await developments. There seems to be no likelihood of Parliament re-assembling for the time being.

At its first session the Cabinet will draw up the budget estimates for 1940.

In financial circles it is regarded as reassuring that Baron Deeger has been taken over the Ministry of Finance.

The regulations will be enforced immediately.

Alien doctors upset Harley-street by unprofessional conduct BOGUS SPECIALISTS ACCUSED OF TOUTING

'SOME OF THEM STEAL PATIENTS'

UNPROFESSIONAL conduct of alien doctors who have set up practice in the Harley-street area is disturbing many leading British specialists, who regard some of them as charlatans.

A well-known consulting surgeon said. "Many of these foreigners circularise patients who have visited them abroad. We have found them in some cases to be very unscrupulous, particularly with women, who fall an easy prey to their methods."

"Their only thought is money. Their standard of knowledge—with the exception of a small percentage who are experts in their particular sphere—is considerably lower than that of the average British general practitioner. Some of them also steal patients."

"It is primarily a matter for the British Medical Association to lodge a complaint with the General Medical Council."

A bitter outburst against the conduct of one of these alien doctors comes from a medical man writing in the "Medical World."

"THOSE WHO HAVE SUFFERED MOST from the unethical competition of refugees have spoken much about it to each other, but have been loath to put their experiences on paper," he says.

He tells of the wife of a patient of his who, though he was receiving adequate treatment, was pressed to call in further advice, an alien doctor being mentioned as being particularly clever and suitable.

"Dr. Allen" urged the wife to bring him to a nursing home under his care, and said delay would be dangerous. "It is evident 'Dr. Allen' gave confident opinions on the case without seeing me and without seeing the patient," the writer observes.

"Dr. Allen" then carried out an examination without first seeing the writer, and also brought a surgeon, although no request had been made for surgical opinion. "My next surprise," says the writer, "was to discover that 'Dr. Allen' was almost entirely ignorant of his job."

The writer told the wife he had no confidence in "Dr. Allen," and eventually the patient was sent to London under the care of a physician chosen by him.

Professor "did not know" He was wanted man

NEW YORK.

ALTHOUGH for a week newspaper headlines proclaimed that he was being sought on a charge of embezzlement, Professor James Monroe Smith, former president of Louisiana State University, walked into the police station in the Canadian town of Brockville, Ontario, recently and said: "I did not know I was wanted."

Dr. Smith, who was accompanied by his wife, is accused of absconding with university funds, embezzling $20,000, and borrowing a larger sum with which he is alleged to have played the stock market.

He told Brockville's police chief: "I must get back immediately so that I can clear up everything, and vindicate myself."

He had £63 in his pockets.

The news that Dr. Smith had given himself up was telephoned to New Orleans.

Meanwhile, Dr. and Mrs. Smith are being guarded by red-coated "Mounties," with Brockville's best hotel serving as their jail. Their food is sent to them from the dining-room.

They have been given this privilege because Mrs. Smith suffered a collapse.

Dr. Smith's disappearance caused a storm in Louisiana. Governor Richard Leche resigned, and Earl K. Long, brother of the late Huey P. Long, who had been Lieutenant Governor, took over.

Dr. and Mrs. Smith entered Canada through Detroit in a car which they bought in Dearborn, Michigan.

They drove to Charleston Lake, summer resort near Brockville, where they rented a cottage paying a week's rent in advance.

question? What is the policy of the British Government, regardless of anybody else?

Mr. Butler: It is not customary to announce our action in advance, before we have had an opportunity of discussion.

Sir Percy Harris: Do the Government intend to give the League a lead in the matter?

Mr. Butler: I said quite clearly in my original answer that we fully recognise the value of this service and this work. I cannot say more.

Girl Pat Skipper In A "Case of Importance"

WHEN an application was made at Lincoln county court recently for the hearing of a case, concerning the sale of a Grimsby steam trawler, to be expedited, Mr. James Young, solicitor, said that the plaintiff in the case was George Black Orsborne, "who earned a certain amount of fame some time ago by taking the Girl Pat across the Atlantic."

Mr. Young said that the action was of national importance and requested Judge Langman to read an affidavit.

After reading it the judge commented on a reference to the smuggling of refugees.

Mr. Young said that the authorities would like to see the people concerned give evidence.

The Judge: Are they going to let the cat out of the bag?

Mr. Young: If they face the court they will.

Mr. Young said that Scotland Yard was interested and an inspector had been sent to Grimsby.

The judge refused the application to expedite the hearing, but intimated that if Mr. Young could prove that great inconvenience would result if the case was not heard before September 5 he might make an order for an earlier hearing.

Film By Bonesetter

Sir Herbert Barker's methods of manipulative surgery are to be handed on to the medical profession which for years refused to recognise his work.

He recently completed at St. Thomas's Hospital, London, a film showing his most important manipulative operations in practice. This film will be shown to medical students.

In addition, he will give a series of demonstrations which will pass on to orthopaedic surgeons and to posterity the technique which has made him famous despite years of opposition.

Sir Herbert said that he will give these demonstrations as often as he can, until he is satisfied that his methods are being carried out to his satisfaction.

TIMELY ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Referring to the fact that the medical staffs at St. Thomas's had agreed unanimously to accept his offer to give the demonstrations, Sir Herbert said:

"I have worked all my life for this achievement, and the sense of relief and satisfaction is simply overwhelming. I knew acknowledgment would come, but I feared it might come when I was in my grave. Many pioneers have been recognised only after their death, and I began to think that might be my unfortunate lot also."

The whole of my technique may now be handed on from generation to generation. That is all I have worked for, and my work has been my life. My methods will now be available to every surgeon in every country in the world and to every suffering person.

REPEATED OFFERS

"The tragedy is that my offer was not accepted many years ago. Repeatedly I offered under any terms or conditions to demonstrate my work so that it could be considered and judged. I was always met with refusals."

"Now that my work has been recognised I can look back on the old days with satisfaction. It was an exhausting—almost a heartbreaking—fight. We have given tremendously hard blows on either side. Fortunately I have always had the forensic spirit of my father, who was a famous lawyer, and I was able to give as good as I got."

One part of the film which Sir Herbert has made shows manipulative operations for "tennis elbow" and recurrent dislocation of the shoulder joint.

WHOLE FIELD OF SURGERY

"Other parts," he said, "show work on affections of the low spine, which are often very difficult to cure, and what is known as 'pes planus,' or flat foot."

"The film also shows operations for hip affections and knee cartilage dislocations; in fact, it covers practically the whole field of the manipulative section of orthopaedic surgery."

Sir Herbert said that despite the fact that he has been practising for 40 years he can still sprint 100 yards in "respectable time," and can walk 15 to 20 miles in a day.

Argentina Wants South Pole

NEW YORK.

The Argentine Government is preparing to claim a vast area of the Antarctic in which are lands now under British and United States ownership.

Argentina is asserting her claim to a wedge of the earth in the shape of an inverted triangle, the point of which is at the South Pole.

Within the area, which covers approximately one-seventh of the Antarctic Region, are the South Orkneys, South Georgia, South Shetland Islands, Graham Land and other islands—all British possessions.

In it also is some of the area in the Weddell Sea district and along the Antarctic coast to which the United States, consolidating her claims, is sending an expedition under Rear-Admiral Byrd.

38 Raids In Two French Cities

ANTI-SPY fever is gripping France. Recently 38 raids were made by the Surete Nationale and by "Bureau 2," France's famous counter espionage service.

According to Le Soir 20 raids were made in Lyons, and some in Strasbourg.

Warrants against several newspaper managers and party officials have been issued.

STATEMENT DEMANDED

Some newspapers are demanding a Government statement about the progress of the investigation. They say public feeling should be allayed.

53 m.p.h. 'Baby' Torpedo-Boat Is Britain's Latest Navy Fighter

BRITAIN'S naval striking forces are increasing every day.

Recently a "baby" motor-torpedo-boat, known as the K40 type, was demonstrated on Southampton Water.

The "baby" attained a speed of 42½ knots (53 m.p.h.)—far in excess of boats with greater power—on her trials.

This speed was returned with 20 people aboard, more than twice the normal complement, and additional ballast.

Flight-Commander Claude Graham White, who put the boat through her paces, said that the offensive and defensive power of motor-torpedo-boats was out of all proportion to their small cost.

CONCHIE NO. 1 IS 'VICTIM OF GREAT WAR'

Father bangs down medals

BIRMINGHAM.

CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTOR No. 1 under Britain's Militia scheme, twenty-year-old Norman Wort, of Elindale-crescent, Northfield, Birmingham, was registered at Birmingham recently when his father banged three war medals on the table in front of the tribunal.

A moment later the chairman said: "The tribunal's decision is that Mr. Wort shall be registered as a conscientious objector unconditionally."

THEY GET PAID FOR APPEALING

Both the conscientious objectors and the members of the tribunal which heard their appeals received money out of the recent proceedings.

Tribunal members are paid 5s. an hour for each hour they sit. That day they were in session for four and a half hours, which entitles them to 22 10s. 6d. The objectors were given travel vouchers if they came by train or bus from more than six miles away. They were also given a subsistence allowance varying from ten to twenty miles away to 4s. 6d. for sixty miles or further. Any objector missing his last train home, and having to spend the night away could draw an extra 5s. for the night's expenses.

who object to serving in the Militia. Most of them arrived with their mothers or fathers, who sat in a hastily arranged court-room in two rows of chairs at the back of the room. Many of these chairs were occupied by officials of anti-conscription and pacifist societies.

WAR INJURIES

The tribunal was composed of kindly-faced Judge Longson, county court judge for Derby; Mr. A. H. Gibbard, a trade union secretary, who dealt with technical points; Councillor E. Purser (ex-Socialist mayor of Nottingham), who asked several sceptical questions; Professor J. G. Smith, vice-principal of Birmingham University, who asked only three questions all day; and Mr. G. T. Lee, former town clerk of Derby, who asked no questions.

Norman Wort was led in by his father, a brisk, hollow-backed ex-soldier in grey flannel trousers and check sports coat. Judge Longson began to read Norman's statement: "I am the only son of a disabled ex-serviceman. I was born after his discharge from the Army, and my condition is due to his war injuries. I have suffered hell for a lifetime. I am an innocent victim of the great war."

There was a hush in court. The father leaned over the bare desk separating him from Judge Longson and said, "My hearing is 90 per cent., but my son is practically deaf. May I come closer?"

The judge nodded to Mr. Wort, who rapped loudly on the desk to draw his son's attention. He took him by the shoulder, and held him over the desk to hear the judge. Judge Longson said it would be unnecessary to read any more, as he understood the father had written the statement.

The tribunal deliberated. Here was the first conscientious objector who had not put forward religious grounds for his objection. Ex-town clerk Mr. Lee hastily turned over the pages of the Military Training Act to find guidance.

Suddenly Mr. Wort drew three medals from the right-hand pocket of his coat and banged them on the table. Judge Longson looked up after a moment and said: "The tribunal's decision is that Mr. Wort shall be registered as a conscientious objector unconditionally."

Five of the conscientious objectors said they were employed in armament factories, but they did not object to that. The tribunal put them on the register providing they stayed at their present work. All five agreed.

Another five who refused to take part in any war work were ordered to go to Ministry of Labour training camps. Two others agreed to join the R.A.M.C.

STAY AT WORK

First youth to appear before the tribunal was Wilfred Ernest Lewis, of Watwood-road, Hall Green, Birmingham, a Christadelphian, who said that military service was not permissible to their cause, nor compatible with the teaching of Christ. Lewis was placed on the register of objectors on condition he remained on the work he was doing—the manufacture of street lamps.

William Everts Judd, of Barrow-in-Furness, Yarmley, and employee of Birmingham Corporation Gas Department, who objected on "ethical and Christian grounds," was placed on the register on condition he stayed at his present work.

The Vicar of Handsworth (the Rev. S. King) sat beside William Hinds, of South-end, Handsworth, and vowed for the young man's deep religious feeling and genuine objection to fighting.

£30,000 "Magic Box" Swindle in London

PARIS. AN extraordinary story of a confidence trick, by means of a "magic box," performed in a London hotel by a gang who stole £30,000 from a credulous Frenchman, was told in the Paris court, where four members of the gang have been sentenced.

Two Argentine men, Abriata and Urruty, left London by plane with the cash, and are at large. They were tried in default and condemned to five years' imprisonment. They were introduced to M. Maurice Robin, son of a wealthy Parisian manufacturer, as "inventors."

Their principal "invention" was the "magic box." A Bank of England note for £100 was placed in the bottom, and sprinkled with chemicals. A blank sheet of paper of the same size as the note was put in the box. The box was shaken, to cause pressure on the blank sheet, and left shut for 24 hours.

EMPTY

On reopening the box the bank-note was found to the exactly reprinted on the blank sheet—so there

Missing a landing field at Bridgeport, Conn., here is the wreck of the plane in which Bert Balchen, inset, now a Norwegian air official, and five others escaped injury. Two also were Norse air officials. Balchen was former Admiral Byrd's pilot.

"Hoots, Hitler, We Like A Joke" Says Aberdeen

ABERDEEN, "and twal' mile roon," is vastly amused at the protest in Berlin literary magazine against jokes made at the expense of Scotland.

Aberdeen is not a little proud of the fact that the best examples of moderate Scottish humour emanate from the Granite City.

Aberdeen has its own views on this intervention by a foreign Power in what is after all a matter of internal policy—for there is a policy in Aberdeen jokes and this is it, straight from the mouth of a prominent townsman:

"Hoots! Dinna they ken (in itself almost a good German word) that we agree w' Rabbin Burns—that the mair they speak I'm kenned the better' (English)—The more they speak of me the better I become known."

FREE ADVERTISEMENT

"That 'Aberdeen on a flag day' postcard (to those who do not know it shows Aberdeen's deserted main street) was one of the best advertisements that any town has ever had. It did not cost a penny."

"Just remind the Germans," another Aberdonian told the News Chronicle, "about Margaret Mann, the Aberdeen film star who won fame far beyond the bounds of Hollywood by her representation of the German mother in the once-famous picture, 'The Four Sons'."

"Margaret Mann never lost her grip of the Aberdeen tongue. Once when she had to plead with a German Lieutenant for one of her four sons she exclaimed with tears running down her cheeks, 'Oh hinna ye a mither o' yer ain'."

NOT BRUCE'S SPIDER

Then he told the tale of the two tired spiders which, after the manner of Burns's "Two dogs," began to tell each other of their troubles.

The spiders were travelling by train from Aberdeen to London. The first complained that he had had a rough time recently owing to curved corners and modern electric cleaners. Five of his families had been broken up and he could not find a corner to live in. The other spider chuckled and declared that he was getting on fine.

He had found a corner in a charity box in Aberdeen and brought up ten families.

Study Of Mars By U.S. Astronomer

CAPE TOWN.

Mr. E. C. Silliker, director of the Lowell Observatory, Arizona, has arrived at Bloemfontein to begin his observations of the approach of the planet Mars to the earth.

During the next few weeks South Africa will provide exceptionally favourable conditions for a photographic record of the planet.

Giant Raspberry: Yard-Wide Carrot

FIVE giant raspberries, each bigger than a penny, were among 20,000 botanical specimens which recently arrived at the Natural History Museum, South Kensington, from South America.

The collection was made by Mr. A. H. G. Alston while exploring the great Andean highway which runs from Caracas in Venezuela through Colombia to Quito, capital of Ecuador.

Mr. Alston has not ventured to test the taste of the raspberries because he did not want to lose even the few specimens which he found in the Colombian Andes in a region between the tree and snow lines.

Another curiosity is a low, thick, circular plant about a yard in diameter which looks like a great pin-cushion, but actually belongs to the carrot family.

There are gentians an inch high and tree ferns which grow to 20ft. and are used for house building.

LONG JOB FOR EXPERTS

"There are bound to be many new species in the collection," Mr. Alston said, "but it will take years of research by experts to work them out."

Thirty packing cases were required to carry the specimens, each dried and pressed flat inside a folded sheet of rough paper.

Small plants were dried whole. From tree ferns, which bear fronds as long as 15ft., sections of the leaves were cut at tip, middle and base.

Mr. Alston spent eight months observing the geographical distribution of the plants, gathering and drying them. Except for a month, when he was joined by a scientist from the Smithsonian Institute, Washington, he worked alone.

Travelling the narrow winding lane of the "highway" in a car which on the Pacific side, Mr. Alston lived in native houses and learned Spanish as he went along.

For the drying process he depended upon three household paraffin stoves.

Oil-Engined Car To Be Shown Soon

BRITISH motorists are soon to be offered an oil-engined car for the first time. One will be on exhibition at the Motor Show in the autumn.

The car will be American, but the engine is made by a British firm who have tested its quietness, flexibility, economy and performance on the Continent, in the Sahara and in Australia. One car completed 40,000 miles recently without trouble. The engine is a six-cylinder. Former disadvantages of weight, noise, and size, have been remedied. The chief advantages claimed by oil-engine makers are that there is greater fuel economy than with petrol engines, there are no electrical components except starter motor and dynamo, and high speed is now possible.

EMPIRE NEWS

MORE IMPORTS FOR NEW ZEALAND

Auckland. More goods are now being imported into New Zealand under special arrangements which will prevent a fall on overseas sterling funds for two years or more.

More English manufacturers of cigarettes have entered into such arrangements to keep their brands on the New Zealand market. A well-known brand of American cigarettes, supplies of which had disappeared from many shops in the past few weeks, is coming on the market again. Imports of cigars are also said to have been arranged by one distributor.

In a number of instances goods held up by the Customs because they were not covered by current licences have been released to the importers under such arrangements.

Poor Dairy Season.—One of the worst dairy seasons recorded in the Gisborne district is ended. The Kila Ora Co-operative Dairy Company Ltd. will finish with an output of only about 1,050 tons, or 500 tons lower than in 1937-38. The fall in the company's manufacture is about 82 per cent. Prospects appear good for the coming season.

AUSTRALIA

MORE SHIPS WANTED FOR PACIFIC

Sydney. Mr. Charles Holmes, general manager of the Australian National Travel Association, who has just returned to Australia from an American tour, says that expansion of the tourist traffic from North America to Australia depends upon the provision of more ships.

The present monthly services appear to be inadequate. He stresses the fact that the American tourist traffic to Australia has greatly increased within the last year or so.

Wheat Restriction Attacked.—A sharp attack on the proposal that Australia should reduce her wheat exports was made recently by Mr. A. A. Dunstan, Premier of Victoria. "The suggestion that Australia should embark on a nation-wide policy of restricted wheat production is tantamount to advocating industrial suicide," he declared.

KENYA

SETTLER FOUND SHOT DEAD.

NAIROBI. A search party found Major Holmes Jackson, a prominent settler, lying dead by the side of his car on the slopes of the extinct volcano Menengai. Death had been caused by a head wound. A rifle lay near by.

BRITISH GUIANA

CHARGE AGAINST ENGLISHMAN

GEORGETOWN. Richard B. Smith, of Derby, England, letting engineer at the Rosehall sugar plantation, Canje, was committed for trial on a manslaughter charge at Berbice Assizes. The police allege that Mr. Smith's car did not stop after he had knocked down and killed Frederick Norville on May 7.

INDIA

ATTEMPT ON 23,000FT. PEAK

CALCUTTA. The Swiss climbing party in the Himalayas, led by M. Andre Roch and including M. Ernest Huber, M. David Zogg and M. Fritz Steuri, have begun their ascent of Dunagiri, 23,184ft. The peak has never yet been reached.

If weather conditions permit attempts will also be made to climb Gauri Parbat, 21,750ft., Hahli Parbat, 22,070ft., Badrinath, 23,190ft., and Jule Mills. Trouble—Trouble! The recent decision of the Committee of the Indian Jute Mills Association to work "the equivalent of 45 hours per week" is being keenly resented, and the Bengal National Chamber of Labour as well as Bengal National Jute Workers' Union are preparing to resist it.

U.S. Fleet Manoeuvres

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (UP).—Navy officials state that they are studying alternative projects for the 1940 fleet manoeuvres and that the final decision would depend on world conditions. The scene of the manoeuvres will not be announced until autumn, but they will presumably be held in late January or early February.

Reports that the Manoeuvres will be held in the Hawaiian area are "speculative" and are based on the fact that they were held in the Caribbean last year. The manoeuvres are not usually held twice in the same ocean.

The non-committal attitude of the Navy officials has caused the impression that the final decision rests with President Roosevelt. It is recalled that the President suddenly altered the fleet plans to visit New York and sent them to the Pacific, presumably on account of world conditions.

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

LONDON, Aug. 9 (UP).—Great Britain to-day put 133 reserve warships on the active service list as Royal Air Force planes held mock fights over London.

King George reviewed the Reserve Fleet at Weymouth, and the fleet is starting out tonight for various bases, where it will join up with the Home Fleet.

Fifteen bombing planes this evening dropped white flares, representing bombs, over Central London, until they were repelled by fighting planes.

In other parts of the country groups of planes have been engaged in combat practice all throughout the day. Air Raid Precaution units, including women in steel helmets and anti-gas uniforms, took the right of way in the streets en route to their stations. Despite the postponement of the blackout the air manoeuvres are continuing.

Although there is no official information of any American loan at present, certain informed circles believe that a loan will be made available within six months, especially if Britain refuses aid.

Meeting in Shanghai

SHANGHAI, Aug. 10 (Reuters).—It is learned that Mr. Cyril Rogers of the Bank of England, who is a member of the Anglo-Chinese stabilisation fund committee, is at present in Shanghai, having come here unheralded from Hongkong.

Mr. Rogers has had meetings with the British Ambassador, Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, and other officials, and it is believed that the position of the Chinese currency formed the principal topic of discussion.

He arrived here several days ago, but news of his presence in Shanghai only leaked out yesterday.

It is understood that he is sailing back to Hongkong to-day.

Risked Life For Typists In Fire

MRS. Mary Ellen Williams, a 52-years-old office cleaner, of Stamford-street, S.E. recently quietly described her efforts to save a typist who died in the fire which swept a block of offices in Queen Victoria-street, City.

Her daughter, Mrs. Eileen Hughes, said, "Naturally I am proud of mother. She has always been level-headed in a crisis."

Mrs. Williams, a widow, had been employed at the offices only six months.

At City inquest later, she heard the jury return a verdict of Misadventure on the one she tried to save, little Emily Wrenn, aged 32, of Day's-lane, S.W.

It was said that the fire broke out in a sack of waste paper.

Mrs. Williams told how she was standing at the sink near the typists' room.

"I told them the building was on fire, and we had better all get out. There was no panic. I let the girls go by. I thought I should go last, because I was older, I suppose."

"They went up the ladder through the trap door to the roof, but Miss Wrenn turned back and said, 'I cannot go up there. It is too hot.'"

"I could see the panic in her eyes and told her, 'We will go back to the filing room. There is a window there.'"

"The filing room was black with smoke, and I was almost unconscious, but I held on to her. Then she collapsed and slipped through my arms. I could not find her again in the smoke."

"I struggled to a window and was going to jump when the crowd shouted."

"When a fireman came up the escape I said, 'There is a girl in there; get her.'"

"NO ARSON"

Fireman Gilbert Neel Lush, who climbed in to seek Miss Wrenn, said the smoke was so thick he could see nothing.

The coroner, Mr. J. Helme, told the jury, "There is no suggestion of malicious firing of the building. You have to consider whether there was failure by anybody to give the alarm."

The jury attached no blame. Mr. Helme commended the efforts of Mrs. Williams and Fireman Lush.

Fire In A London Hotel

MORE than 30 residents of the Albemarle Court Hotel, Leinster Gardens, W., ran to safety recently when fire broke out in one of the maids' rooms on the top floor.

The fire brigade was called and at first it was reported that some persons were trapped in the building.

Firemen searched the hotel, but it was found that everyone had left.

The brigade worked for over an hour before getting the fire under control.

Franco-Turkish Pact

PARIS, Aug. 9 (Reuters).—An agreement has been reached in the negotiations for a Franco-Turkish trade pact.

The terms have been sent to Ankara for the approval of the Turkish Government.

SIGNOR MUSSOLINI

HEART ATTACK REPORT DENIED

ROME, Aug. 9 (Trans-Ocean).—The report circulating abroad that Signor Mussolini had suffered a serious heart attack was emphatically denied by circles in close touch with Il Duce's family to-day.

Inquiry in these quarters elicited the reply that Signor Mussolini returned from his summer residence to Rome in order to attend to urgent business of State.

Immediately upon his arrival he received a number of leading persons, including the Duke of Aosta. He also issued a proclamation to the troops who had taken part in the autumn manoeuvres.

Stock Exchange Undertone Steady

LONDON, Aug. 9 (Reuters).—Although trading on the London Stock Exchange was again quiet, the undertone was steady, and gilt-edged holdings recovered after an early weakness.

Rubbers further improved on increasing interest.

New Zealand stock, recently issued, was quoted initially at 1/16th premium, though only small dealings were made.

Commodities were quietly steady, while Wall Street was easier.

War Resources Board For U.S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (Reuters).—Announcement of the formation of a civilian advisory "War Resources Board" to advise the military services in the current expansion of the forces, is made jointly by the army and navy.

The board would also become, in an emergency, an executive agency with broad powers, similar to the War Industries Board during the Great War.

Railway Collision

PRAGUE, Aug. 9 (Trans-Ocean).—Three were seriously injured and 39 others suffered superficial wounds when two passenger trains came into collision in the Wallachisch railway station.

The trains met head-on, and considerable damage was caused to the coaches.

It is not believed that the casualty list is yet complete.

Palestine Patrol Boat Sinks

JERUSALEM, Aug. 9 (Trans-Ocean).—The coastal patrol boat Sinbad, belonging to the British police force in Palestine, sank near Wadi Fakh, south of Nablus to-day, following an explosion on board.

One member of the crew, a British police sergeant, was killed.

Two of members of the crew of seven were injured and have been sent to hospital in Haifa.

Zionist Conference

GENEVA, Aug. 9 (Reuters).—Non-cooperation with the British Government in retaliation for the suspension of Jewish immigration in Palestine and the White Paper policy, was urged by Rabbi Meir Berlin in his opening address at the world conference of the Mizrahi (the orthodox wing of the world Zionist organisation).

Rabbi Berlin urged the Jews of the world to mobilise to fight against the curtailment of historic Jewish rights in Palestine.

He declared that immigration must continue despite the artificial restrictions. All Zionist groups should get their differences and form a united front to combat the British Government's new policy.

U.S. FREIGHTER AFIRE AT SEE

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
BOSTON, Aug. 9 (UP).—The local Coast Guard Station has received a radio report from the American freighter Pipestone County, saying she is afire 700 miles north-east of Boston. The report says "not yet serious."

The New York Coast Guard Office said that the Cutter Chelan radioed the freighter, who advised that there was a fire in the hold.

The message added: "Not yet extinguished, outcome uncertain, Coast Guard assistance desired."

It is estimated that the Cutter Champlain will reach the freighter within nine hours.

Mexican Proposals

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (Reuters).—The Mexican Government's new proposals for settling the oil expropriation dispute will involve vesting in a neutral third party of the balance of power over the oil properties, according to well-informed circles here.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (Reuters).—The Imperial Airways flying-boat Caribou, which has just completed its first North Atlantic flight, left New York on the return flight to England at 4.09 p.m. local time.

The Sun Attacks HERE

Strong, warm sunshine is pleasant to the body but it is hard on the eyes. The brilliant light causes eye-strain which, in turn, brings headaches and ageing lines. The hot, dust-laden atmosphere encourages microbes, and dries up the natural moisture round the eyes, causing ocular congestion and leading to all kinds of eye-troubles.

Optrex eye lotion stops all this. Its regular use prevents strain, removes dust and germs, strengthens the eye muscles and keeps your eyes happy and healthy. Optrex is recommended by Doctors and Opticians all over the world.

On Guard

THE demonstrations by Britain's armed forces England is witnessing this week are a comforting reminder that our Homeland is fully prepared and able to meet any sudden challenge from the Totalitarians.

The aerial and naval manoeuvres now taking place are the greatest combined defence operations the world has ever witnessed. His Majesty the King yesterday reviewed over 130 warships comprising the Reserve Fleet, whilst 1,300 planes have taken to the air in mass attack and defence on a scale that no other nation has attempted.

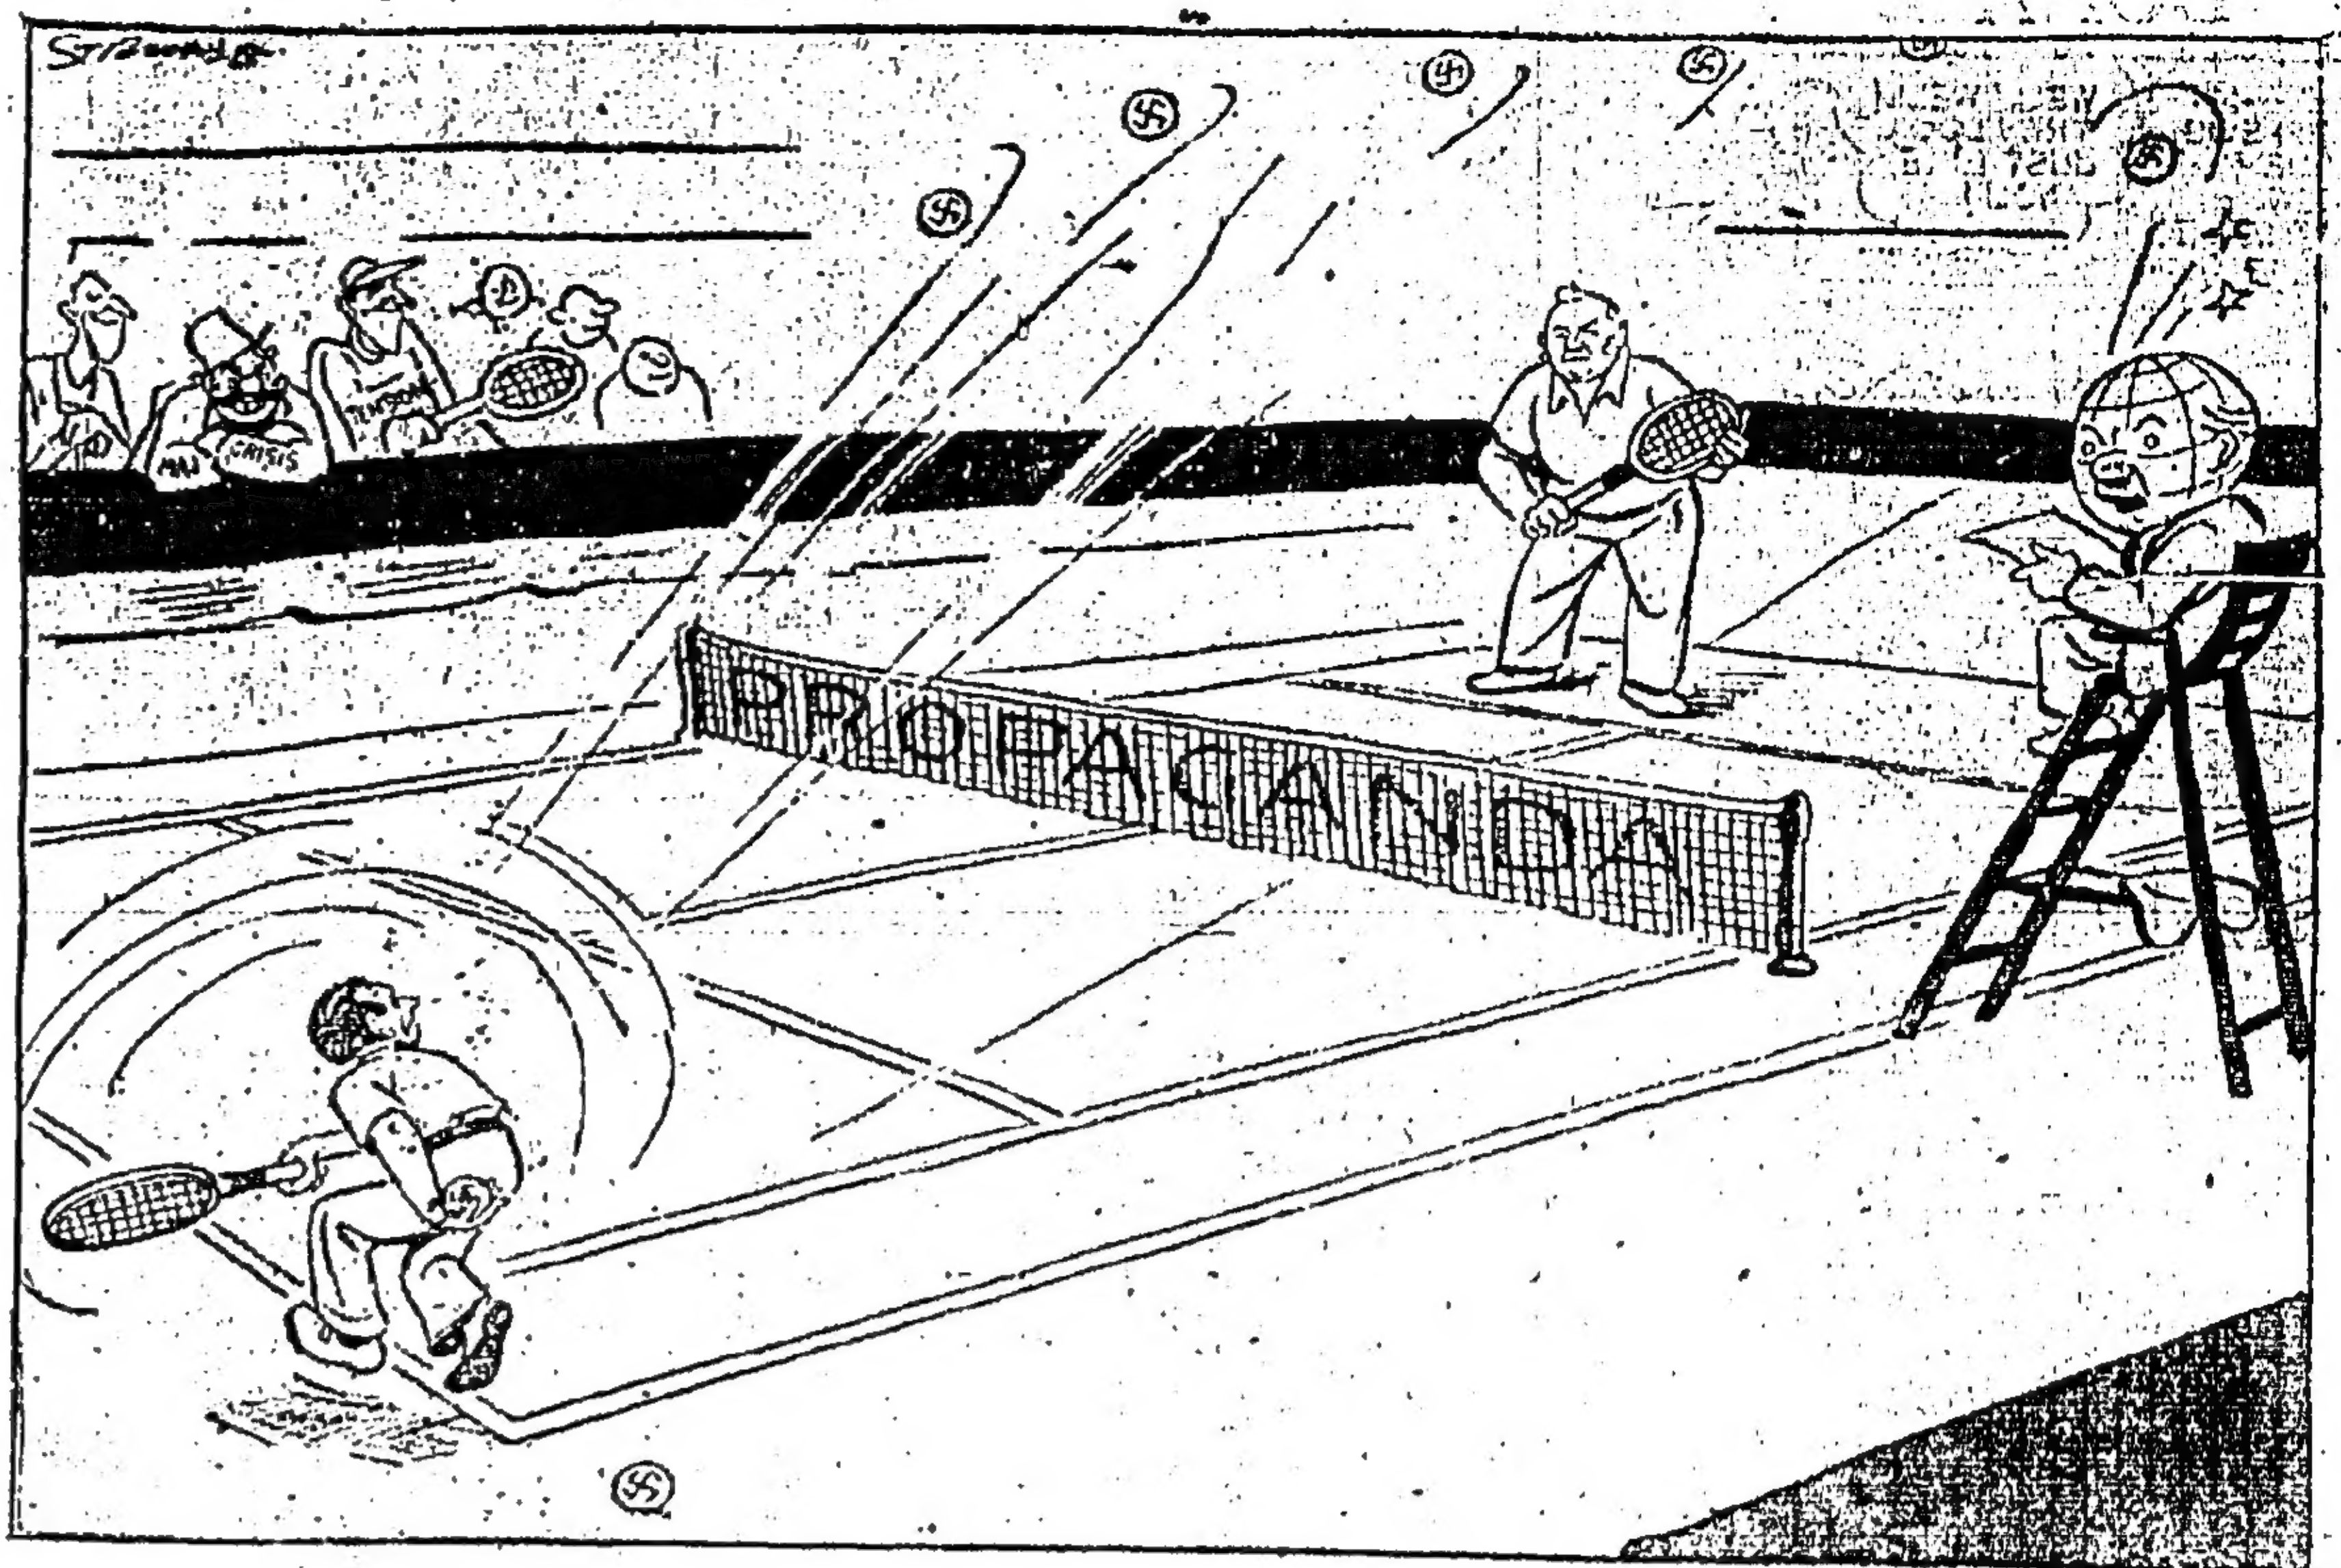

Mobilisation of the Reserve fleet alone has entailed the calling up of an additional 12,000 retired naval officers, reservists and pensioners, and it is computed that nearly 1,000,000 men and women have been mobilised in connection with the air defence tests.

Even more significant than the scope of the manoeuvres is the fact that they have started this year several weeks earlier than is customary. In short, these vast displays of aerial and naval power coincide with the period of the year when peace or war may be decided.

The British combined manoeuvres are certain to be characterised as "provocation" in the Axis Press. Yet in fact they are the logical and necessary reply to the mobilisation of troops which has already taken place in Germany and Italy and is still going on. Just in case Herr Hitler or Signor Mussolini are preparing to make trouble, Britain has prepared to meet it.

The decision for peace or war in Europe rests still, as it has rested for so long, with Herr Hitler and with him alone. If he decides for peace, the British manoeuvres will run their course and the participants will go home again. If he decides in favour of a new adventure in aggression, at least he knows what to expect.

The impressive exercises now under way (they will continue, in the case of the Navy, until October) leave no possible ground for misunderstanding about Britain's will and capacity to act.

CHAMPION OF LOST CAUSES

I SHALL just call him Bill for I know he would hate publicity. The first time I saw him he was crouching behind a pile of sandbags, covered with grime and caked blood, and blazing away with a rifle at the troops of the legally elected Government of Brazil.

It was during a revolt in Sao Paulo, and although the rebels had captured the town they were losing steadily, and it was obvious, that their cause was lost.

I heard Bill cursing in English, with a pronounced Scottish accent, so I paused in my cautious crawling behind the barbed wire and asked what he was doing. Bill just grinned.

I reached the comparative safety of a shop, and was resting there for a moment when Bill came in. He was off duty for an hour, so we talked.

At first he did not seem inclined to explain what he was doing taking part in the internal quarrels of a foreign country. He tried to put me off with the excuse that "it was fun," and that "he just found himself in it."

When I pointed out that he had no right to be taking part in an affair which did not concern him, he became annoyed. "Damn it all," he said, "it's 50 to 1 against the rebels. The Government has sent up fresh troops. The rebels haven't a chance! I couldn't help feeling they needed some help."

He said some other things, too, and I began to understand. "So," I said, "You are a champion of lost causes." Bill looked like an uncomfortable schoolboy, and murmured something about "the underdog."

I did not see Bill for some time after. But I read about him. A British subject was arrested in Buenos Aires for obstructing the police in the execution of their duty and for assault. It was Bill, of course, and his only excuse was that there were three policemen trying to arrest one man and using physical force.

Bill had just joined in to level things a bit. He spent three months in an Argentine jail for that.

Years after I heard of him being mixed up in another South American revolution, and again he was on the losing side. And once I got a letter from him when he was on his way

THIRTEEN hundred Royal Air Force planes are participating this week in the greatest aerial manoeuvres Britain has witnessed. It is, in effect, the coming of age of the modern R.A.F.

At the end of the Great War the air power of Britain was supreme, but, true to our tradition, we began to lower our defences as soon as hostilities ceased and our Air Force was the first to suffer.

It gradually sank to fifth or sixth place, and, but for the revelation of its weakness when we were at odds with Italy over Abyssinia, it might have gone down lower still.

There was no escaping the hard fact that we were outclassed in the air, and since then we have been busy on a series of reconstructive programmes so that we might re-assume the position of an Air Power to be reckoned with.

IT is wholly fitting, therefore, that the coming of age of the R.A.F. should arrive with the completion of the programme as originally conceived, equipping the national defence with a Metropolitan Air Force which numbers 1,750 first-line aircraft of modern type.

Last May that figure was stepped up to 2,370, and there appears to be every hope that this new total will be reached in twelve months.

Behind this frontage there will then exist, moreover, a back area, as it were, of industrial and Ministerial activity to ensure that, in material and personnel, this first-line force can maintain its strength notwithstanding the severe losses which are anticipated in air warfare of the future.

Sir Kingsley Wood's speech in presentation of the Air Estimates, and the full-dress debate in discussion of them has displayed to the world at large an imposing facade of British air power.

Production mounts by leaps and bounds, the types on order are as good as scientific ingenuity can devise, the training establishments are full, and recruits are pouring in.

SUPPORTING the Regular units are many auxiliary and volunteer formations calculated at one end immediately to replace casualties, and at the other to provide a mass reserve which after further training may be drawn on to fill the gaps.

to China to help to defend Manchuria.

After that I neither saw nor heard of him for a long time. I did hear of him, finally, back here in Scotland. He was working heroically for national peace organisation! I was somewhat puzzled by this until I realised that there was another cause likely to be lost.

Time passed and I met him again. He was as full of enthusiasm as ever. He was off to Spain to fight for the Government. I could not resist asking—

PLEASE Turn To Page 7.

Nor is this all. Developments are taking place in the Dominions, particularly Australia and Canada, which will not only make these smaller Air Forces a powerful Imperial reinforcement, but will convert them into reservoirs of material equipment to supplement home manufacture.

Finally, in the background, stands the U.S.A., likely at the very least to be benevolently neutral, with a huge productive capacity available to us.

All this points to the belief that our resources are vast enough to bear down any enemy combination in the long run, and no one realises that position better than Herr Hitler.

Over there they are pinning their faith on the "blitzkrieg," as they call it, or a lightning war, and the German wheels of industry are turning on that account alone. We can hardly hope to overtake their output in actual preparation for the stroke, for they have gained a long lead on us.

A country which is straining every nerve to encase itself in armour, which is as highly industrialised as we ourselves, which has a labour scarcity instead of grievous unemployment, and which can name the day, is hard to overtake in armament production.

This fever of preparation is in the nature of a gamble, depending for success on what is hoped to be the pulverising effect of mass bombardment from the air. But if this hope is disappointed, then the very earnestness of the preliminary efforts will rebound on their own heads.

They will have spent themselves, before war breaks, for a machine which is geared to the highest pitch can do no more, and, when overstrained by the dislocating effect of internal hurry which war brings in train it is likely to do much less.

WE, on the other hand, provided we survive the first resounding blows, can speed up our machine with the prolongation of hostilities and have it running smoothly on top gear when the other is creaking badly. Our resources are illimitable.

Confronted with a situation of that kind, we have to be more than careful in the composition of our air power. Logically, and long before such a situation arises, we should have imposed on ourselves a two-Power standard in the air as once we did at sea.

The threat of air attack by superior air power can be, as we have lately seen, a weapon in itself. It is undeniable that a sense of inferiority, and the spectre of the bomber over France and England, enabled Hitler to call our bluff at Munich.

It is too late now to build up our air power to anything like equality with that of Germany, let alone a two-Power standard, while parity is merely a vague expression. We let slip the opportunity when we had it in our grasp.

All we can do now is to adjust the balance between our fighter and our bomber forces that each can play its part in the service of our national defence, remembering that equally with the head and heart of Empire, which are the British Isles, we must protect its veins and arteries, which are its sea communications, and its extremities and lower limbs, which are our Dominions beyond the seas.

NOW, in our peculiarly balanced air force is a matter of delicate adjustment, for we are vulnerably situated and our capital lies on the threshold of the country. "It is our base of operations and must, at all costs, be made reasonably secure. But not to the detriment of our bombing capacity."

Without ability to carry war to the enemy we are merely covering up and allowing him to raid us when and where he cares, without the power on our part of taking adequate reprisal. The enemy is just as apprehensive of air attack as we are, but if it came to his knowledge that we were developing our fighter arm, purely for home defence, at the expense of our own raiding power it would relieve him from much anxiety on that score and enable him to concentrate on bombing.

The public is reassured to hear of our growing air power, but it presumes that it will be built up according to the needs of strategy, and with a view to knocking out the other side.

THIS cannot be if it is mainly designed to meet the raider overhead and stop him getting through. Our base of operations must have, of course, sufficient fighters, but there are other means of protecting it, such as by anti-aircraft fire, the balloon barrage and reliable forms of A.R.P.

Air warfare has a cruel logic of its own. We must expect to be knocked about as long as the enemy has power to deliver the blows, but the extent of his activities in that respect will depend on our capacity for returning tit for tat.

Such is the background of the colossal expenditure on air defence and of the Votes which are now agreed to.

We can produce the aircraft, we can enrol the men, and we have the money, too. It is only now to be hoped that the functioning is properly understood and that, above all, the bomber force should not be denuded in favour of the fighter for the sake of an appearance of security which is false. Otherwise we may well congratulate ourselves that our house will be very soon in order.

Britain's Defences Broken

First Results Of Mock Air Attack

London, Aug. 9. Latest reports regarding 1,300 Royal Air Force aeroplanes taking part in the air exercises indicate that some of the invaders succeeded in breaching the defences at certain points, but weather enabling them to avoid the observers.

Hundreds of spectators in the early hours watched the dog-fight over London. Twelve bombers coming from the coast dropped white flares over the city, representing bombs. Three more bombers joined the raiders, but were followed by interceptor fighting planes, and a mimic battle ensued, as they attacked the bombers which five minutes later departed, apparently vanquished.

A number of other points are believed to have been attacked, but how far the raiders penetrated is not yet known.—Reuter.

Touche Of Reality

London, Aug. 9. The second day of the air war opened with touches of reality, with four dead at Tolworth when a bomber crashed in a field and the gas tanks exploded. A fifth member of the crew jumped from the gun turret and escaped with a badly cut head.

Two destroyers and a number of Royal Air Force speed boats are still searching the Thames Estuary and the North Sea for any trace of the bomber reported to have crashed in the sea, after conflicting reports had indicated that four planes were flying.

Bad flying conditions caused two forced landings in Essex and a third near York. No persons were injured.—United Press.

Belisha Accused

London, Aug. 9. Commenting on Mr. Hore Belisha's absence in France during the exercises, the Daily Herald says "he is on holiday and cannot be disturbed." The newspaper says that since he is responsible for the country's defence, he should attend the exercises.—Trans-Ocean.

Australian Warships

London, Aug. 9. Two Australian cruisers, the Canberra and the Sydney, left Melbourne on Tuesday for a cruise around the eastern, northern and western coasts of the Australian continent, after which they will proceed to Singapore, calling at ports in the Netherlands East Indies.—Trans-Ocean.

Strengthening Singapore

London, Aug. 9. The usually well informed York Post says it is intended to bring the Singapore garrison up to a total of 12,000 men.

Henceforth all troops destined for Hongkong and other British Far Eastern possessions will be despatched directly from Singapore, instead of from India.

In the event of war, the Singapore garrison, will, according to the paper, be further reinforced by contingents from Australia and New Zealand.—Trans-Ocean.

Stringent Rules

Gibraltar, Aug. 9. Three-day air raid exercises on a most extensive scale start at 9 p.m. to-day with participation for the first time of territorial anti-aircraft units, special constabulary, civilians and also military units.

The Governor has issued strict orders for darkening houses and banning pedestrians and motor cars, except official, from the streets. Offenders are liable to a fine of £100. Official motor cars must have their lights dimmed. Shops and houses of entertainment will close early.—United Press.

N. Z. Endorses Policy

Wellington, Aug. 9. The acting Premier stated to-day that the Government has approved the British Government's defence policy. This was made in answer to the Opposition members' declaration that his Party had no friendly feeling towards the British leaders.—Reuter Bulletin.

ing him if he were doing to get "peace plects" signatures. Bill certainly did blush, at least.

Poor Bill! He is back from Spain now, but he left an arm in a field hospital. He is still cheery, and has started work again. I believe he has something to do with organising unemployed demonstrations.

"I wonder if this time the champion of lost cause has changed sides?" Miller Watson.

JAPAN NOT YET DECIDED ABOUT MILITARY PACT

Tokyo, Aug. 9. Although no final decision was taken to Japan's policy towards the European situation, at yesterday's Five-Minister Conference, informed quarters understand that the Army's views were examined by the key members of the Cabinet.

At the outset of the meeting, the War Minister, General Itagaki, proposed that although Japan's fundamental policy in Europe was decided upon by the Government on June 5, further discussion should be made in view of the latest developments in the European situation.

He then explained fully the Army's views.

Report To Emperor

Tokyo, Aug. 9. General Itagaki will proceed to the Imperial Villa at Hayama on Thursday morning and report to the Emperor on matters under his jurisdiction.

A joint conference was held at noon to-day between the War Office, Army General Staff, and the Inspector-General of Military Education. It was understood that the Army's attitude towards the European situation was discussed.

Present at the meeting were Lieut.-General Itagaki, the War Minister, General Tachibana, Inspector-General of Military Education, Lieut.-General Nakajima, Vice-Chief of the Army General Staff, Lieut.-General Yamawaki, Vice-Minister of War, and other officials.—Domel.

Emancipating Japan

Tokyo, Aug. 9. Commenting on the Japanese policy in Europe, the Kokumin Shinbun says that a tripartite alliance is necessary for disposing of the China situation.

If Japan is satisfied with retention of North China, there will be no necessity to conclude a tripartite alliance between Japan, Germany and Italy. Great Britain and the United States will be only too glad to co-operate with Japan in economic developments in China if Japan's activity is limited to the North.

The newspaper asserts that antagonism between Japan and Britain and America is necessarily growing as the result of Japan's attempts to construct a new order in East Asia by emancipating China from her semi-colonial status. This is certain to happen no matter whether Japan concludes a military alliance with Italy and Germany or not.

Consequently, the newspaper asserts, there is no reason why Japan should hesitate to conclude the tripartite alliance with Germany and Italy who form the spear-head of the anti-British campaign in Europe.

The Chugai Shogyo says that those who advocate strengthening of the anti-Communist pact and conclusion a military alliance between Germany, Italy and Japan, are motivated by the desire to terminate the China Affair speedily.

Japan's policy is aimed at construction of a new order in East Asia through the China Affair and Japan should, therefore, befriend those Powers who sincerely co-operate with Japan and should not rely on either Democracies or Totalitarianism.—Domel.

SPANISH CABINET SHUFFLE

Paris, Aug. 9. Certain details of the reconstruction of the Spanish Cabinet following reorganisation of the Falange (Fascist) Party, making the Party a decisive influence in the life of Spain, have been officially revealed at Burgos.

Two surprises are that General Franco will be Prime Minister without portfolio, and the post of Vice-Premier, previously held by General Jordana, will be suppressed.

The premiership was supposed to have been reserved for General Franco's brother-in-law, Senor Sener, pro-Axis minister of the Interior, but according to well-informed quarters in Burgos, Senor Sener has become President of the Falange Political Junta.

It is believed that the influence of the Junta will certainly be increased by the suppression of the vice-premiership, General Jordana having been one of General Franco's principal advisers hitherto.

An official communiqué shows there will be 12 Ministers in the new Cabinet against 11 previously. It states that the work of the Minister of Defence, formerly General Davila, will be done by the Ministers of War, Navy and Air. It is believed that Senor Sener will also retain the Minister of Interior, other portfolios being Finance, Industry and Commerce, Foreign Affairs, Agriculture, Education, Public Works and Labour.

Report from Tangier states that Colonel Benabdler, High Commissioner of Spanish Morocco, will be the new Foreign Minister, replacing General Jordana.—Reuter.

Supreme Council Formed

Burgos, Aug. 9. A decree reorganising the Government announced the creation of a Supreme Council for National Defence with Franco himself at its head.

The Supreme Council replaces the single wartime Ministry of National Defence.

Under Franco there will be three new ministers for the Army, Navy and Air Force, all of them Generals, with

New Chinese Play

London, Aug. 9. "The Professor from Peking," a new play by Si Hsiang of "Lady Precious Stream" fame, produced at the Malvern Festival, is a story of various stages of professors' advancement from obscurity to political importance under the revolution.

Critics are puzzled and not too favourable. They say the play is well acted, but the narrative is confused and probably reads better than it acts.—Reuter.

REFUSED TO BE STRIPPED

New Incident In Tientsin

Tientsin, Aug. 9. The firmness of a Briton, Mr. H. McClure Anderson, saved him from an attempt by the Japanese to strip him of the barriers shortly after noon to-day.

Mrs. McClure Anderson and Mrs. W. O'Hara had some urgent business to transact this morning in the former German Concession to which they were admitted without difficulty, but when they attempted to return to the British Concession through the Shansi Road barrier, they were told that they must re-enter by the Woodrow Wilson Street barrier through which they had entered the former German Concession. Return barrier they were not permitted to enter, it being pointed out that this barrier is only for exit from the British Concession.

Mrs. Anderson then telephoned to her husband who went out by car and took them to the Shansi Road barrier, where he presented his passport. He was firmly declined, stating that they could examine his pockets in which there were nothing except his glasses and odds and ends. He had nothing else concealed about his person. After an argument lasting about five minutes he was permitted to pass through.

Mr. McClure Anderson is a noted local architect and an old China hand. Mrs. O'Hara is the wife of the Director of Collins and Company.—Reuter.

Food Restriction

Tientsin, Aug. 9. Residents of Tientsin this morning were able to purchase fresh beef for the first time this week owing to the slaughter-house strike ending.

The Japanese army organ, the Yung Pao claimed that an agreement has been reached between the farmers and contractors but did not mention the price of hides to the War Department.

Beef is being retained now at 60 cents per pound in the Concession markets while it is being sold for 40 cents outside. Still keepers explain that the difference is due to "palm greasing" at the barriers around the Concession.—United Press.

A.R.P. EXAMINATIONS

The personnel of the Supreme Council is not yet announced, but it is regarded as an indication of the strong part the military hierarchy is to play in the country's reconstruction.

Official circles consider it a reply to those foreign commentators who are held here to have doubted Franco's ability to control any dissident elements in the political situation.—Reuter.

King's Busy Day

REVIEWS RESERVE FLEET

London, Aug. 9. Travelling all night by special train from Scotland, the King to-day reviewed in Weymouth Bay the Reserve Fleet since the War.

Stretching in fourteen long lines across the spacious bay were 133 ships ranging from men-of-war like the veteran Iron Duke, flagship of Admiral Jellicoe at the Battle of Jutland, to motor torpedo-boats of the latest but most modern arm of the Navy.

Weymouth's temporary population had more than doubled since His Majesty had passed through the town on the way to Dartmouth three weeks ago. Apart from 30,000 holiday makers, 50,000 day trippers arrived in town during the morning by road and rail. Many of the arrivals were unable to find accommodation and slept in bathing tents and back huts.

Twelve thousand officers and men of the Reserve Fleet, most of them veterans of the Great War, were early astir and by 8 a.m. all ships were dressed overall in readiness for the Royal visit. The long lines of vessels presented a striking picture of grace and power in the early morning sunshine.

Cheering Crowds

Long before the arrival of the King, crowds began to line the belting route of His Majesty's motor drive from the station. The King, in the dress uniform of the Reserve Fleet, drove through the dense line of cheering people. Awaiting the King at the embankment point were Lord Stanhope and Vice-Admiral Sir Dudley North. As the King stepped into the Royal barge, the bigger vessels thundered a salute of 21 guns.

Nearby was the Admiralty yacht Enchantress with members of the Board of Admiralty and Admiral of the Fleet Darlan, Chief of French Naval Staff, aboard. They later went aboard the Victoria and Albert where they were presented to the King.

After a brief stay the King, attended by Lord Stanhope and high naval officers, returned to the Royal barge and began his long review of the Reserve Fleet. His Majesty first visited the aircraft carrier Courageous, where he inspected 1,500 reserves, where he inspected 1,500 reserves, where he inspected 1,500 reserves.

Visibility was poor and the weather gradually deteriorated since the early sunshine.

Meetings Banned: Police Take Precautions

Shanghai, Aug. 9. Settlement and Concession authorities have banned all meetings since August 6. Early this morning, a general mobilisation of the police forces in the Settlement and Concessions was made.

The International Volunteer Corps also took part in patrolling the streets. Armed with revolvers, police began this morning examining all passers-by at recently erected barriers along Nanking Road, Avenue Edward VII, and other streets.

Emergency fortresses were set up along the perimeter of the French Concession where tanks and armoured cars were standing by.

The British, American and Italian defence forces stationed along the Settlement boundary constructed additional barbed-wire barricades at all approaches to the Settlement. All bridges on Soochow Creek are temporarily closed to traffic with the western district.

Curfew is strictly enforced after midnight. The emergency policing measures will be continued until the night of August 15.—Domel.

Berlin, Aug. 9. The establishment of a peoples' register embracing all Germans between the ages of five and 70, and listing qualifications, training and physical condition of every man and woman, has been ordered by Dr. Frick, Minister of the Interior.

The register, which will be formed between August 13 and 15, makes exceptions only in the case of foreigners, active Army officers, and soldiers and labour training men serving the full training period. The register will be arranged according to year classes.

It is stated that the register is being prepared for the purpose of supplementing the Police register. It is added, however, that the register will serve national defence, and also, should Germany be attacked, women as well as men must support the fighting army by employment in the homeland in greater measure than during the world war.—United Press.

Japanese Becoming Impatient

Lingering Tokyo Parleys

Tokyo, Aug. 9. Sir Robert Craigie held an interview with Mr. Sotomatsu Kato, chief Japanese delegate to the Anglo-Japanese conference at the Tokyo Club yesterday afternoon.

It is understood that Sir Robert told the Japanese official that the instructions received from London yesterday morning were connected with the police questions and that the British Government's views on the currency questions were not made known yet.

He pointed out that if the negotiations were to be resumed immediately, the police questions would have to be settled first. He said that he could not tell when his Government's views on the economic questions could be transmitted because the British Government was still consulting third Powers concerned.

If Japan insists that the police and economic questions must be dealt with simultaneously, he regretted that he was still unable to make any proposal for resumption of the conversations.

Sir Robert added that Britain had no intention of deliberately delaying the progress of the parleys and that the British Government was considering with sincerity possible settlement of the pending questions.

Mr. Kato replied that it was up to the British Government to consult third Powers but that Japan regarded Britain as the other party in the negotiations designed to settle local issues in the British Concession in Tientsin. He said that his already affirmed by Japanese authorities Japan would find it difficult to make further consideration for the procedure of the conference.

After his interview Mr. Kato reported his conversations with Sir Robert to the Foreign Minister, Mr. H. Arita.

A joint conference will be held to-day between the Foreign Office and the War Ministry to discuss the steps to be taken by Japan in coping with the British attitude. It is understood that Mr. Kato will make an important communication to Sir Robert following the conference.

Some circles understand that Britain's postponement of the settlement of the economic questions would be due to the latest developments in the delicate international situation.

Sir Robert following the interview visited the French and American Embassies.

It is understood that the British Ambassador informed the French and American Ambassadors of London's decisions regarding the parleys on the basis of the fresh instructions.—Domel.

Japanese Impatience

Tokyo, Aug. 9. Officials of the Ministry of War and the Foreign Office met this morning to discuss measures to deal with the deadlock in the Anglo-Japanese talks resulting from Sir Robert Craigie's not receiving any further instructions.

Japanese reports said they are planning "effective and adequate steps" to meet the situation.—United Press.

Japanese Reply

Tokyo, Aug. 9. Asked by a foreign correspondent whether the delay in the resumption of the conference had any connection with the Japanese Five-Minister Conference on the Foreign Office to-day said that he had no knowledge of the suggestion.

A foreign correspondent asked whether France and the United States would be consulted regarding the economic questions. The spokesman said that the matter could be settled between Japan and Britain.

The spokesman understood that Mr. Kato would probably meet Sir Robert to-day to reply to the latter's proposals made yesterday.—Domel.

More Aerial Fighting Over Border

Undisclosed Base, Aug. 9. Entirely novel tactics in the art of aerial warfare were successfully employed by Japanese air forces in the mid-air battle with Soviet and Outer Mongol planes over the confluence of the Khalka and Holston Rivers on Monday.

Upon receipt of reports that Soviet machines were flying in a mass formation from the south-west of Lake Baikal, Japanese units hopped off and ranged themselves into three vertically-separated formations.

As they encountered the 60 Soviet and Outer Mongol aircraft of the I-10 type the middle group of the Japanese forces first smashed into the enemy lines.

With their formation disorganised, the Soviet planes attempted to get the upper hand of the Japanese by soaring higher into the sky, when, however, they were waylaid by the upper unit of Japanese fighters who swooped down upon them through the clouds.

Puzzled by the unexpected ambush, the Soviets this time began to dive down in disorder, when they were severely struck by the lowest Japanese formation.

The Soviet air forces literally suffered a smashing defeat and only 13 out of the total flight of 60 managed to make good their escape.—Domel.

INDIAN R.C. TO MEET CHINESE R.C. IN PLAY-OFF

ROBSON AND NISH IN LAST FOUR OF OPEN BOWLS PAIRS

Peculiar Scoring In Some Of The Singles Matches

Several interesting matches were played in the Open Bowls Championships yesterday. In the quarter-finals of the Pairs, T. E. Robson and H. Nish defeated G. Duncan and W. Gill by 26-16, while ten more matches were decided in the second round of the Singles.

Playing consistently, Robson and Nish scored on 11 heads against their opponents' ten, but what really gave them their wide margin of victory were the two fives which they registered in the course of the match, the first on the seventh head and the second on the 17th. Apart from these two fives, there was very little in the scoring of the two pairs.

Robson and Nish, however, led all the way, 6-1 on the fifth, 15-6 on the tenth, 19-10 on the 15th and 24-10 on the 20th.

In the Singles, the most peculiar game was seen on the Kowloon F.C. green, where A. M. Omar defeated a club-mate, E. Zimmerman, by 21-13. On the seventh head Zimmerman was leading 10-4, but he never scored again, whereas his opponent "chalked" up 4, 3, 3, 4, 1 and 4 on successive ends.

Zimmerman broke down completely on the last six heads, and the match concluded on the 13th.

On the same green, L. J. Silva eliminated F. Channing by 21-13, requiring 17 heads in the process. Silva had a four on the sixth end, and two threes, while Channing also had two threes amongst his failures.

DALLAH THROUGH
A. R. Dallah reached the semi-finals last year, made further progress at the expense of a team-mate, D. M. Khan, whom he defeated by 21-9. Dallah was shaky at the start and allowed his opponent to take a lead of 7-1 on the sixth head, but he made a good recovery and conceded only one more shot after this. Khan led 9-5 on the ninth end, but thereafter Dallah had 3-1, 3-1, 3, 2, and 3 to reach his game.

On the Police R.C. green, H. Gittins, after leading by 14-0 on the sixth head, defeated K. M. Omar 21-8 on the 16th head. Omar scored only on four heads in the course of the game. Each player registered a four.

C. E. Remedios, a former champion of Shanghai, was a little too steady for S. M. White on the Kowloon F.C. green and won by 21-9. Remedios led all the way, and had one solid spell of scoring when, from 8-7 on the 11th end, he took the score to 19-7 on the 17th.

Trailing behind J. S. Logan at 9-10 on the 14th head, R. Basa finished up with six winning heads which were sufficient to give him game. He had 1, 3, 3, 2, 1, and 2 to reach his 21 shots.

On the Indian R.C. green, A. J. Hall started well against J. H. Gelling and led 7-0 after four heads. On the seventh he was 11-2 in the lead, but on the 10th he had an advantage of only two shots, 11-9. However, with a single and a three on the next two ends, he was 15-9 in the lead, and at the 18th, he was leading 20-11. For four heads, Gelling prevented him from taking the all-important point. Gelling himself, however, could only score singles on these four

Here And There With "Abe"

Right Spirit Shown By Local Soccer Officials

EVEN if one does not think highly of Hongkong's chances of winning in the circumstances, one must admire the spirit of the Hongkong Football Association in having already decided to send a team to Shanghai in November to resume the Interport series with that city. A letter to this effect will shortly be written to the Shanghai F.A., and if the latter agree, a Hongkong team will definitely go up. What sort of a team it will be is difficult to hazard a guess at the moment. Obviously if the Navy and Army players are not available and if the South China A.A. stars refuse to go to Shanghai, the Colony cannot hope to have anything better than a moderate team. But the idea seems to be that the result of the Interport does not matter very much; however, that Hongkong should fulfil its obligations does a great deal. It was the turn of the Colony to send a team north last year, but for various reasons it was decided not to do so. Now, however, the Hongkong F.A. have sufficient funds and they are making haste to assure Shanghai that a team will travel north to resume the series.

Bloody Mess
WHEN the fight between Max Baer and Lou Nova took place nearly two months ago, the cables merely said it was a good fight and made no mention of the brutality of the exchanges. In a recent issue of Time, the American newsmagazine, the following appeared, however, on the fight:

It was a roughhouse brawl. They hit with the backs of their gloves, they hit below the belt, they hit after the bell. They spat blood, dripped blood, slobbered blood. It was the sort of fight a reputable U.S. citizen would be horrified to see in a waterfront saloon. Yet last week's primitive performance was billed as a top-notch heavyweight boxing match—staged in New York's Yankee Stadium to select a September challenger for the world's championship. And $10,000 presumably reputable U.S. citizens paid up to U.S. $11.50 a seat to watch it.

Sport And Politics

IT is all very well for theorists to say that sport and politics should not mix. But in actual fact, they frequently do. The Royal Navy cannot release players because of the uncertainty of ship movements; the Army cannot guarantee that permission will be given to their players to go to Shanghai, probably because the present political situation does not warrant the authorities to allow soldiers to be absent from their units for long; and the Chinese simply refuse to play in Shanghai because of the Japanese influence in that city. You may remember that Lee Wai-long, a few months ago agreed to go to Shanghai to take part in a series of exhibition soccer games, the proceeds of what were to go to War Relief. But such a fuss was made in the Chinese press that the country's soccer idol deemed it expedient to decline the invitation. The same situation prevails at the moment. There you are. Take away the Navy, Army and South China players, and what have we left? Nothing very much, I am afraid. But the Hongkong F.A. apparently are determined to make the trip if Shanghai wants them to send a team. That's the spirit!

Tennis Visitors
UNLESS their steamer has been delayed, the tennis team from Thailand, which is making a good-will tour abroad, will reach Hongkong to-day. There is no need for me to say that Hongkong tennis enthusiasts welcome them to these shores. The team consists of Muang Hoeng (present champion of Thailand), Sanoh, Police Captain Rasom Chaitakavanti, a Cambridge "Blue" of 1934, and Miss Samgarn, the lady champion of her country. Muang Roeng and Sanoh are already well-known in Hongkong as they have already played here before in a series of exhibition matches arranged by Mr. Vilas Ostanando, Thailand Trade Commissioner in the Colony, some years ago but Chaitakavanti and Miss Samgarn are strangers. During their stay in Hongkong, an Interport match will be played on Davis Cup lines, that is, four singles and one doubles spread over three days. The programme of matches was announced yesterday. The Tsui brothers are taking on the singles and the Rumjahn cousins are playing the doubles. If the visitors play up to form, there should be some very interesting matches indeed.

Cricket Story

THIS story comes from an Australian sailor, attached to a boat which recently docked at Portsmouth. Said sailor, just before leaving Sydney, took part in a cricket match between his own ship's crew and a rival crew. One of the teams turned up a man short and a "rookie" a newcomer to the Australian Navy was asked to fill the vacancy. Being a "rookie," few of the players, most of all his captain, a commanding officer, took much notice of the stranger and he was put in No. 11. When he went in to bat his side had lost nine wickets for a paltry 50 runs or so, but in less than no time he more than doubled the score before he lost his last wicket partner. Asked if he could bowl, the "rookie" said "yes, a bit." He then proceeded to skittle the opponents over for less than 40, his share being nine cheap wickets. After it was all over the rather bumptious commanding officer said: "Look here, rookie, you're almost good enough for first-class cricket." "Yes, I know," said the rookie, "I have played in one or two Sheffield Shield matches and I was in the last two Australian Test teams. My name is Jack Finlayson."

THREE GOOD EFFORTS BY WOMEN

Athletic Meeting At White City

The Women's Amateur Athletic Association held their seventeenth annual championships at the White City Stadium on July 21 before a disappointingly small crowd of spectators.

Three performances stood out from a long series of events lasting for four and a half hours. The best, undoubtedly, was the win by Miss E. Forster, of the Civil Service, in the One Mile. Her time of 6 min. 15.3 sec. was a British record, being 2 sec. faster than Miss G. Lunn's time in 1937. There is, at present, no official world's record at this distance, which is not run in the Olympic Games.

The time hardly does justice to the superb way in which Miss Forster ran the race right from the start. Having soon gone into the lead she kept up a steady pace throughout, gradually going farther and farther ahead of Miss D. Hazels, the winner last year. Her style was perfect, so very different from most of the other competitors of the afternoon.

DOUBLE SUCCESS
Miss L. Chalmers, of Portsmouth, scored a double success by winning the 200 and 400 Metres. Both races she won quite easily, and in the shorter distance it was her second victory, having won in 1937, when she established the British record of 24.9 sec. Miss D. Odham, the tall Milham girl, has won the High Jump since 1936, and on July 21st she cleared 5 ft. 6 in. She is the present holder of the world's record of 5 ft. 5 3/8 in., and on July 21st she only just failed to clear 5 ft. 6 in.

Miss Odham competed also in the Javelin, and was second in the 80 Metres Hurdles. In this latter event Miss K. Robertson scored her second successive win. In the Putting the Weight the winner, Miss B. Reid, succeeded in reaching 37 ft. 5 1/2 in. but it should be pointed out that this is a 4 kilo weight.

The wet ground suited Dew, whose shots, made with a low trajectory, shot off the ground with lightning speed. Even the seasoned Rumjahn were troubled by his forehead, and it was too late when they discovered that his ground strokes on

OFT-POSTPONED TENNIS MATCH PLAYED AT LAST VICTORY TO SOOKUNPOO TEAM BY SIX TO THREE

(By "Abe")

After five postponements, the important tie in the "A" Division of the Hongkong Tennis League between the Indian R.C. and the South China A.A. was played off at Sookunpoo yesterday, the result being a victory for the Indians by six sets to three.

Rain nearly caused a sixth postponement. Rain actually fell when the match was in progress, but after driving two pairs to shelter, it held off long enough for the game to be completed.

Conditions, however, were far from conducive to good tennis. The ground was soft and wet and there was a cross wind which prevented good control. Furthermore, the light was poor.

The team fielded by the Chinese was not as strong as those in their earlier matches, and with the Indians turning out their best side, it was not surprising, therefore, that victory went to the Sookunpoo club.

Nevertheless for two rounds the issue was very open. At the end of the first round, the Indians led 2-1, but at the end of the second round the Chinese went to pieces and the Indians took all three sets to clinch the issue.

TO PLAY C.R.C.
As the result of this victory, the Indians have earned the right to meet the Chinese R.C. in a play-off for the championship as they did last year.

On that occasion, the Chinese won with comparative ease. Judging the Indians on yesterday's form, it would seem that the Chinese will repeat their success unless the Indians can improve their third pair, which was very weak.

The most successful pair consisted of Omar Rumjahn and I. M. A. Razack, who won all three sets, and did even better than the Rumjahn cousins who dropped their set against Sze to Bick and Dr. P. Dew. A. R. Minu and A. H. Madar combined ineffectively in their first two sets, both of which they dropped, and only the weakness of C. K. Chan and H. K. Lee, South China's third string, enabled them to take one set.

By far the most impressive South China pair were Sze to Bick and P. Dew, who played strong, forceful tennis to take the first two sets. Madar and Minu gave them little opposition, but even against the Rumjahn cousins they more than held their own and after leading by 4-1, they won this set in the eighth game.

VETERAN'S GOOD WORK
In the third set, against Omar Rumjahn and Razack, the 62-year-old veteran, Dew, had lost some of his earlier accuracy, and he and his partner succumbed by 6-3.

The wet ground suited Dew, whose shots, made with a low trajectory, shot off the ground with lightning speed. Even the seasoned Rumjahn were troubled by his forehead, and it was too late when they discovered that his ground strokes on the backhand were distinctly vulnerable. But O. Rumjahn and Razack benefited by this discovery in the final round, and by concentrating their attack on this wing, they repaid their reward. However, right to the end, Dew's overhand work and his volleying remained steadfast.

Highlights of the match were the magnificent retrieving by Rumjahn and Razack; the splendid form shown by Dr. Dew; the unexpected defeat of the Rumjahn cousins; and a poor form displayed by C. K. Chan and H. K. Lee, who not only dropped all three sets but lost two to love.

Scores:
S. A. and H. D. Rumjahn (I.R.C.) beat C. K. Chan and H. K. Lee 6-0; lost to Bick Sze to and Dr. P. Dew 2-6; beat J. Hsu and A. Chan 6-2.

O. Rumjahn and I. M. A. Razack (I.R.C.) beat Chan and Lee 6-0; beat Sze to and Dew 6-3; beat Hsu and Chan 6-3.

A. H. Madar and A. R. Minu (I.R.C.) beat Chan and Lee 6-2; lost to Sze to and Dew 1-6; lost to Hsu and Chan 2-6.

"C" Division Match
In a "C" Division match played at Sookunpoo yesterday, Indian Recreation Club were beaten 5-1 by Radio Sports Club. The Indians were short of a pair and conceded three sets.

Indoor Bowling

SURPRISE CAUSED IN LEAGUE

A surprise was caused in the semi-finals of the Ewo Indoor Bowling League last evening when "The Bowlers" defeated "The Aspirants" by the narrow margin of ten pins. As can be seen from the scores, the contest was a close one. The result was a complete surprise inasmuch as it was generally expected that the "Aspirants," who were finalists in the last tournament, would win.

As a result of their victory, the "Bowlers" will now meet the "Champs" in the final.

The following were the scores of last night's match:

ASPIRANTS
R. H. Duddridge	176	162	104	442
J. S. Landolt	170	126	163	459
A. G. Goldau	137	155	165	457

Last Season A Bad One For Arsenal

London, July 24.
Arsenal Football Club—biggest money-spinners in Soccer in modern times—had a bad season financially last season. Their accounts just published show a balance of revenue over expenditure for the 1938-39 season of only £207. Cash in hand at the end of May was less than £4,000. Bank overdraft was nearly £23,000. Working profits were down by £5,000 to £2,942. A £20,000 reserve for income tax has been eliminated from the balance sheet. No mention is made in the report of any sums received or paid by the Arsenal through transfer fees. Bryn Jones alone cost £14,000, and the sale receipts were about £12,000 lower. The total receipts were £72,954. The receipts also included £8,048 from the sale of season tickets, £2,323 from programmes and handbooks. The principal items of expenditure were £16,801 players' wages, benefits and transfers, including provision for next season, £8,409 interest on loans, &c., £5,153 travelling and hotel expenses, £5,769 general maintenance and other expenditure on properties, ground &c., £5,064 income tax, and £5,000 salaries and bonuses.

BRITISH SOCCER PLAYERS RETURN FROM A TRIUMPHANT TOUR OF SOUTH AFRICA

Only One Defeat In 12 Matches: £9,000 Profit Made On Whole Trip

London, July 24. Carrying Zulu spears and other souvenirs of their visit, 18 Soccer internationals have returned home from a 20,000 miles tour of South Africa. They left England on May 11.

Explaining the side's one defeat in 12 games played, Mr. C. Wreford Brown, joint manager with Mr. H. H. Hughes, said that the team were 48 hours in the train just before they went on to the field. Moreover, it was at Johannesburg—6,000 ft. above sea level—and A. H. Gibbons, the I.A.F. and Brentford forward, said they were "panting like dogs" after ten minutes. Mr. Wreford Brown also pointed out that the F.A. side were then wearing ordinary flannelled boots. Afterwards they used rubber studs, the only possible studs for such hard ground. The three Tests were won by scores of 3-0, 3-2, and 2-1.

"Every player in the party, the whole lot, was given a chance in the Tests. They have all come home with the honour of having represented their country in South Africa," he added. He also revealed that the captaincy had been allowed to go round, and that Eric Brook, the Manchester City winger, did not skipper the team all the time.

The estimated profit on the tour is £9,000, and the professionals may receive a bonus. Asked if he could estimate the profit to South Africa, Mr. Wreford Brown said "About £5,000. Three matches in Johannesburg drew £2,000 in gate money, the best takings of the tour. There was no 'bob' gate, the charge being half a crown."

SHOCK FOR TRAINERS

Trainers are due for a shock when the members of the touring party report to their clubs for duty. Without exception, the eighteen footballers have put on weight. The scales tell a tale of good food and few missed courses. Sam Bartram, Charlton's red-headed goalkeeper, is the worst casualty. He has put on 15 lbs.

It is generally thought in this country that the team played only twelve matches. That is incorrect; they played thirteen, but one will not be recorded in the official report. The thirteenth was against a native side at Madeira in response to a charity appeal wireless to the boat. All the players volunteered to play and were allowed to pick their own side, which won by 4-1.

Absence of rain for six weeks made Eric Brook homesick for Manchester. His colleagues say he was praying for the sight of rain in South Africa. He saw plenty on arrival at Southampton.

Everybody spoke in glowing terms of Fenton's play. The Middlesbrough marksman scored 24 of the 65 goals in 11 games. The match he missed was the only one lost. While in Pretoria, Gibbons, the Brentford amateur international, paid homage at the graves of the I.A.F. boxers who were killed when their plane crashed during a tour of the Union. He says the authorities over there are planning to erect an impressive memorial at the cemetery. Our Own Correspondent.

Prisoners Resent Police Din

LYNN, Mass. (U.P.)—Rehearsing clog steps on the second floor of the police station in preparation for their annual minstrel show, a score of bluecoats abruptly halted their terpsichorean endeavors. "Guests" in the first floor cells complained of the noise.

WPA Workers Want Tools

TOLEDO, O. (U.P.)—WPA workers here apparently like heavy work. A group tearing up 18-inch concrete on a paving job went on strike with demands for individual sledge hammers to replace a steam shovel and battering-ram.

Cliff Jones To Play Again

Cliff Jones, the famous Welsh Rugby international pivot, will emerge from temporary retirement to play for Cardiff again next season. The former Cambridge Blue and Welsh captain made this known following receipt that he had passed his final Law examination. Jones did not play at all last season, and his return will be welcomed by Wales.

Pat Beasley Marries Earl's Sister

London, July 24. Patrick ("Rufus") Beasley, the famous jockey, is to marry in London on July 29 Lady Alexandra Egerton, sister of the Earl of Wilton. Lady Alexandra, who will be 20 years old in a few weeks, is a ward in Chancery. Permission of the court for her to marry was obtained last week. She first met "Rufus" Beasley during a race-week at Newmarket. They have been secretly engaged for a year. Lady "Sandra", as she is known, left the House of Mrs. Bullell, one of her guardians in Cornwall, in March and lived in Newmarket. She is intensely keen on racing, and accompanies her husband-to-be to all meetings where he is riding. Red-haired Pat Beasley, thirty-year old first jockey to Captain Boyd-Rochfort's stable, rode as an amateur in Ireland before deciding to turn professional. Captain Boyd-Rochfort has granted him ten days' leave for his honeymoon which will be spent in Ireland. Our Own Correspondent.

Famous Woman Shot "Not Eligible"

THE War Office decided recently that Miss Marjorie Foster, the famous rifle shot, is not eligible to receive the King's Medal for the best shot in the Territorial Army. Miss Foster, who won the King's Prize nine years ago and was runner-up for it this year, is an Assistant Company Leader in the Women's Transport Section of the Auxiliary Territorial Service. At the moment the A.T.S. is not recognised as part of the Territorial Army, and therefore Miss Foster is not a serving member of the Territorial Army. It was stated at the War Office.

"Miss Foster is not qualified to shoot for the medal according to the Territorial Army Rifle Association rules."

ONLY ENROLLED The reason given is that the A.T.S. members are only "enrolled" and not enlisted, and are not therefore subject to military discipline in the same sense as members of the Territorial Army.

It is because the Territorial Army Rifle Association's central meeting is in absence this year that the King's Medal was awarded on the result of the King's Prize.

The leader among Territorial service members was Lieutenant G. W. Nicholson, 6th Queen's (West Surrey) who was 18th in the King's Prize.

MIDDLESEX SATISFIED WITH FIRST INNINGS LEAD AGAINST YORKS

From Kenneth Rankin

Bradford, July 11. Middlesex duly took 4 points for a first innings lead over Yorkshire here to-day, but the fact that it was their obvious intention when batting to content themselves with those 4 points was a definite disappointment to most people.

Against a total of 171 they batted five hours 20 minutes for 202, and when they had at length finished, 210 minutes at most remained, and Yorkshire scored 172 for five. Leyland batted with splendid resolution for an hour and a half.

There was a period after four o'clock when Sims bowled so well as to suggest that, given more time, Middlesex might well have won, but that they did not fancy their chances was shown when refreshment was served on the field.

When play began, with Edrich a different person from that of Monday, the score progressed at something like an appropriate pace from one end. Not, however, from the other, where Allen made only 10 out of 55 in the first hour. Edrich by that time had added 35 to the 30, which had taken him 130 minutes the previous evening, when he was bowled by a quick off-break from Robinson.

On his departure one might have expected an attempt, no matter the day, the score progressed at something like an appropriate pace from one end. Not, however, from the other, where Allen made only 10 out of 55 in the first hour. Edrich by that time had added 35 to the 30, which had taken him 130 minutes the previous evening, when he was bowled by a quick off-break from Robinson.

At one o'clock the lead was 100, after which methods of violence were at length employed and Middlesex were out just before lunch. All that remained now was to see whether anything untoward occurred in the three and a half hours remaining for play.

HUTTON AGAIN The first five minutes were occupied by Sutcliffe's personal supervision of the correct arrangement of the sight screen, after which Hutton played another splendid innings, making 47 in 75 minutes. At 09 Sutcliffe played on to Sims who, bowling to two slips, was turning the ball a lot as Mitchell found to his cost at four o'clock and Barber at 4.15 when, an hour and a half was left.

Here was tension and a thought in Middlesex minds of what might have been was accentuated when Yardley was bowled at 130 and five wickets were down—a lead of 18 and over an hour to go. Leyland, however, did not concern himself with runs to any extent, but he was clearly in the mood to be there at the end—and so he was. The receipts for the game reached £228, and this, together with the

Sporting Tit-Bits

FOR the first time in the history of International polo a visit of an English team to America has resulted in a financial loss. The fact that on this occasion the loss has amounted to £24,000 can only be described as a catastrophe. Little was realised from the proceeds of exhibition games in California and the English share of the Meadowbrook gates amounted to only £3,000 about a quarter of what was expected. The prices realised for the ponies were calamitous—70 were taken over. Forty of them were sold for an average of less than £300, an unprecedentedly low price for an international stable, and one considerably below their cost price.

WINNERS of district competitions held in all parts of England and Wales took part in the finals at Wentworth on July 26 of the national tournament for women golfers organised by the Daily Telegraph and Morning Post. The Silver Challenge Trophy, for the best handicap aggregate in the two divisions (silver and bronze) was won by Miss K. S. Simons, of West Runton, Norfolk, who played from a handicap of 25, and returned net scores of 74 (East course) and 72 (West course) for a total of 146.

WHEN W. R. Hammond caught G. Headley in the West Indies' second innings at Old Trafford, he completed an individual record of 100 catches in Test cricket, which is followed by the best handicap aggregate in the two divisions (silver and bronze) was won by Miss K. S. Simons, of West Runton, Norfolk, who played from a handicap of 25, and returned net scores of 74 (East course) and 72 (West course) for a total of 146.

FOR many weeks Windsor and Eton Cricket Club prepared for their summer tour of Devonshire, and when the 15 members of the Club returned from Torquay recently they used Torquay as a centre for the tour—they were able to boast that they did not have one reverse. Not a single ball could be bowled in any of the seven matches which were arranged, because of bad weather!

GLAMORGAN are dispensing with the services of their two senior professionals, Dai Davies and Mercer, at the end of the season. Both have played for Glamorgan since 1923. Mercer has taken more wickets than any other Glamorgan bowler, and Davies has scored most runs. Mercer took all ten wickets for 20 runs in an innings against Worcestershire in 1936, and is the only Glamorgan player to do so. Davies is the only Glamorgan batsman to score three successive centuries.

THE Army won the Inter-Services athletic championships at Portsmouth on July 20 with 38 points. Royal Air Force, the holders, scored 30½, Royal Navy and Royal Marines 10½. Five new records were set up. Royal Air Force set up new times in the 880 yards relay (1 min. 28.5 secs.) and 440 yards relay (43.5 secs.). The Army clipped the weight putting (55 ft. 2½ ins.) and two-mile relay (7 mins. 50 secs.) records, while Royal Navy and Royal Marines won the mile relay in the best-ever time of 3 mins. 26.5 secs.

SEVERAL of the horses trained by Captain Boyd-Rochfort at Newmarket are suffering from some disease of the mouth which brings about ulcers. Among those affected are Lady Zia Werhner's St. Leger horse, Casanova, Mrs. J. Gorrigan's Golden Tiger, and Mr. J. H. Whitney's Torch Song, who did not run at Goodwood this week on that account. Captain Boyd-Rochfort believes that a number of stables have the complaint, and he is consulting one of the Club's Veterinary Surgeons on the matter. Lord Portals's Fair Test is also said to be affected. This horse won the Lancashire Produce Stakes at Liverpool recently. Captain Boyd-Rochfort's stable is one of the largest in the country, and includes some of the most valuable horses in training.

32 Debutantes Go To Eunice's Party

MR. JOSEPH KENNEDY, U.S. Ambassador, recently took part in the coming-out dance of his daughter Eunice, who is seventeen.

Twenty-four privileged guests were invited to dinner. And for the dance, at 10.30 p.m., the invitation list included:—

- 31 bachelors;
- 32 debutantes;
- 32 chaperones;
- 24 unmarried girls (mostly 1938 debutantes);
- 34 marrieds.

In her bachelor list Eunice included the Hon. Peter Beatty, owner of last year's Derby winner; Prince Frederick of Prussia; and Mr. Geoffrey Lloyd.

Among the unmarried girls were Miss Sylvia Muir (spotted by Robb and Lucy Milner as being the best-dressed Ascot girl) and nineteen-year-old Lady Gillian Drummond, who acted as Eunice's hostess for her father, Lord Perth, in Rome.

Among the marrieds Eunice included Mrs. Henry Luce, author of "The Women."

On the dinner list as her special friends were three Americans—Mr. Dick Sears, Mr. Larry Davis, and Mr. Beverley Boyert—and Earl Hall.

Eunice wore a frilly peach-coloured model. Mrs. Kennedy chose white.

A FAVOURITE Outside the red and white awninged door, when the guests arrived, stood forty-two-year-old Frederick E. Venn, free lance link-man.

Venn, who has been complimented by the Duke of Kent on the shine on his top hat, is a favourite at Embassy and other smart dances. He sells his old, plus tips, for an evening, and fills in his daytime in attending weddings and doing licensed messenger work.

The guests walked up twenty-four red-and-green carpeted steps and turned right beside purple hydrangeas into the parkland billroom.

There was a buffet in the Louis XVI. room, and there were American gramophone records in the Pine Room for use when the band were not playing. Supper was served downstairs.

Summer Stains

SUMMER is a prolific time for stains of all kinds, but they all have an antidote, usually consisting of some simple household commodity that is in every housewife's cupboard.

Grass stains are, perhaps, the most common at this time of the year, and these can be removed easily by soaking the garment in warm milk for half-an-hour, rubbing the soiled part with a cut lemon, and then washing in the usual way.

If the stain is on grey or cream flannel it is better to use glycerine. Rub it well into the stain, leave for three or four hours, and then wash off.

Most stains are more stubborn, but you can rid of them by soaking the garment overnight in cold water to which has been added a small teaspoonful of vinegar. Next morning wring the article out, rub some methylated spirits on the stain, leave it on for five minutes, then wash with a soapy lather.

Fruit stains are another summer trouble, but they generally appear much worse than they prove to be when tackled. Rub salt on them while are still fresh, and wash in warm, soapy water. Cotton articles can be soaked first for half an hour; the stain will then need less rubbing. Garden Party "Casualty"

If you spill some lemonade over your best garden party frock do not worry about it, but when you get home rub the stained part thoroughly with crude glycerine and leave for an hour, then sponge off with clear, tepid water.

Tar and petrol stains from road and car should be dampened with cold water, sprinkled with eucalyptus oil, and then rubbed with household soap—carpet soap for preference.

Sea water will often stain dark clothes, but a rub with cloudy ammonia will quickly remove any marks. Rinse the ammonia out of the garment as soon as the stain has gone by rubbing several times with a rag dipped in clear water.

If brown shoes get marked with salt water dissolve a small piece of washing soda in a saucer of warm milk and dab this on the stains while it is still warm. When the stains have disappeared let the milk dry on the leather and then polish in the ordinary way.

When unbreakable picnic utensils are stained, clean them with a good, non-scratching scourer sprinkled on a raw potato and the stains will soon vanish.

The main point to remember when dealing with any stain is that treatment should be given as soon as possible. The quicker you apply the remedy the better it will work.

Gale Page of the screen finds that eau de Cologne is not only a grand aid to daintiness but also a soothing relief for headaches and that general tired feeling.

Varied Benefit Derived In Use of Eau de Cologne

IF YOU have discovered the delightful benefits of eau de Cologne, you wouldn't part with it at any season—but particularly not during the hot summer months when there are so many additional uses for this fragrant, cooling liquid. Whether you are a country or city dweller, traveller or stay-at-home, eau de Cologne is practically indispensable if you want to keep fresh.

Most of you indulge in as much activity during these tiring months as you do the rest of the year, so you must take extra precautions to keep from wilting. Though the sun may be scorching, and the air heavy with moisture, you still want to look crisp as a lettuce leaf. How can you accomplish this miracle? There are several suggestions, the regular use of eau de Cologne being an important one.

Madame Jeanné Lanvin, noted Paris designer, has her lovely mannequins literally bathe in eau de

A LIGHT ASTRINGENT

If you have an oily skin, the use of Cologne as a light astringent before applying powder keeps the skin cool and fresh even though you wear a suit or frock that is warm. Holly-wood stars have taken this hint most willingly, for it's not easy always to look cool and collected under hot studio lights.

There are many other little things you can do with eau de Cologne to add to your summer comfort and fragrance. After your bath, rub yourself with it, you do at any time of the year, but be more liberal with it around your neck, arms and wrists. You'll find you hair less inclined to oiliness if you dash a few drops into the rinse water when shampooing your hair. Try the same trick in the rinse water of your undies, handkerchiefs and fabric gloves. Dab a bit on your leather gloves and on the lining of your summer hats.

If, during a busy day, your feet burn until you can hardly bear the thought of another step, a tepid foot bath and eau de Cologne rub will make a new woman of you. There is nothing like a dash of Cologne to rescue you from headaches when you travel. Just rub a little of your forehead, the palms of your hands, and drop some on your handkerchief. You need never worry about being too lavish, for the perfumes used to scent Cologne are so delicate there is no danger of an overbearing fragrance.

CHOICE OF SCENTS

Speaking of scents, there are some delightful new ones for the discriminating. One which is just as much a favourite among men as it is among women, has a clean, crisp aroma. It is cool, unassuming and so subtle that men enjoy using it as an after-shave lotion, and women use it because it blends perfectly with any perfume. You can buy this Cologne alone in its tall crystal bottle, or with its matching twin, a Cologne with a more pungent, rich fragrance of Spanish geraniums.

Another favourite is entirely different, with a truly feminine fragrance, light, fragile and romantic. This has a light floral bouquet. The fact that its formula is very old and that it is supposed to have been the favourite Cologne of the Empress Josephine, may make it sound more appealing to you.

Experiment with Colognes. You may prefer one with the natural crispness that comes from the citrus flower oils with which a real Cologne is blended. You may like one scented with the perfume you wear most frequently, or you may prefer to substitute a new fragrance and use Cologne exclusively in place of perfume for hot weather. In any case, find one that not only refreshes you, but helps you express your personality.

SHORT CUTS

To clean ivory or bone knife handles, make a paste of lemon juice and whiting, rubbing this well into the handles. If very much soiled, allow the paste to remain on for a few hours. Then rinse quickly and polish with a soft cloth.

The chance of breakage of cup handles is lessened when cups are hung from hooks in the pantry.

A folded Turkish towel placed in the bottom of a dishpan may save a precious piece of china or glassware from breaking, if it should slip from the hand in the process of washing.

ORIENTAL DIETS

Scientists Opposed To Polishing Of Rice

Nutritional inadequacies of diets in common use by Pacific populations, especially the polished rice and fish diet of the Orient, were discussed in the public health and nutrition sections of the Pacific Science Congress at the University of California, A. G. Van Veen of the Eijkman Institute of Batavia, Java, Netherlands East Indies, explained why rice and fish are such important components of the daily food of many nations in the Orient. He said the good qualities of both foodstuffs were frequently decreased during their milling, drying or pickling.

Discussing the inadequacies of polished rice and fish, and the means of supplementing them, Tatsui Sakai of the Imperial Nutrition Institute for Nutrition, Tokyo, said:

"In regard to the practical use of rice, there are three important problems, namely, the use of powder in polishing, the degree of polishing, and the custom of washing rice before cooking. Polishing powder should be prohibited by law because its use causes injury to the body as well as removable loss of material. The use of white rice should be reduced by both education and taxation."

"Concerning the consumption of fish, the common use of the flesh only as a source of protein is not recommended, but the utilization of all parts rich in vitamins and inorganic substances should be advised. For this reason, small fish are recommended, using the entire body including bones, head, inner organs, skin scales and fins. Such use has proved to be very effective in nutritive value of all kinds."

"Besides rice and fish, vegetables should be served at the same time. Fruit and milk are also recommended but being rather expensive in some countries, they may be omitted and a balanced diet still obtained by the use of fish and vegetables only."

Diet of Filipinos
Ira A. Maxwell, University of Oregon, Medical School Division of Nutrition, Portland, said:

"Rice is a major item in the diet of Indians and Filipinos, as well as of the Chinese and Japanese. (but) sight should not be lost of the important bearing of diet, social and economic factors have on sanitation, hygiene and the economic availability of foods."

Isabelo Concepcion, University of the Philippines, College of Medicine, Manila, said:

"Polished rice has the following characteristics as food—relatively poor in protein; very rich in carbohydrates, especially starch; low in fat; deficient in vitamins, especially vitamins A, B-1 and C; deficient in calcium, phosphorus and available iron. The addition of fish to polished rice will undoubtedly improve the protein and fat content and a slight extent the fat soluble vitamins in the diet. On the other hand, the minerals, especially calcium, and the water soluble vitamins, particularly vitamin B-1, are still deficient in said diet."

"To supplement a diet consisting of polished rice and fish, one has to contend with the problem of ignorance and poverty. Then there are also the questions of supply, and distribution of foodstuffs of right quality but of low price. The following practical means may be suggested: discourage the use of white polished rice, encourage the use of green leafy and yellow coloured vegetables and fruits to supply the deficiency of vitamin A, B-1, calcium and iron; the use of pork and glandular organs to supply the deficiency of animal fat, vitamin B-1 and minerals, especially iron; the use of eggs whenever possible, in order to augment the low biologic value of rice protein and at the same time to furnish the addition of sufficient calcium lactate partial substitute for milk, could be supplied daily to a child at the cost of about two cents a month."

Discussing the present status of nutrition work in the Philippines, F. A. Santos, University of the Philippines, College of Agriculture, said:

"It appears that the average food intake of Filipinos compares favourably with that of other people with regard to amount of energy per kilogram of bodyweight, but the amount of protein is lower. The ratio of protein calories to total calories is satisfactory. Many of the proteins are of plant origin—principally from rice. The intake of 'protective foods' and calcium is low. The use of milk and dairy products is practically nil."

"That Filipinos are now nutritionally minded. Their national leaders are advocating more studies on the nutrition of the masses."—United Press.

Defendant's Allegations In Menaces Case

A description of a game of mah-jong played between complainant's friends and himself, was described in detail in the witness box by Li Chiu, 30, the first defendant, when evidence for the defence was commenced before Mr. T. J. Houston at the Central Magistracy yesterday.

Li is charged with Fung Chuen, 30, and Tse Ho, 30, with demanding $40 with menaces from Yu Siu-man, 30, clerk employed at Sincere's Perfumery, Kennedy Town, on June 28. Defendants are also charged with conspiracy.

Mr. G. K. Hall-Bruton, assisted by Sub-Inspector J. O'Donovan, prosecuted, and Mr. C. A. S. Russ was for the defence.

Inspector O'Donovan said a report was made to him by Yu on June 30. He marked a $10 note by putting a pin-hole in the top right hand corner and making a note of the number. At 8 p.m. he went to 137, Belcher Street, where the three defendants were seated at a table in the rear room. Li was pointed out to him as the man who had received the $10 note. The note had been sent for the purchase of a packet of cigarettes. On being recovered, it was found to be the one he had marked and given to Yu.

Tse Ho, third defendant, was discharged by the Magistrate owing to lack of evidence.

Li in evidence, said he had been a tailor for the last six or seven years and had known Fung and Tse for a similar period. Yu called with two friends to see him on June 25 and they had a game of mah-jong in the rear room. Li lost about $9, after playing eight rounds, and his friend, Lee Kung, lost over $5. Yu called at the shop again the next day, and suggested another game, but as Li was a little suspicious, he did not play. Another game, however, was played on June 28 when during the playing of a big hand, Yu discarded a "five circles" which enabled his friend to win. The friend had already three green dragons, three red dragons, and three circle cards on the table. Li immediately pushed down Yu's cards, and found that the "five circle" card was from a pair held by Yu. He also had a one bamboo, while three had been discarded.

On speaking to Yu about it, Yu said he was not familiar with the game and then asked his other friend to play for him.

About noon, the following day, Li was standing in the door of his shop when he saw Yu pass. He spoke to Yu and said he and his friends had been cheated at the mah-jong game, and asked for the money back. Yu said he would meet him at the shop that night, and then left. At the shop, after some bargaining, the sum of $10 was agreed on.

Witness denied having ever made any threats to Yu, and said the matter had been discussed in a friendly manner. He could give no reason why Yu had informed the Police.

Hearing was adjourned until August 24.

Found In Reservoir In Semi-Nude State

An open verdict was returned by Mr. R. Edwards at the Central Magistracy yesterday at the conclusion of an inquest into the death of Li Cheung-hing, 20, a woman, whose semi-nude body was found floating in Aberdeen Reservoir on July 9. The Coroner said that there was insufficient evidence for him to determine whether death was due to suicide or was accidental.

Evidence given earlier revealed that the woman, who was employed as an amah in a house on The Peak, had misadventured herself with the No. 1 "boy," Yung Shiu-wing, who was employed in 302 The Peak. She was questioned by her elder sister, Li Ngan-hing, regarding rumours of her misconduct, and denied the allegations. Yung also denied misconduct with the woman. Witnesses stated that the deceased did not appear worried or upset prior to her death.

Li Ngan-hing was called yesterday. On July 7, she saw her sister and told her she had heard rumours that she was "in love" with someone. Deceased denied the rumours. Witness asked her to leave her employment but deceased refused.

Witness sent for Yung and told him that people had been saying he had misadventured himself with the deceased. He denied he had done so. Deceased burst into tears, went down on her knees, and said that whatever happened, she would not leave 302 The Peak. Witness struck her twice on the ankles with an umbrella.

Questioned by the Coroner, Li said deceased appeared very upset over the quarrel. Ordinarily she was not a person who was easily upset by small matters. Deceased, she said, had never threatened to commit suicide. She could not swim.

Li Luk, amah, said she was temporarily employed at 302 The Peak. Witness said she noticed that Yung and the deceased appeared to be on intimate terms. The girl was upset, but when questioned refused to say anything. She often borrowed sums of money from witness and always appeared hard-up. Witness questioned her as to what she did with her money and said finally admitted that most of it had been borrowed by Yung.

Yung Shiu-wing, who had previously given evidence, and admitted misconduct with the deceased, was recalled. He denied that the nights the girl did not return to 302 The Peak to sleep with Li Luk she had been with him. Deceased, he explained, was in her own quarters at 108 The Peak.

Mr. King submitted that there was no evidence to connect anyone with the death of deceased. Though much had been said about the morals of a witness, that had nothing to do with his Worship's findings. He suggested that Li Ngan-hing was a vindictive person.

Giving his decision, the Coroner said there was no evidence of violence to the body. There was insufficient evidence for him to determine whether death was due to suicide or was accidental.

Mr. R. M. King held a watching brief for Yung Shiu-wing, Li Luk and Fung Kiu, servants employed at 302 The Peak. Acting Sub-Inspector A. F. Estill was present for the Police.

Chung admitted that he did not take out a licence until Tuesday.

Damage To Missions In China

LONDON. The damage to Missions in the Province of Shensi was referred to in a Parliamentary question recently.—Mr. R. Gibson asked the Prime Minister, to what missionary body the property that was recently damaged in the Province of Shensi belonged; what was the nature, extent, and amount of the damage; and what arrangements are being taken for its restoration?

Mr. Butler: According to the reports received by my Noble Friend damage has been done to the premises of the China Inland Mission at Linfen and Hungtung in South Shensi. The English Baptist Mission at Taischow in the north of the same province was broken into but was not looted. Details of the damage done have not yet been reported and pending their receipt I am not able to say what action may be appropriate in the matter.

Military Hotheads at Work Again JAPAN'S THREAT IN N. CHINA

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

PEIPING, Aug. 10 (Domei).—Fears of a complete breakdown in the Anglo-Japanese conversations at Tokyo are heightened this morning. The Japanese military authorities are now preparing measures to be taken in China if the negotiations are not resumed on the basis demanded by Japan.

Japanese military circles here unofficially admit reports that the military delegates may withdraw from the conference.

TENEDOS OFFICER'S "REGRETS"

Landing Of British Sailors At Swatow

ALMOST STARTLING in its abruptness, a communique was issued by the British naval authorities in Hongkong this morning in the following terms:

"The Commanding Officer of the British destroyer and the British Consul at Swatow have expressed their regret that the incident on Monday arose out of the presence of British sailors."

The communique refers to the incident in Swatow on Monday, when a landing party was sent ashore from H.M.S. Tenedos at the request of the British Consul, Mr. H. D. Bryan, to protect British subjects.

The appeal for naval assistance became necessary when a small mob of Chinese demonstrators threatened the British Consulate and Club.

Sticks And Stones

Sticks and stones were thrown by the mob and during the demonstration, one of the demonstrators, a Chinese stall-holder, was injured by a communit.

It has been emphasised that the landing party from H.M.S. Tenedos was unarmed when it went ashore, and at no time did any incident occur involving British sailors.

The expressions of regret were tendered to the Japanese Consul, Mr. Takai, by Lt. Cmdr. Burry, Commanding Officer of H.M.S. Tenedos, and by Mr. Bryan, the Consul.

It is not stated whether the Japanese officials have accepted the regrets.

Japanese Snub

An earlier message from the "Domei" News Agency stated that a request by the British Consul in Swatow for a modification of the Japanese demands regarding Monday's incident had been flatly rejected by the Japanese authorities.

The rejection was by the Japanese Consul, Mr. Takai. Subsequent efforts by the British Consul to approach the Japanese garrison commanders were fruitless, the military officials refusing even to see the British official.

In his interview with the Japanese Consul, Mr. Bryan was accompanied by Lt. Cmdr. Burry, of H.M.S. Tenedos, and Capt. H. Hickling, of H.M.S. Duncan.

He requested that the Japanese demands regarding Monday's incident be modified by the withdrawal of the demand that the British authorities acknowledge that sailors from H.M.S. Tenedos were involved.

The request was rejected.

LADY LOST ON CORFU

SHANGHAI, Aug. 10 (Reuter).—A wireless message has been received in Shanghai reporting that an Englishwoman, Miss Hilda Chester, is missing from the P. and O. Corfu which left Shanghai for England on August 1.

Miss Chester is aged 30 and was a sister in the Shanghai Municipal Council's isolation hospital, which she joined five years ago on arrival in Shanghai from England.

She is on her first home leave, bound for Liverpool, where her sister lives.

She disappeared from the Corfu on August 6. Friends in Chengtu and Shanghai report that she was very cheerful on leaving and quite her as saying she was looking forward to the trip in England again.

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

Air Ministry Admits: "160 Raids On Nation Last Night"

LONDON, Aug. 9 (Reuter).—The fact that 160 air raids were made during the early part of the night alone—100 against the southern defending area and 60 against the northern zone—is revealed in Air Ministry communique recording the progress of the air exercises in which 1,300 aeroplanes are participating. The communique states that the attackers first concentrated against the Thames estuary, 60 fighter patrols participating in defence.

Later the attacks were mainly directed against the northern and eastern defended areas, where 40 fighter patrols replied, though the defenders were hampered by low clouds and a 40 miles wide belt of rain.

Light and heavy anti-aircraft guns were also in action. The observer corps worked smoothly, and the balloon barrage was down at "war stations" without incident.

Many, interested in the Home bomber squadrons continued a counter-offensive throughout the night. Raid, counter-raid and mimic battles continued throughout the day, and it is claimed that a large number of attackers were intercepted.

So far, out of the 1,300 planes, only three have failed to return, including the one which crashed at Tollymore. One bomber is believed to be missing over the North Sea, while the pilot of a third landed his machine near the third after the crew of four, acting upon orders, had successfully parachuted to the ground.

Blackout Postponed
 It is officially announced that the blackout scheduled for the greater part of Britain to-night has been postponed until to-morrow on account of the unfavourable weather forecast.

However, the mimic aerial warfare is continuing, despite the blackout postponement.

A communique states that a second air raid on the south coast culminated in an attack on the army barracks at Newport, Isle of Wight.

Most of the raiders in this area were intercepted or heavily engaged by anti-aircraft batteries before they had flown far beyond the coast.

Balloons Successful
 This afternoon a formation of Eastland bombers succeeded in avoiding the heavy defences along the Thames estuary and attempted to attack south London. There a balloon barrage forced them to abandon low bombing and they came within convenient range of heavy anti-aircraft batteries.

The Air Ministry states that a formation of Eastland bombers flew over London under anti-aircraft fire in the afternoon and were intercepted by defending Spitfires over Hyde Park.

In the northern area, the enemy crossed the coast at East Anglia north of Ipswich and near Cambridge, and broke into two small flights and attacked over a wide area—the manoeuvre was designed to baffle the defenders.

Birmingham Raid
 A series of raids on London were intercepted before they came within striking distance of the capital, and an area in north Birmingham was also raided.

France Impressed
 PARIS, Aug. 9 (Reuter).—The British air manoeuvres, combined with the review of the reserve fleet have made a big impression in France, as reassuring evidence of British watchfulness.

"It is not a coincidence, but a sign," declares the "Paris Soir", in commenting on the fact that the exercises were taking place at the same time as Herr Forster's journey between Berchtesgaden and Danzig.

The "Intransigent" says that "our allies' general staff have endeavored to reproduce as nearly as possible the conditions of real warfare. We know we can count on our allies, as they can on us."

How Naval Reservists Were Called To Fleet

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

THE 12,000 naval reservists who were called up to join in summonses to report at their depot.

The exercises in which they will take part have been carefully timed to follow the ending of the specially early summer leave granted to the Home Fleet.

In selecting the 12,000 men ship-owners have been consulted and every effort has been made to interfere as little as possible with the Mercantile Marine.

As a result, at least 8,000 of the 12,000 men are these actually on pension after putting in their full time in the Service or those whose five years on the reserve are still operative.

The R.N.R. and R.N.V.R. men called up under the new Reserve and Auxiliary Forces Act are mainly men holding shore jobs.

The same applies to those of the Royal Naval Volunteer Wireless Reserve.

Nevertheless, a small proportion of the reservists are men of the Merchant Navy and fishing fleet.

"Splicing The Main Brace"
 LONDON, Aug. 9 (Reuter).—During his review of the reserve fleet to-day, the King stood exposed to heavy spray in order to acknowledge the cheering from the ships.

Instead of leaving it to the end of the visit, the King after lunch, made a flag signal from the Victoria and Albert to all ships of the reserve fleet to "Splice the Main Brace."

The King, in a message to the Vice-Admiral of the reserve fleet said that the bringing forward for sea service of so many ships in a few days had proved how smoothly the organisation worked.

"The efficiency and smartness obtained in such a short time after commissioning can only be achieved by enthusiasm and the whole-hearted co-operation of all hands, and it leaves no doubt in my mind that the fleet will quickly reach a high standard of fighting efficiency."

The King sent hearty congratulations to the fleet.

CHUNGKING, Aug. 9 (UP).—The belief that the Japanese military invasion of China has reached its final stages so far as advances further west are concerned, and that hostilities will now settle down to a bitter economic and financial struggle in which foreign assistance will play a dominating part, has resulted in the complete linking of the foreign and economic policies of the Chinese Government.

CAUSE FOR REJOICING

The prospects of a loan from the United States of U.S.$350,000,000, which could be used immediately for the purchase of supplies, and to which no strings would be attached, added to the present negotiations with Britain for further loans, as well as barter agreements with France, has given the Chinese Government greater cause for rejoicing now than at any other time since the war began.

Barter agreements—under which China exchanges raw materials for needed manufactured articles and war materials—the improvement of the western highway system, which, according to best-informed foreign sources, has given China much greater facilities for new supplies than they have had since the fall of Hankow, are evidence that China has cause for optimism.

PACT WITH RUSSIA

With the American agreement for bartering trucks for wood oil as the starting point, the Chinese Government has negotiated a new barter agreement with Russia, and is now laying plans for barter trade with France for mechanical equipment and industrial machines.

It is hoped that a similar agreement will be concluded with Britain, if and when Britain indicates by actions that she has abandoned her policy of appeasement with Japan and decides that friendship with China is more essential.

The reported agreement for joint Anglo-Japanese policing of the Tientsin Concession and the admission of Japanese advisers to the Municipal Council has aroused dissatisfaction with the British attitude and is viewed by official circles here as an admission by Britain that the Japanese have a right to assist in the policing.

This is believed to constitute de facto recognition of the Japanese occupation and the new puppet regimes, while the acceptance of Japanese advisers on the Municipal Council places Tientsin in a category similar to that of Manchuria.

Tit For Tat
 When the question of suppression of anti-Japanese publications and anti-Japanese groups is mentioned, Chinese here always retort: "Anti-Japanese elements should be suppressed, but the same treatment should be given to the pro-Japanese elements if strict neutrality in the concessions is to be obtained."

These reports have given rise to the belief among Chinese circles that Britain cannot be trusted until she definitely shows her hand.

Hopes Of British Aid
 However, there is still great hopes here for a volte-face in Britain's attitude.

MAY CALL COMMONS

Premier And Situation On Continent

LONDON, Aug. 9 (Trans-Ocean).—The Political Correspondent of the London "Star" expresses the belief this afternoon that the Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, will re-summon Parliament in the near future to present a statement on the international situation.

The Correspondent adds that a new and decisive stage has been reached in the negotiations in Moscow between Soviet Russia, France and Great Britain, with the return to London of Mr. William Strang, the foreign expert and technical adviser.

It is hoped in London that the difficulties which have held up the political side of the Moscow negotiations will have been removed before the military talks now under way conclude in about a fortnight.

By this time the Premier will have returned to London from his vacation in Scotland.

"NO, NO NANETTE" WILL BE PRODUCED BY H. P. S.

THE HONGKONG Philharmonic Society has decided to produce the well-known musical comedy "No, No Nanette" as its next offering.

The work will be produced at the Queen's Theatre on December 13-16 inclusive. Rehearsals will commence at the beginning of next month.

The production will be in the capable hands of Mr. W. Robertson, who has been connected with many Philharmonic successes in the past. Musical Direction will be in the equally capable hands of Surg. Capt. G. V. Hobbs, R.N.

The "Telegraph" is informed that the Philharmonic Society has some vacancies for the dancing sequences, and requests any ladies or gentlemen interested to communicate with the Hon. Secretary, Mr. H. M. Cockle, of 13, Chatham Road.

"No, No Nanette" has been a most successful musical comedy, and still enjoys an enormous vogue in amateur circles at home. The continued appeal of this very popular work is indicated by the fact that in 1938 alone, over 40 amateur societies in Great Britain produced it.

The work was first produced under the direction of Messrs. Clayton and Waller at the Palace Theatre, London, in 1925. The original cast included such well-known artists as Blinnie Hale, Vera Pearce, George Grossmith, Joseph Coyne and Seymour Beard.

Alien doctors upset Harley-street by unprofessional conduct BOGUS SPECIALISTS ACCUSED OF TOUTING

'SOME OF THEM STEAL PATIENTS'

UNPROFESSIONAL conduct of alien doctors who have set up practice in the Harley-street area is disturbing many leading British specialists, who regard some of them as charlatans.

A well-known consulting surgeon said, "Many of these foreigners circularise patients who have visited them abroad. We have found them in some cases to be very unscrupulous, particularly with women, who fall an easy prey to their methods."

"Their only thought is money. Their standard of knowledge—with the exception of a small percentage who are experts in their particular sphere—is considerably lower than that of the average British general practitioner. Some of them also steal patients."

"It is primarily a matter for the British Medical Association to lodge a complaint with the General Medical Council."

A bitter outburst against the conduct of one of these alien doctors comes from a medical man writing in the "Medical World."

"THOSE WHO HAVE SUFFERED MOST" "Those who have suffered most from the unethical competition of refugees have spoken much about it to each other, but have been loath to put their experiences on paper," he writes.

He tells of the wife of a patient of his who, though he was receiving adequate treatment, was pressed to call in further advice, an alien doctor being mentioned as being particularly clever and suitable.

"Dr. Allen" urged the wife to bring him to a nursing home under his care, and said delay would be dangerous. "It is evident 'Dr. Allen' gave confident opinions on the case without seeing me and without seeing the patient," the writer observes.

"Dr. Allen" then carried out an examination without first seeing the writer, and also brought a surgeon, although no request had been made for surgical opinion.

"My next surprise," says the writer, "was to discover that 'Dr. Allen' was almost entirely ignorant of his job."

The writer told the wife he had no confidence in "Dr. Allen," and eventually the patient was sent to London under the care of a physician chosen by him.

Professor "did not know" He was wanted man

NEW YORK. ALTHOUGH for a week newspaper headlines proclaimed that he was being sought on a charge of embezzlement, Professor James Monroe Smith, former president of Louisiana State University, walked into the police station in the Canadian town of Brockville, Ontario, recently and said: "I did not know I was wanted."

Dr. Smith, who was accompanied by his wife, is accused of absconding with university funds, embezzling $20,000, and borrowing a larger sum with which he is alleged to have played the stock market.

He told Brockville's police chief: "I must get back immediately so that I can clear up everything, and vindicate myself."

He had $63 in his pockets.

The news that Dr. Smith had given himself up was telephoned to New Orleans.

Meanwhile, Dr. and Mrs. Smith are being guarded by red-coated "Mounties," with Brockville's best hotel serving as their jail. Their food is sent to them from the dining-room.

They have been given this privilege because Mrs. Smith suffered a collapse.

Dr. Smith's disappearance caused a storm in Louisiana. Governor Richard Leche resigned, and Earl K. Long, brother of the late Huey "Kingfish" Long, who had been Lieutenant Governor, took over.

Dr. and Mrs. Smith entered Canada through Detroit in a car which they bought in Dearborn, Michigan.

They drove to Charleston Lake, summer resort near Brockville, where they rented a cottage paying a week's rent in advance.

question? What is the policy of the British Government, regardless of anybody else?

Mr. Butler: It is not customary to announce our action in advance, before we have had an opportunity of discussion.

Sir Percy Harris: Do the Government intend to give the League a lead in the matter?

Mr. Butler: I said quite clearly in my original answer that we fully recognise the value of this service and this work. I cannot say more.

Anti-Epidemic Work In China

LONDON. Mr. Mander asked the Prime Minister whether he will consider the advisability of instructing the British delegates at the next assembly of the League of Nations to oppose deletion in the League budget of the grant of 1,050,000 francs for anti-epidemic work in China?

The Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs (Mr. Butler): One and a half million francs was voted by the League Assembly last September for anti-epidemic work in China during the current year. The question of the allocation for next year will be raised in the course of the Assembly next September. His Majesty's Government fully recognise the value of the League's anti-epidemic work in China, but their attitude must await the discussions of this matter at the Assembly meeting.

Mr. Mander: In the discussions do the British Government intend to advocate the continuance of this support for China?

Mr. Butler: The hon. Member will see from what I have said that our attitude must await discussion of this matter in the Assembly. I also said that we appreciate fully the value of this work, and I think the hon. Member can draw his own deductions.

Girl Pat Skipper In A "Case of Importance"

WHEN an application was made at Lincoln county court recently for the hearing of a case, concerning the sale of a Grimsby steam trawler, to be expedited, Mr. James Young, solicitor, said that the plaintiff in the case was George Black Osborne, "who earned a certain amount of fame some time ago by taking the Girl Pat across the Atlantic."

Mr. Young said that the action was of national importance and requested Judge Langman to read an affidavit.

After reading it the judge commented on a reference to the smuggling of refugees.

Mr. Young said that the authorities would like to see the people concerned give evidence. The Judge: Are they going to let the cat out of the bag?

Mr. Young: If they face the court they will.

Mr. Young said that Scotland Yard was interested and an inspector had been sent to Grimsby.

The judge refused the application to expedite the hearing, but intimated that if Mr. Young could prove that great inconvenience would result if the case was not heard before September 5 he might make an order for an earlier hearing.

Film By Bonesetter

Sir Herbert Barker's methods of manipulative surgery are to be handed on to the medical profession which for years refused to recognise his work.

He recently completed at St. Thomas's Hospital, London, a film showing his most important manipulative operations in practice. This film will be shown to medical students.

In addition, he will give a series of demonstrations which will pass on to orthopaedic surgeons and to posterity the technique which has made him famous despite years of opposition.

Sir Herbert said that he will give these demonstrations as often as he can, until he is satisfied that his methods are being carried out to his satisfaction.

TIMELY ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Referring to the fact that the medical staffs at St. Thomas's had agreed unanimously to accept his offer to give the demonstrations, Sir Herbert said:

"I have worked all my life for this achievement, and the sense of relief and satisfaction is simply overwhelming. I knew acknowledgment would come, but I feared it might come when I was in my grave. Many pioneers have been recognised only after their death, and I began to think that might be my unfortunate lot also."

"The whole of my technique may now be handed on from generation to generation. That is all I have worked for, and my work has been my life. My methods will now be available to every surgeon in every country in the world and to every suffering person."

REPEATED OFFERS

"The tragedy is that my offer was not accepted many years ago. Repeatedly I offered under any terms or conditions to demonstrate my work so that it could be considered and judged. I was always met with refusals."

"Now that my work has been recognised I can look back on the old days with satisfaction. It was an exhausting—almost a heartbreaking—fight. We have given tremendously hard blows on either side. Fortunately I have always had the forensic spirit of my father, who was a famous lawyer, and I was able to give as good as I got."

One part of the film which Sir Herbert has made shows manipulative operations for "tennis elbow" and current dislocation of the shoulder joint.

WHOLE FIELD OF JOINTS

"Other parts," he said, "show work on affections of the low spine, which are often very difficult to cure, and what is known as 'pes planus,' or flat foot."

The film also shows operations for hip affections and knee cartilage dislocations; in fact, it covers practically the whole field of the manipulative section of orthopaedic surgery."

Sir Herbert said that despite the fact that he has been practising for 40 years he can still sprint 100 yards in "respectable time," and can walk 15 to 20 miles in a day.

Argentina Wants South Pole

NEW YORK. The Argentine Government is preparing to claim a vast area of the Antarctic in which are lands now under British and United States ownership.

Argentina is asserting her claim to a wedge of the earth in the shape of an inverted triangle, the point of which is at the South Pole.

Within the area, which covers approximately one-seventh of the Antarctic Region, are the South Orkneys, South Georgia, South Shetland Islands, Graham Land and other islands—all British possessions.

It is also much of the area in the Weddell Sea district and along the Antarctic coast to which the United States, to consolidate her claims, is sending an expedition under Rear-Admiral Byrd.

38 Raids In Two French Cities

ANTI-SPY fever is gripping France. Recently 38 raids were made by the Surete Nationale and by "Bureau 2," France's famous counter espionage service.

According to Le Soir 20 raids were made in Lyons, and some in Strasbourg.

Warrants against several newspaper managers and party officials have been issued.

STATEMENT DEMAND

Some newspapers are demanding a Government statement about the progress of the investigation. They say public feeling should be allayed.

53 m.p.h. 'Baby' Torpedo-Boat Is Britain's Latest Navy Fighter

BRITAIN'S naval striking forces are increasing every day. Recently a "baby" motor-torpedo-boat, known as the K40 type, was demonstrated on Southampton Water.

The "baby" attained a speed of 42½ knots (53 m.p.h.)—far in excess of boats with greater power—on her trials.

This speed was returned with 20 people aboard, more than twice the normal complement, and additional ballast.

CONCHIE NO. 1 IS 'VICTIM OF GREAT WAR'

Father bangs down medals

BIRMINGHAM.
CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTOR No. 1 under Britain's Militia scheme, twenty-year-old Norman Wort, of Elindale-croscant, Northfield, Birmingham, was registered at Birmingham recently when his father banged three war medals on the table in front of the tribunal.

A moment later the chairman said: "The tribunal's decision is that Mr. Wort shall be registered as a conscientious objector unconditionally."

Eighteen youths appeared before the tribunal that day—first of 460 in the midland area who object to serving in the Militia.

Most of them arrived with their mothers or fathers, who sat in a hastily arranged court-room in two rows of chairs at the back of the room. Many of these chairs were occupied by officials of anti-conscription and pacifist societies.

WAR INJURIES

The tribunal was composed of kindly-faced Judge Longson, county court judge for Derby; Mr. A. H. Gibbard, a trade union secretary, who dealt with technical points; Councillor E. Purser (ex-Socialist mayor of Nottingham), who asked several sceptical questions; Professor J. G. Smith, vice-principal of Birmingham University, who asked only three questions all day; and Mr. G. T. Lee, former town clerk of Derby, who asked no questions.

Norman Wort was led in by his father, a brisk, hollow-backed ex-soldier in grey flannel trousers and check sports coat. Judge Longson began to read Norman's statement: "I am the only son of a disabled ex-serviceman. I was born after his discharge from the Army, and my condition is due to his war injury. I have suffered hell for a lifetime. I am an innocent victim of the great war."

There was a hush in court. The father leaned over the bare desk separating him from Judge Longson and said: "My hearing is 50 per cent. but my son is practically deaf. May I come closer?"

The judge nodded to Mr. Wort, who rapped loudly on the desk to draw his son's attention. He took him by the shoulder, and held him over the desk to hear the judge. Judge Longson said it would be unnecessary to read any more, as he understood the father had written the statement.

The tribunal deliberated. Here was the first conscientious objector who had not put forward religious grounds for his objection. Ex-town clerk Mr. Lee hastily turned over the pages of the Military Training Act to find guidance.

Suddenly Mr. Wort drew three medals from the right-hand pocket of his coat and banged them on the table. Judge Longson looked up after a moment and said: "The tribunal's decision is that Mr. Wort shall be registered as a conscientious objector unconditionally."

Five of the conscientious objectors said they were employed in armament factories, but they did not object to that. The tribunal put them on the register providing they stayed at their present work. All five agreed.

Another five who refused to take part in any war work were ordered to go to Ministry of Labour training camps. Two others agreed to join the R.A.M.C.

STAY AT WORK

First youth to appear before the tribunal was Wilfred Ernest Lewis, of Watwood-road, Hall Green, Birmingham. Christadelphian, who said that military service was not permissible to their cause, nor compatible with the teaching of Christ. Lewis was placed on the register of objectors on condition he remained on the work he was doing—the manufacture of street lamps.

William Everts Judd, of Burrows-lane, Yardley, and employee of Birmingham Corporation Gas Department, who objected on "ethical and Christian grounds," was placed on the register on condition he stayed at his present work.

The Vicar of Handsworth (the Rev. S. King) sat beside William Hands, of South-road, Handsworth, and vouched for the young man's deep religious feeling and genuine objection to fighting.

£30,000 "Magic Box" Swindle in London

PARIS.
AN extraordinary story of a confidence trick, by means of a "magic box," performed in a London hotel by a gang who stole £30,000 from a credulous Frenchman, was told in the Paris court, where four members of the gang have been sentenced.

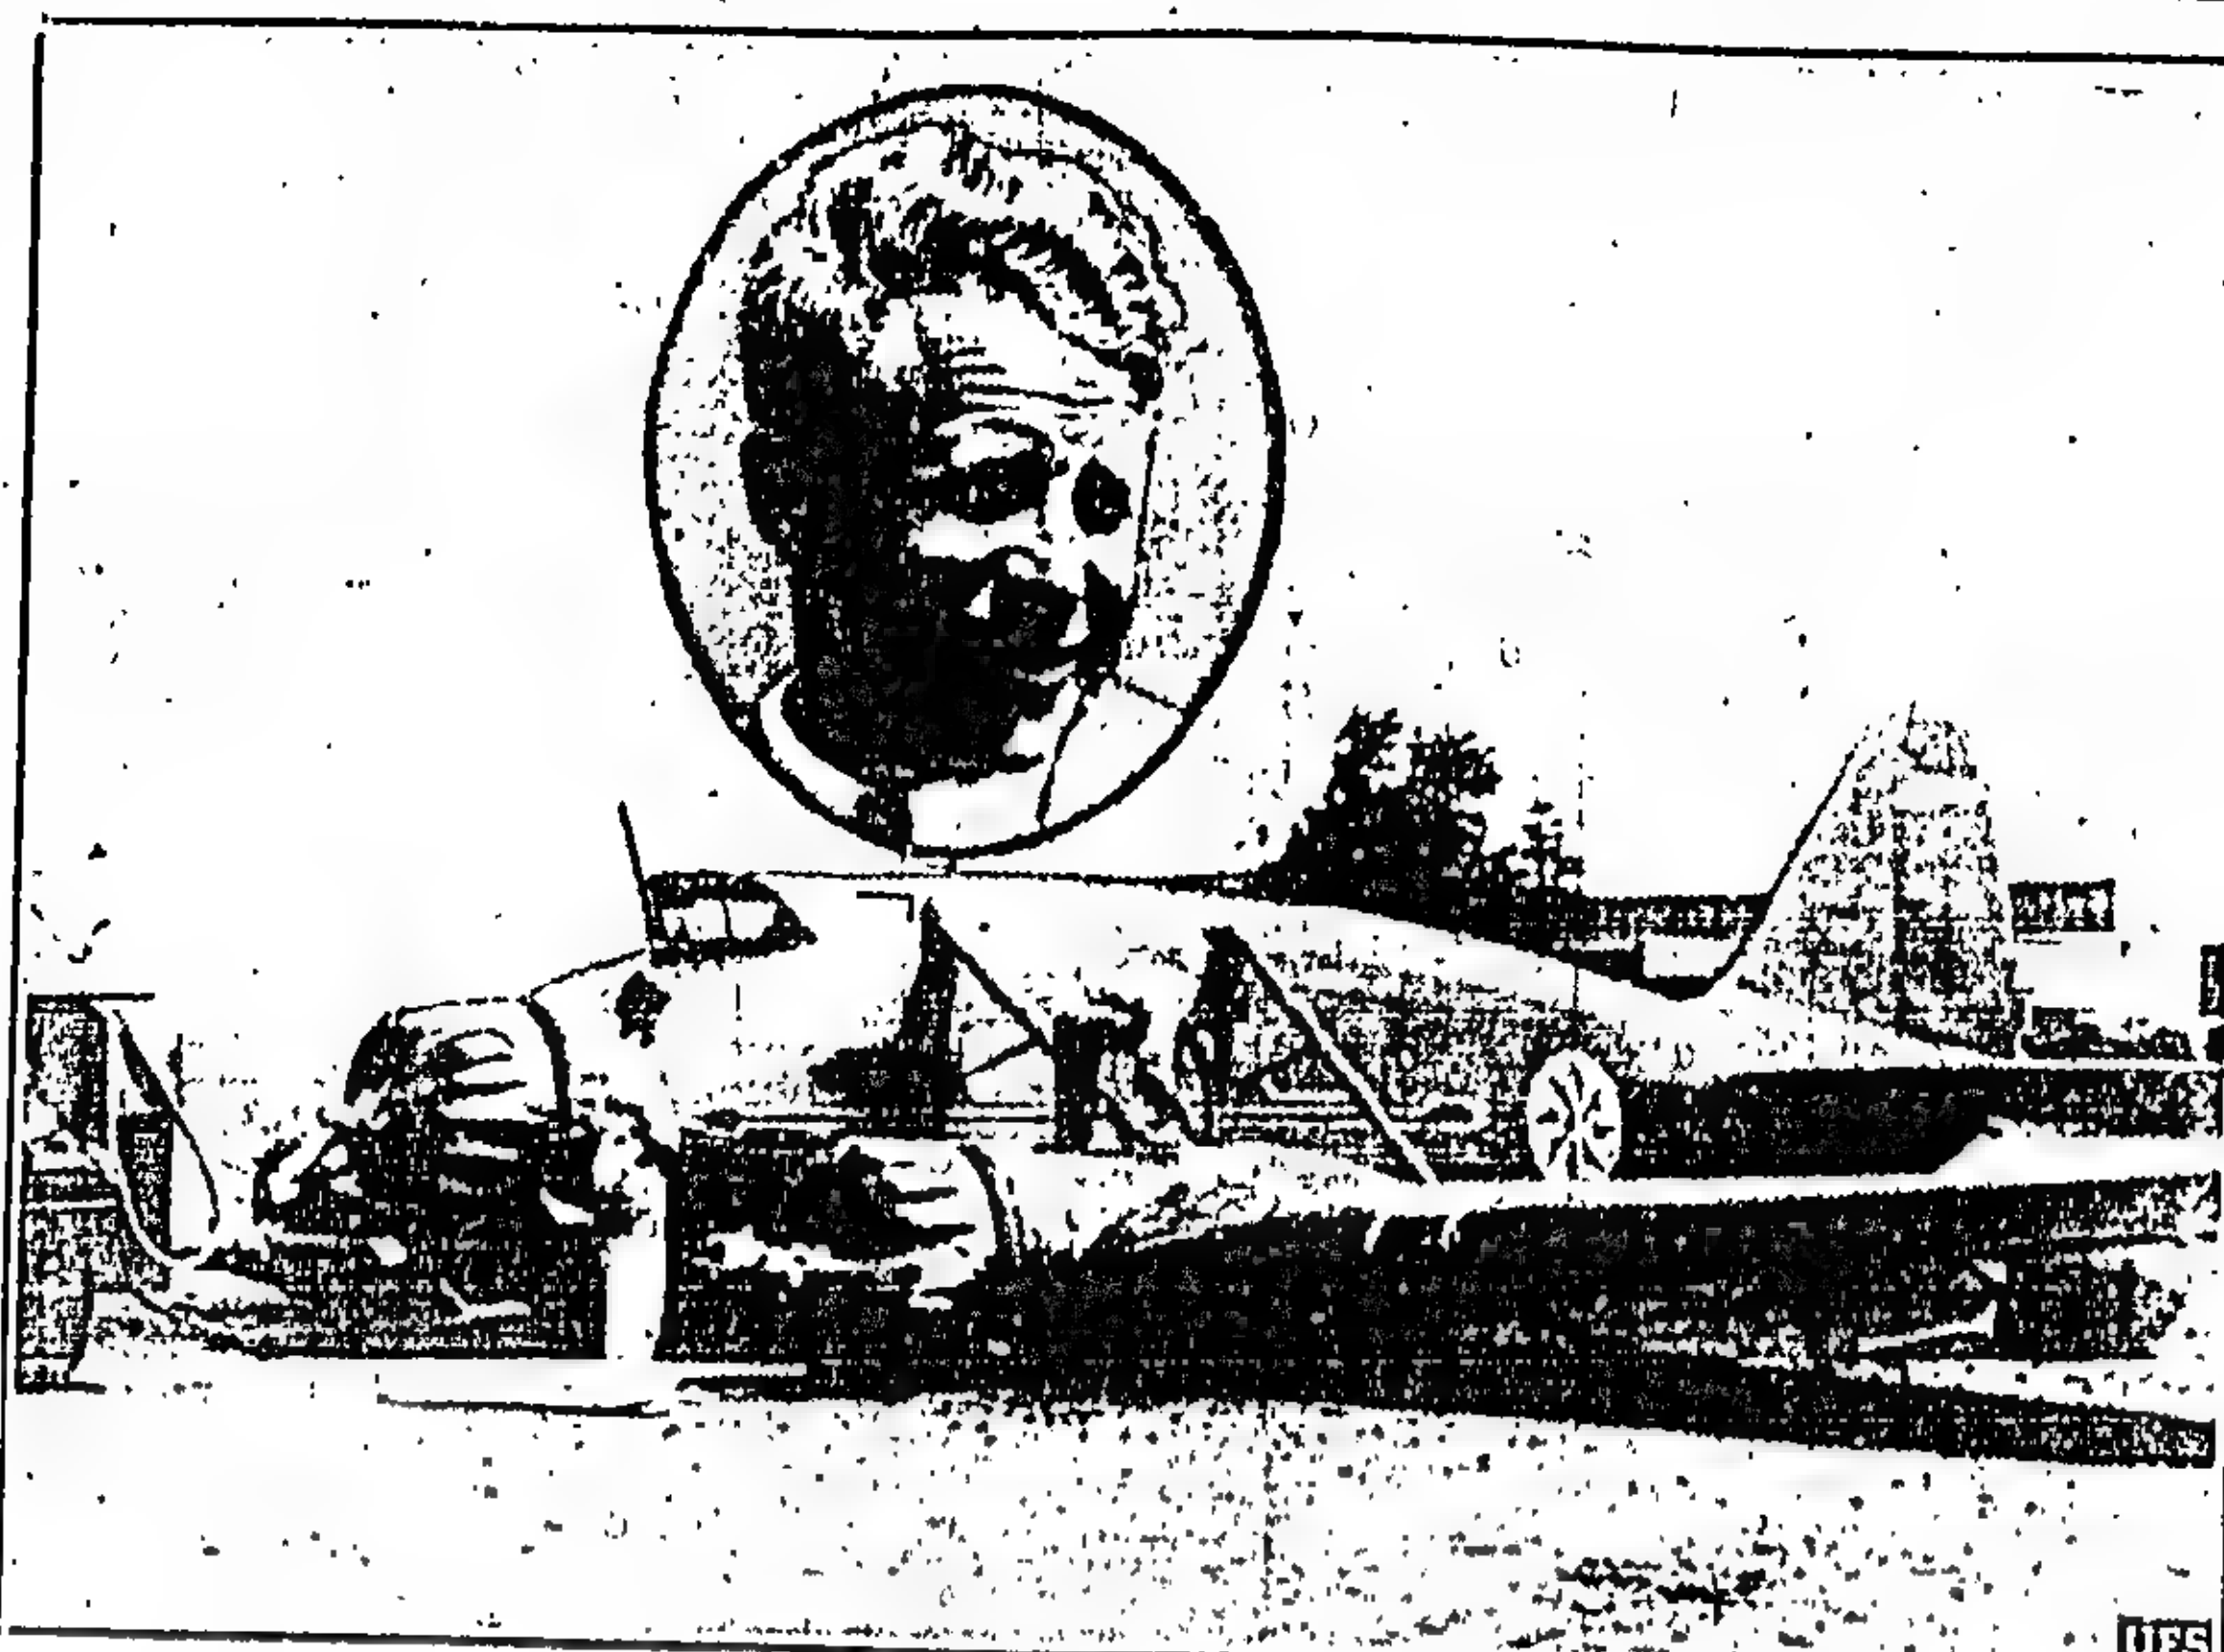

Two Argentine men, Abriata and Urruty, left London by plane with the cash, and are at large. They were tried in default and condemned to five years' imprisonment.

They were introduced to M. Maurice Robin, son of a wealthy Parisian manufacturer, as "inventors."

Their principal "invention" was the "magic box." A Bank of England note for £100 was placed in the bottom, and sprinkled with chemicals. A blank sheet of paper of the same size as the note was put in the box. The box was shaken, to cause pressure on the blank sheet, and left shut for 24 hours.

EMPTY

On reopening the box the bank-note was found to be exactly re-printed on the blank sheet—so there

"Hoots, Hitler, We Like A Joke" Says Aberdeen.

ABERDEEN "and twal' mile roon," is vastly amused at the protest in Berlin literary magazine against jokes made at the expense of Scotland.

Aberdeen is not a little proud of the fact that the best examples of moderate Scottish humour emanate from the Granite City.

Aberdeen has its own views on this intervention by a foreign Power in what is after all a matter of internal policy—for there is a policy in Aberdeen jokes and this is it, straight from the mouth of a prominent townsman:

"Hoots! Dinna they ken (in itself almost a good German word) that we agree wi'Rabbie Burns—The mair they speak I'm kenned the better' (English)—The more they speak of me the better I become known."

FREE ADVERTISEMENT

"That 'Aberdeen on a flag day' postcard (to those who do not know it shows Aberdeen's deserted main street) was one of the best I ever had. It did not cost a penny."

"Just remind the Germans," another Aberdeen told the News Chronicle, "about Margaret Mann, the Aberdeen film star who won fame far beyond the bounds of Hollywood by her representation of the German mother in the once-famous picture, 'The Four Sons'."

Margaret Mann never lost her grip of the Aberdeen tongue. Once when she had to plead with a German lieutenant for one of her four sons she exclaimed with tears running down her cheeks, "Oh hinna ye a mither o' yer ain'."

"The rest of the cast thought she was speaking German and were much impressed."

NOT BRUCE'S SPIDER

Then he told the tale of the two tired spiders which, after the manner of Burns' "Two dogs," began to tell each other of their troubles. The spiders were travelling by train from Aberdeen to London. The first commented that he had had a rough time recently owing to curved corners and modern electric cleaners. Five of his families had been broken up and he could not find a corner to live in. The other spider chuckled and declared that he was getting on fine.

He had found a corner in a charity box in Aberdeen and brought up ten families.

Study Of Mars By U.S. Astronomer

CAPE TOWN.
Mr. E. C. Silpher, director of the Lowell Observatory in Arizona, has arrived at Bloemfontein to begin his observations of the approach of the planet Mars to the earth.

During the next few weeks South Africa will provide exceptionally favourable conditions for a photographic record of the planet.

Giant Raspberry: Yard-Wide Carrot

FIVE giant raspberries, each bigger than a penny, were among 20,000 botanical specimens which recently arrived at the Natural History Museum, South Kensington, from South America.

The collection was made by Mr. A. H. G. Alston while exploring the great Andean highway which runs from Caracas in Venezuela through Colombia to Quito, capital of Ecuador.

Mr. Alston has not ventured to test the taste of the raspberries because he did not want to lose one of the specimens which he found in the Colombian Andes in a region between the tree and snow lines.

Another curiosity is a low, thick, circular plant about a yard in diameter which looks like a great pin-cushion, but actually belongs to the carrot family.

There are gentians an' inch high and tree ferns which grow to 20ft. and are used for house building.

LONG JOB FOR EXPERTS

"There are bound to be many new species in the collection," Mr. Alston said, "but it will take years of research by experts to work them out."

Thirty packing cases were required to carry the specimens, each dried and pressed flat inside a folded sheet of rough paper.

Small plants were dried whole. From tree ferns, which bear fronds as long as 16ft., sections of the leaves were cut at tip, middle and base.

Mr. Alston spent eight months observing the geographical distribution of the plants, gathering and drying them. Except for a month, when he was joined by a scientist from the Smithsonian Institute, Washington, he worked alone.

Travelling the narrow winding lane of the "highway" in a car which on the Pacific side, Mr. Alston lived in native houses and learned Spanish as he went along.

For the drying process he depended upon three household paraffin stoves.

Oil-Engined Car To Be Shown Soon

BRITISH motorists are soon to be offered an oil-engined car for the first time. One will be on exhibition at the Motor Show in the autumn.

The car will be American, but the engine is made by a British firm who have tested its quietness, flexibility, economy and performance on the Continent, in the Sahara and in Australia. One car completed 40,000 miles recently without trouble.

The engine is a six-cylinder. Former disadvantages of weight, noise, and size, have been remedied. The chief advantages claimed by oil-engine makers are that there is greater fuel economy than with petrol engines; there are no electrical components except starter, motor and dynamo, and high speed is now possible.

MORE IMPORTS FOR NEW ZEALAND

Auckland.
More goods are now being imported into New Zealand under special arrangements which will prevent a call on overseas sterling funds for two years or more.

More English manufacturers of cigarettes, have entered into such arrangements to keep their brands on the New Zealand market. A well-known brand of American cigarettes, supplies of which had disappeared from many shops in the past few weeks, is coming on the market again. Imports of cigars are also said to have been arranged by one distributor.

In a number of instances goods held up by the Customs because they were not covered by current licences have been released to the importers under such arrangements.

Poor Dairy Season.—One of the worst dairy seasons recorded in the Commonwealth is being experienced in the Gistew district, J. Gistew & Co. Ltd. will finish with an output of only about 1,050 tons, or 500 tons lower than in 1937-38. The fall in the company's manufacture is about 32 per cent. Prospects appear good for the coming season.

AUSTRALIA

Sydney.
Mr. Charles Holmes, general manager of the Australian National Travel Association, who has just returned to Australia from an American tour, says that expansion of the tourist traffic from America to Australia depends upon the provision of more ships.

The present monthly services appear to be inadequate. He stresses the fact that the American tourist traffic to Australia has greatly increased within the last year or so.

Wheat Restriction Attacked.—A sharp attack on the proposal that Australia should reduce her wheat exports was made recently by Mr. A. A. Dunstan, Premier of Victoria. "The suggestion that Australia should embark on a nation-wide policy of restricted wheat production is tantamount to advocating industrial suicide," he declared.

The Swiss climbing party in the Himalayas, led by M. Andre Roch and including M. Ernest Huber, M. David Zogg and M. Fritz Steuri, have begun their ascent of Dunagiri, 23,000ft. The peak has never yet been reached.

Late in the afternoon the party began their ascent of Dunagiri. The recent decision of the Committee of the Indian Jute Mills Association to work "the equivalent of 45 hours per week" is being keenly resented, and the Bengal National Chamber of Labour as well as Bengal National Jute Workers' Union are preparing to resist it.

U.S. Cotton Deal With Spaniards

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (Reuter).—Mr. Warren Lee Harrison, President of the Export and Import Bank, prior to leaving for Europe to-day, said that the cotton to be sold to Spain will be purchased in the open market, and not specifically drawn from loan stocks.

He said that the shipments were expected to start immediately, with shippers benefiting from the export subsidy.

Interest on financing will probably be three and a half per cent.

Questioned with regard to the possibility of similar arrangements with other countries, Mr. Harrison said that the only other country which might be interested in such a cotton arrangement would be Germany, which already had private commercial credits with the United States.

Mr. Harrison admitted that the Export and Import Bank had substantially depleted its loaning capacity, but that large repayments on outstanding loans were enabling the bank to assume its part in financing the Spanish deal.

Stock Exchange Undertone Steady

LONDON, Aug. 9 (Reuter).—Although trading on the London Stock Exchange was again quiet, the undertone was steady, and gilt-edged holdings recovered after an early weakness.

Rubbers further improved on increasing interest.

New Zealand stock, recently issued, was quoted initially at 1/16th premium, though only small dealings were made.

Commodities were quietly steady, while Wall Street was easier.

SIGNOR MUSSOLINI HEART ATTACK REPORT DENIED

ROME, Aug. 9 (Trans-Ocean).—The report circulating abroad that Signor Mussolini had suffered a serious heart attack was emphatically denied by circles in close touch with Il Duce's family to-day.

Inquiry in these quarters elicited the reply that Signor Mussolini returned from his summer residence to Rome in order to attend to urgent business of State.

Immediately upon his arrival he received a number of leading personalities, including the Duke of Aosta. He also issued a proclamation to the troops who had taken part in the autumn manoeuvres.

Family Allowances As Election Cry

LONDON, Aug. 9 (Reuter).—A scheme for family allowances in the wages system will be an issue in the forthcoming general election.

This was decided at the Liberal Summer School at Cambridge to-day, where it was stated that the economic disadvantages of parenthood was one of the most powerful factors contributing towards the inadequate birth-rate.

Mr. J. C. Cadbury advocated that a commission of inquiry frame a practical proposal, and suggested that some of the features of the continental countries, including Germany and Italy, might well be copied in Britain.

Economic Recovery Depends On Europe

LONDON, Aug. 9 (British Wireless).—Prospects of a further general economic recovery depend on the international situation, declared the Minister of Trade in a speech on Tuesday to-day.

He went on: "If any improvement makes some reduction in our defence preparations possible—and there appears at the moment no sign of that very substantial alteration of policy in certain quarters which alone can do so—I believe the result would be demands for the normal products of industry, which a better atmosphere between nations would immediately bring about."

NEW "YES-MEN" FOR MUSSOLINI

The Sun Attacks HERE

Strong, warm sunshine is pleasant to the body but it is hard on the eyes. The brilliant light causes eye-strain which, in turn, brings headaches and ageing lines. The hot, dust-laden atmosphere encourages microbes, and dries up the natural moisture round the eyes, causing ocular congestion and leading to all kinds of eye-troubles.

Optrex eye lotion stops all this. Its regular use prevents strain, removes dust and germs, strengthens the eye muscles and keeps your eyes happy and healthy. Optrex is recommended by Doctors and Opticians all over the world.

On Guard

THE demonstrations by Britain's armed forces England is witnessing this week are a comforting reminder that our Homeland is fully prepared and able to meet any sudden challenge from the Totalitarians.

The aerial and naval manoeuvres now taking place are the greatest combined defence operations the world has ever witnessed. His Majesty the King yesterday reviewed over 130 warships comprising the Reserve Fleet, whilst 1,300 planes have taken to the air in mass attack and defence on a scale that no other nation has attempted.

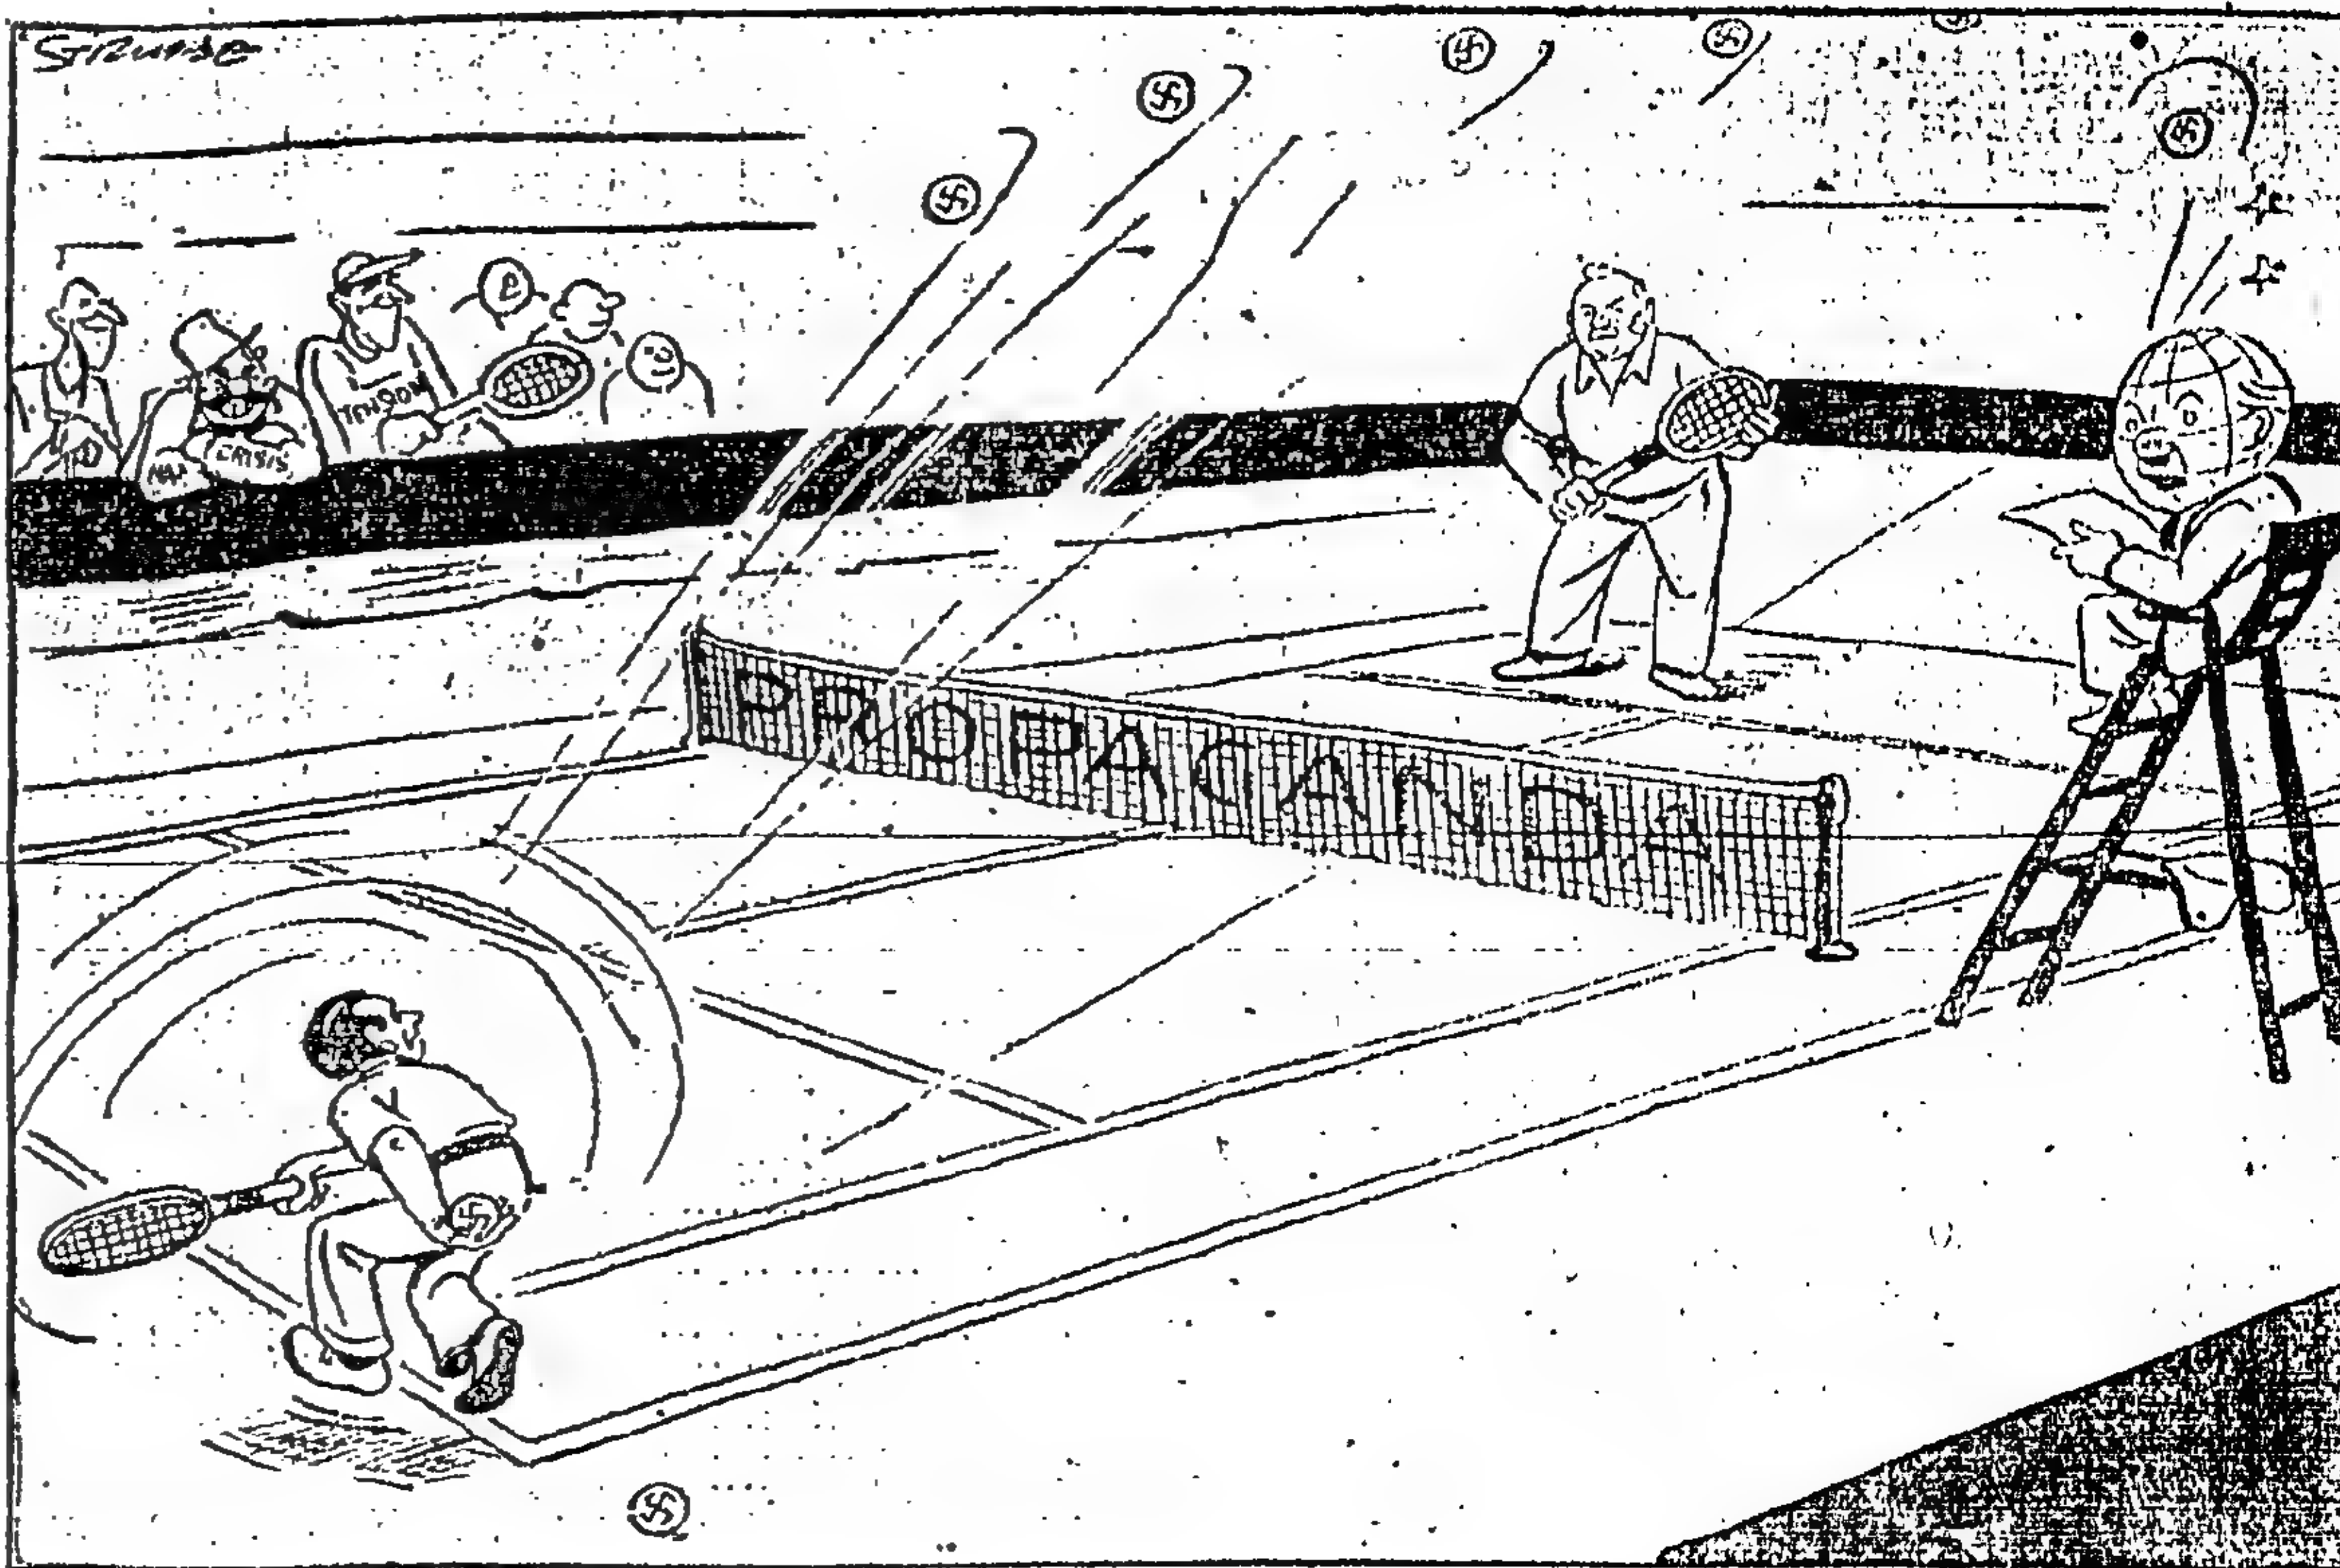

Mobilisation of the Reserve fleet alone has entailed the calling up of an additional 12,000 retired naval officers, reservists and pensioners, and it is computed that nearly 1,000,000 men and women have been mobilised in connection with the air defence tests.

Even more significant than the scope of the manoeuvres is the fact that they have started this year several weeks earlier than is customary. In short, these vast displays of aerial and naval power coincide with the period of the year when peace or war may be decided.

The British combined manoeuvres are certain to be characterised as "provocation" in the Axis Press. Yet in fact they are the logical and necessary reply to the mobilisation of troops which has already taken place in Germany and Italy and is still going on. Just in case Herr Hitler or Signor Mussolini are preparing to make trouble, Britain has prepared to meet it.

The decision for peace or war in Europe rests still, as it has rested for so long, with Herr Hitler and with him alone. If he decides for peace, the British manoeuvres will run their course and the participants will go home again. If he decides in favour of a new adventure in aggression, at least he knows what to expect.

The impressive exercises now under way (they will continue, in the case of the Navy, until October) leave no possible ground for misunderstanding about Britain's will and capacity to act.

CHAMPION OF LOST CAUSES

I SHALL just call him Bill for I know he would hate publicity. The first time I saw him he was crouching behind a pile of sandbags, covered with grime and caked blood, and blazing away with a rifle at the troops of the legally elected Government of Brazil.

It was during a revolt in Sao Paulo, and although the rebels had captured the town they were losing steadily, and it was obvious that their cause was lost.

I heard Bill cursing in English, with a pronounced Scottish accent, so I paused in my cautious crawling behind the barricade and asked what he was doing. Bill just grinned.

I reached the comparative safety of a shop, and was resting there for a moment when Bill came in. He was off duty for an hour; so we talked.

At first he did not seem inclined to explain what he was doing taking part in the internal quarrels of a foreign country. He tried to put me off with the excuse that "it was fun," and that "he just found himself in it."

When I pointed out that he had no right to be taking part in an affair which did not concern him, he became annoyed. "Damn it all," he said, "it's 50 to 1 against the rebels. The Government has sent up fresh troops. The rebels haven't a chance! I couldn't help feeling they needed some help."

He said some other things, too, and I began to understand. "So," I said, "You are a champion of lost causes." Bill looked like an uncomfortable schoolboy, and murmured something about "the underdog."

I did not see Bill for some time after. But I read about him. A British subject was arrested in Buenos Aires for obstructing the police in the execution of their duty and for assault. It was Bill, of course, and his only excuse was that there were three policemen trying to arrest one man and using physical force.

Bill had just joined in to level things a bit. He spent three months in an Argentine jail for that.

Years after I heard of him being mixed up in another South American revolution, and again he was on the losing side. And once I got a letter from him when he was on his way

THIRTEEN hundred Royal Air Force planes are participating this week in the greatest aerial manoeuvres Britain has witnessed. It is, in effect, the coming of age of the modern R.A.F.

At the end of the Great War the air power of Britain was supreme, but, true to our tradition, we began to lower our defences as soon as hostilities ceased and our Air Force was the first to suffer.

It gradually sank to fifth or sixth place, and, but for the revelation of its weakness when we were at odds with Italy over Abyssinia, it might have gone down lower still.

There was no escaping the hard fact that we were outdated in the air, and since then we have been busy on a series of reconstructive programmes so that we might reassume the position of an Air Power to be reckoned with.

It is wholly fitting, therefore, that the coming of age of the R.A.F. should arrive with the completion of the programme as originally conceived, equipping the national defences with a Metropolitan Air Force which numbers 1,750 first-line aircraft of modern type.

Last May that figure was stepped up to 2,370, and there appears to be every hope that this new total will be reached in twelve months.

Behind this frontage there will then exist, moreover, a back area, as it were, of industrial and Ministerial activity to ensure that, in material and personnel, this first-line force can maintain its strength notwithstanding the severe losses which are anticipated in air warfare of the future.

Sir Kingsley Wood's speech in presentation of the Air Estimates, and the full-dress debate in discussion of them has displayed to the world at large an imposing facade of British air power.

Production mounts by leaps and bounds, the types on order are as good as scientific ingenuity can devise, the training establishments are full, and recruits are pouring in.

SUPPORTING the Regular units are many auxiliary and volunteer formations calculated at one end immediately to replace casualties and at the other to provide a mass reserve which after further training may be drawn on to fill the gaps.

to China to help to defend Manchuria.

After that I neither saw nor heard of him for a long time. I did hear of him, finally, back here in Scotland. He was working heroically for national peace organisation! I was somewhat puzzled by this until I realised that here was another cause likely to be lost.

Time passed and I met him again. He was as full of enthusiasm as ever. He was off to Spain to fight for the Government. I could not resist asking him when he was on his way

Nor is this all. Developments are taking place in the Dominions, particularly Australia and Canada, which will not only make those smaller Air Forces a powerful Imperial reinforcement, but will convert them into reservoirs of material equipment to supplement home manufacture.

Finally, in the background, stands the U.S.A., likely at the very least to be benevolently neutral, with a huge productive capacity available to us.

All this points to the belief that our resources are vast enough to bear down any enemy combination in the long run, and no one realises that position better than Herr Hitler.

Over there they are planning their faith on the "blitzkrieg," as they call it, or a lightning war, and the German wheels of industry are turning on that account alone. We can hardly hope to overtake their output in actual preparation for the stroke, for they have gained a long lead on us.

A country which is straining every nerve to encase itself in armour, which is as highly industrialised as we ourselves, which has a labour scarcity instead of grievous unemployment, and which can name the day, is hard to overtake in armament production.

This fever of preparation is in the nature of a gamble, depending on success on what is hoped to be the pulverising effect of mass bombardment from the air. But if this hope be disappointed, then the very earnestness of the preliminary efforts will rebound on their own heads.

They will have spent themselves, before war breaks, for a machine which is geared to the highest pitch can do no more, and when overstrained by the dislocating effect of internal hurry which war brings in train it is likely to do much less.

WE, on the other hand, provided we survive the first resounding blows, can speed up our machine with the prolongation of hostilities and have it running smoothly on top gear when the other is creaking badly. Our resources are inexhaustible. Confronted with a situation of that kind, we have to be more than careful in the composition of our air power. Logically, and long before such a situation arises, we should have imposed on ourselves a two-Power standard in the air as once we did at sea.

The threat of air attack by superior air power can be, as we have lately seen, a weapon in itself. It is undeniable that a sense of air inferiority, and the spectre of the bomber over France and England, enabled Hitler to call our bluff at Munich.

It is too late now to build up our air power to anything like equality with that of Germany, let alone a two-Power standard, while parity is merely a vague expression. We let slip the opportunity when we had it in our grasp.

All we can do now is so to adjust the balance between our fighter and our bomber forces that each can play its part in the service of our national defence, remembering that equally with the head and heart of Empire, which are the British Isles, we must protect its veins and arteries, which are our sea communications, and its extremities and lower limbs, which are our Dominions beyond the seas.

NOW, in our peculiarly balanced air force, a properly matter of delicate adjustment, for we are vulnerably situated and our capital lies on the threshold of the country. It is our base of operations and must, at all costs, be made reasonably secure. But not to the detriment of our bombing capacity.

Without ability to carry war to the enemy we are merely covering up and allowing him to raid us when and where he cares, without the power on our part of taking adequate reprisal. The enemy is just as apprehensive of air attack as we are, but if it came to his knowledge that we were developing our fighter arm, purely for home defence, at the expense of our own raiding power it would relieve him from much anxiety on that score and enable him to concentrate on bombing.

The public is reassured to hear of our growing air power, but it presumes that it will be built up according to the needs of strategy, and with a view to knocking out the other side.

THIS cannot be if it is mainly designed to meet the raider overhead. Our base of operations must have, of course, sufficient fighters, but there are other means of protecting it, such as by anti-aircraft fire, the balloon barrage and reliable forms of A.R.P.

Air warfare has a cruel logic of its own. We must expect to be knocked about as long as the enemy has power to deliver the blows, but the extent of his activities in that respect will depend on our capacity for returning tit for tat.

Such is the background of the colossal expenditure on air defence and of the Votes which are now agreed to. We can produce the aircraft, we can enrol the men, and we have the money, too. It is only now to be hoped that the functioning is properly understood and that, above all, the bomber force should not be denuded in favour of the fighter for the sake of an appearance of security which is false. Otherwise we may well congratulate ourselves that our house will be very soon in order.

Britain's Defences Broken

First Results Of Mock Air Attack

London, Aug. 9. Latest reports, regarding 1,300 Royal Air Force aeroplanes taking part in the air exercises indicate that some of the invaders succeeded in creeping through the defences at certain points, but weather enabling them to avoid the observers.

Hundreds of spectators in the early hours watched the dog-fight over London. Twelve bombers coming from the coast dropped white flares over the city, representing bombs. Three more bombers joined the raiders, but were followed by interceptor fighting planes, and a mimic battle ensued, the fighters wheeling and turning as they attacked the bombers which five minutes later departed, apparently vanquished.

A number of other points are believed to have been attacked, but how far the raiders penetrated is not yet known.—Reuter.

Touche Of Reality

London, Aug. 9. The second day of the air war opened with touches of reality, with four dead at Toller when a bomber crashed in a field and the gas tanks exploded. A fifth member of the crew jumped from the gun turret and escaped with a badly cut head.

Two destroyers and a number of Royal Air Force speed boats are still searching the Thames Estuary and the North Sea for any trace of the bomber reported to have crashed in the sea, after conflicting early reports had indicated that four planes were involved.

Bad flying conditions caused two forced landings in Essex and a third near York. No persons were injured.—United Press.

Bolisha Accused

London, Aug. 9. Commenting on Mr. Horé Bolisha's absence in France during the exercises, the Daily Herald says "he is on holiday and cannot be disturbed." The newspaper says that since he is responsible for the country's defence, he should attend the exercises.—Trans-Ocean.

Australian Warships

London, Aug. 9. Two Australian cruisers, the Canberra and the Sydney, left Melbourne on Tuesday for a cruise around the eastern, northern and western coasts of the Australian continent after which they will proceed to Singapore, calling at ports in the Netherlands East Indies.—Trans-Ocean.

Strengthening Singapore

London, Aug. 9. The usually well informed Yorkshire Post says it is intended to bring the Singapore garrison up to a total of 12,000 men.

Henceforth all troops destined for Hongkong and other British Far Eastern possessions will be despatched directly from Singapore, instead of from India.

In the event of war, the Singapore garrison, will, according to the paper, be further reinforced by contingents from Australia and New Zealand.—Trans-Ocean.

Stringent Rules

Gibraltar, Aug. 9. Three-day air raid exercises on a most extensive scale start at 9 p.m. to-day with participation for the first time of territorial, anti-aircraft units, special constabulary, civilians and also military units.

The Governor has issued strict orders for darkening houses and banning pedestrians and motor cars, except official, from the streets. Defaulters are liable to a fine of £100. Official motor cars must have their lights dimmed. Shops and houses of entertainment will close early.—United Press.

N. Z. Endorses Policy

Wellington, Aug. 9. The acting Premier stated to-day that the Government has approved the British Government's defence policy. This was made in answer to the Opposition members' declaration that his Party had no friendly feeling towards the British leaders.—Reuter Bulletin.

ing him if he were doing to get "peace pledge" signatures. Bill certainly did blush, at least.

Poor Bill! He is back from Spain now, but he left an arm in a field hospital. He is still cheery, and has started work again. I believe he has something to do with organising unemployed demonstrations. I wonder if this time the champion of lost cause has changed sides?—Miller Watson.

JAPAN NOT YET DECIDED ABOUT MILITARY PACT

Tokyo, Aug. 9. Although no final decision was taken to Japan's policy towards the European situation at yesterday's Five-Minister Conference, informed quarters understand that the Army's views were examined by the key members of the Cabinet.

At the outset of the meeting, the War Minister, General Itagaki, proposed that although Japan's fundamental policy in Europe was decided upon by the Government on June 5, further discussion should be made in view of the latest developments in the European situation.

He then explained fully the Army's views.

Report To Emperor

Tokyo, Aug. 9. General Itagaki will proceed to the Imperial Villa at Hayama on Thursday morning and report to the Emperor on matters under his jurisdiction.

A joint conference was held at noon to-day between the War Office, the Army General Staff, and the Inspector-General of Military Education. It was understood that the Army's attitude towards the European situation was discussed.

Present at the meeting were Lieut.-General Itagaki, the War Minister, General Tachibana, Inspector-General of Military Education, Lieut.-General Nakajima, Vice-Chief of the Army General Staff, Lieut.-General Yamawaki, Vice-Minister of War, and other officials.—Domest.

Emancipating Japan

Tokyo, Aug. 9. Commenting on the Japanese policy in Europe, the Kokumin Shinbun says that a tripartite alliance is necessary for disposing of the China situation.

If Japan is satisfied with retention of North China, there will be no necessity to conclude a tripartite military alliance between Japan, Germany and Italy. Great Britain and the United States will be only too glad to co-operate with Japan in economic developments in China if Japan's activity is limited to the North.

The newspaper asserts that antagonism between Japan, and Britain and America is necessarily growing as the result of Japan's attempts to construct a new order in East Asia by emancipating China from her semi-colonial status. This is certain to happen no matter whether Japan concludes a military alliance with Italy and Germany or not.

Consequently, the newspaper asserts, there is no reason why Japan should hesitate to conclude the tripartite alliance with Germany and Italy who form the spear-head of the anti-British campaign in Europe. The Chugai Shingyo says that those who advocate strengthening of the anti-Comintern pact and conclusion of a military alliance between Germany, Italy and Japan, are motivated by the desire to terminate the China Affair specially.

Japan's policy is aimed at construction of a new order in East Asia through the China Affair and Japan should, therefore, befriend those Powers who sincerely co-operate with Japan and should not rely on either Democracies or Totalitarianism.—Domest.

SPANISH CABINET SHUFFLE

Paris, Aug. 9. Certain details of the reconstruction of the Spanish Cabinet following the resignation of the Falange (Fascist) Party, making the Party a decisive influence in the life of Spain, have been officially revealed at Burgos.

Two surprises are that General Franco will be Prime Minister without portfolio, and the position of Vice-Premier, previously held by General Jordana, will be suppressed. The premiership was supposed to have been reserved for General Franco's brother-in-law, General Suarez, but according to well-informed quarters in Burgos, General Suarez has been appointed President of the Falange Political Junta.

It is believed that the influence of the Junta will certainly be increased by the suppression of the vice-premiership, General Jordana having been one of General Franco's principal advisers hitherto.

An official communique shows there will be 12 Ministers in the new Cabinet against 11 previously. It states that the work of the Minister of Defence, formerly General Davila, will be done by the Ministers of War, Navy and Air. It is believed that General Suarez will also remain Minister of Interior, other portfolios being Finance, Industry and Commerce, Foreign Affairs, Agriculture, Education, Public Works and Labour.

A report from Tanager states that Colonel Belzeder, High Commissioner of Spanish Morocco, will be the new Foreign Minister, replacing General Jordana.—Reuter.

Supreme Council Formed

Burgos, Aug. 9. A decree reorganising the Government announces the creation of a Supreme Council for National Defence with Franco himself at its head. The Supreme Council replaces the single wartime Ministry of National Defence.

Under Franco there will be three new ministers for the Army, Navy and Air Force, all of them Generals, with

REFUSED TO BE STRIPPED

New Incident In Tientsin

Tientsin, Aug. 9. The firmness of a Briton, Mr. H. McClure Anderson, saved him from an attempt by the Japanese to strip him at the barriers shortly after noon to-day.

Mrs. McClure Anderson and Mrs. W. O'Hara had some urgent business to transact this morning in the former German Concession to which they were admitted without difficulty, but when they attempted to return to the British Concession through the Shansi Road barrier, they were told that they must re-enter by the Woodrow Wilson Street barrier through which they had entered the former German Concession. Returning to the Woodrow Wilson Street barrier they were not permitted to enter, it being pointed out that the barrier is only for exit from the British Concession.

Mrs. Anderson then telephoned to her husband who went out by car and took them to the Shansi Road barrier, where he presented his passport. He was then told that he must undergo. He firmly declined, stating that they could examine his pockets in which there were nothing except his glasses and odds and ends. He had nothing else concealed about his person. After an argument lasting about five minutes he was permitted to pass through.

Mr. McClure Anderson is a noted local architect and an old China hand. Mrs. Anderson is the wife of the Director of Collins and Company.—Reuter.

Food Restriction

Tientsin, Aug. 9. Residents of Tientsin this morning were able to purchase fresh beef for the first time this week owing to the slaughter-house strike ending.

The Japanese army organ, the Yung Pao claimed that an agreement has been reached between the farmers and contractors but did not mention the price of hides to the War Department.

Beef is being retailed now at 60 cents per pound in the Concession's markets while it is being sold for 40 cents outside. Stall keepers explain that the difference is due to "palm greasing" at the barriers around the Concession.—United Press.

A.R.P. EXAMINATIONS Successful Candidates In Recent Tests

The Air Raid Precautions Officer announces the following results of examinations for Air Raid Instructors and Wardens held at the Chinese Y.M.C.A., Kowloon, and Y.W.C.A. (Instructor Mr. Chak Tai-kwong):

Passed as Instructors.—Miss Lo Olsin, Cheung Hing-cheong, Lo Wah-fook, H. S. Leung, Kwong Heung-wing, Enoch Cheung, Edmund S. Chen, Choi Chung-shun, Miss Lo Wal-man, Kwan Yew-kwen, Miss Do To-kee, Ho Kwok-cheung, Miss Chak Fook-chun, Miss Li Yuk-ping, Miss Heung Wal-man.

Passed as Wardens.—Ho Kwok-fun, Ho Kam-yiu, Ip Kung-chun, Miss Ho Suk-han, Wu Wei-chi, Tsang Kwong-tai, Choi Hin-man, Miss Lai U-hing, Miss Etheline Young, Miss Man Yuck-king, Fung Kai-yin, Wong Han-po, Miss Wong Kit-wah, Ho Kwok-fai.

respective Chiefs of Staff. If the occasion demands it this military nucleus is empowered to co-opt the Ministers of Foreign Affairs and Industry, together with the chiefs of the industries concerned in the manufacture of war supplies.

The personnel of the Supreme Council is not yet announced, but its creation within the government is regarded as an indication of the strong part the military hierarchy is to play in the country's reconstruction.

Official circles consider it a reply to those foreign commentators who have held there to have doubted France's ability to control any disident elements in the political situation.—Reuter.

King's Busy Day

REVIEWS RESERVE FLEET

London, Aug. 9. Travelling all night by special train from Scotland, the King to-day reviewed in Weymouth Bay the greatest assembly of Britain's Reserve Fleet since the War.

Stretching in fourteen long lines across the spacious bay were 133 ships ranging from men-of-war like the veteran Iron Duke, flagship of Admiral Jellicoe at the Battle of Jutland, to motor torpedo-boats of the latest and most modern arm of the Navy.

Weymouth's temporary population had more than doubled since His Majesty had passed through the town on the way to Dartmouth three weeks ago. Apart from 30,000 holiday makers, 60,000 day trippers arrived in town during the morning by road and rail. Many overnight arrivals were unable to find accommodation and slept in bathing tents and back huts.

Twelve thousand officers and men of the Reserve Fleet, most of them veterans of the Great War, were early afloat and by 8 a.m. all ships were dressed overall in readiness for the Royal visit. The long lines of vessels presented a striking picture of grace and power in the early morning sunshine.

Cheering Crowds. Long before the arrival of the King, crowds began to line the beflagged route of His Majesty's motor drive from the station. The King, in the undress uniform of Admiral of the Fleet, drove through the dense lines of cheering people. Awaiting the King at the embarkation point were Lord Stanhope and Vice-Admiral Sir Dudley North. As the King stepped into the Royal barge, the bigger vessels thundered a salute of 21 guns.

Nearby was the Admiralty yacht Enchantress with members of the Board of Admiralty and Admiral of the Fleet Darlan, Chief of French Naval Staff, aboard. The latter went aboard the Victoria and Albert where they were presented to the King.

After a brief stay the King, attended by Lord Stanhope and high naval officers, returned to the Royal barge and began his long review of the fleet. His Majesty first visited the aircraft carrier Courageous, where he inspected 1,500 reservists.

Visibility was poor and the weather gradually deteriorated since the early morning.

Shanghai Awaits War Anniversary Meetings Banned: Police Take Precautions

Shanghai, Aug. 9. Settlement and Concession authorities have banned all meetings since August 6. Early this morning, a general mobilisation of the police forces in the Settlement and Concession was made.

The International Volunteer Corps also took part in patrolling the streets. Armed with revolvers, police began this morning examining all passers-by at recently-erected barriers along Nanjing Road, Avenue Edward VII, and other streets. Emergency fortresses were set up along the perimeter of the French Concession where tanks and armoured cars were standing by.

The British, American, and Italian defence forces stationed along the Settlement boundary constructed additional barbed-wire barricades at all approaches to the Settlement. All bridges on Soochow Creek are temporarily closed to traffic with the western district.

Curfew is strictly enforced after midnight. The emergency policing measures will be continued until the night of August 15.—Domest.

The block is now controlled by three armoured cars with machine-guns and a large number of armed police who, with pistols in their

Berlin, Aug. 9. The establishment of a peoples' register embracing all Germans between the ages of five and 10, and listing qualifications, training and physical condition of every man and woman, has been ordered by Dr. Frick, Minister of the Interior.

The register, which will be issued between August 13 and 19, makes exceptions only in the case of foreigners, active Army officers, and soldiers and labour service men serving the full training period. The register will be arranged according to year classes.

It is stated that the register is being prepared for the purpose of supplementing the Police register. It is added, however, that the register will serve national defence, and also, should Germany be attacked, would be as well as unit men must support the fighting army by employment in the homeland in greater measure than during the world war.—United Press.

Japanese Becoming Impatient Linger Tokyo Parleys

Tokyo, Aug. 9. Sir Robert Craigie held an interview with Mr. Sotomatsu Kato, chief Japanese delegate to the Anglo-Japanese conference at the Tokyo Club yesterday afternoon.

It is understood that Sir Robert told the Japanese official that the instructions received from London yesterday morning were connected with the police questions and that the British Government's views on the currency questions were not made known yet.

He pointed out that if the negotiations were to be resumed immediately, the police questions would have to be settled first. He said that he could not tell when his Government's views on the economic questions could be transmitted because the British Government was still consulting third Powers concerned.

If Japan insists that the police and economic questions must be dealt with simultaneously, he regretted that he was still unable to make any proposal for resumption of the conversations.

Sir Robert added that Britain had no intention of deliberately delaying the progress of the parleys and that the British Government was considering with sincerity possible settlement of the pending questions.

Mr. Kato replied that it was up to the British Government to consult third Powers but that Japan regarded Britain as the other party in the negotiations designed to settle local issues in the British Concession in Tientsin. He said that as already affirmed by Japanese authorities Japan would find it difficult to make further consideration for the procedure of the conference.

After his interview Mr. Kato reported his conversations with Sir Robert to the Foreign Minister, Mr. H. Arata.

A joint conference will be held to-day between the Foreign Office and the War Ministry to discuss the steps to be taken by Japan in coping with the British attitude. It is understood that Mr. Kato will make an important communication to Sir Robert following the conference.

Some circles understand that Britain's postponement of the settlement of the economic questions would be due to the latest developments in the delicate international situation.

Sir Robert following the interview visited the French and American Embassies.

It is understood that the British Ambassador informed the French and American Ambassadors of London's decisions regarding the parleys on the basis of the fresh instructions.—Domest.

Japanese Impatience

Tokyo, Aug. 9. Officials of the Ministry of War and the Foreign Office met this morning to discuss measures to deal with the deadlock in the Anglo-Japanese talks resulting from Sir Robert Craigie's not receiving any further instructions.

Japanese reports said they are planning "effective and adequate steps to meet the situation."—United Press.

Japanese Reply

Tokyo, Aug. 9. Asked by a foreign correspondent whether the delay in the resumption of the conference had any connection with the Japanese Five-Minister Conference on the European policy, the spokesman of the Foreign Office to-day said that he had no knowledge of the suggestion.

A foreign correspondent asked whether France and the United States would be consulted regarding the economic questions. The spokesman said that the matter could be settled between Japan and Britain.

The spokesman understood that Mr. Kato would probably meet Sir Robert to-day to reply to the latter's proposals made yesterday.—Domest.

As they encountered the 60 Soviet and Outer Mongol aircraft of the I-16 type the middle group of the Japanese forces first smashed into the enemy lines.

With their formation disorganised, the Soviet planes attempted to get the upper hand of the Japanese by soaring higher into the sky, when, however, they were waylaid by the upper unit of Japanese fighters who swooped down upon them through the clouds.

ROBSON AND NISH IN LAST FOUR OF OPEN BOWLS PAIRS

Peculiar Scoring In Some Of The Singles Matches

Several interesting matches were played in the Open Bowls Championships yesterday. In the quarter-finals of the Pairs, T. E. Robson and H. Nish defeated G. Duncan and W. Gill by 26-16, while ten more matches were decided in the second round of the Singles.

Playing consistently, Robson and Nish scored on 11 heads against their opponents' ten, but what really gave them their wide margin of victory were the two fives which they registered in the course of the match, the first on the seventh head and the second on the 17th. Apart from these two fives, there was very little in the scoring of the two pairs.

Robson and Nish, however, led all the way, 6-1 on the fifth, 15-5 on the tenth, 18-10 on the 15th and 24-16 on the 20th.

In the Singles, the most peculiar game was seen on the Hongkong F.C. green, where A. M. Omar defeated a club-mate, E. Zimmermann, by 21-10. On the seventh head Zimmermann was leading 10-4, but he never scored again, whereas his opponent "chalked" up 4, 3, 3, 4, 1 and 4 on successive ends.

Zimmermann broke down completely on the last six heads, and the match concluded on the 13th.

On the same green, L. J. Silva eliminated F. Channing by 21-13, requiring 17 heads in the process. Silva had a four on the sixth end and two threes, while Channing also had two threes amongst his tallies.

DALLAH THROUGH
A. R. Dallah, who reached the semi-finals last year, made further progress at the expense of a team-mate, D. M. Khan, whom he defeated by 21-8. Dallah was shaky at the start and allowed his opponent to take a lead of 7-1 on the sixth head, but he made a good recovery, and conceded only one more shot after this. Khan led 8-5 on the ninth end, but thereafter Dallah had 3, 1, 3, 1, 3, 2, and 3 to reach his game.

On the Police R. C. green, H. Gilling, after leading by 14-0 on the sixth head, defeated K. M. Omar 21-8 on the 15th head. Omar scored only on four heads in the course of the game. Each player registered a four.

C. F. Remedios, a former champion of Shanghai, was a little too steady for S. M. White on the Kowloon F.C. green and won by 21-8. Remedios led all the way, and had one solid spell of scoring when, from 8-7 on the 11th end, he took the score to 19-7 on the 17th.

Trailing behind J. S. Logan at 9-10 on the 14th head, R. Bha finished up with six winning heads which were sufficient to give him game. He had 1, 3, 3, 2, 1, and 2 to reach his 21 shots.

On the Indian R. C. green, A. J. Hall started well against J. H. Gelling and led 7-0 after four heads. On the seventh he was 11-2 in the lead, but on the 10th he had an advantage of only two shots, 11-9. However, with a single and a three on the next two ends, he was 15-9 in the lead, and at the 18th, he was leading 20-11. For four heads, Gelling prevented him from taking the all-important point. Gelling himself, however, could only score singles on these four

Here And There With "Abe"

Right Spirit Shown By Local Soccer Officials

EVEN if one does not think highly of Hongkong's chances of winning in the circumstances, one must admire the spirit of the Hongkong Football Association in having already decided to send a team to Shanghai in November to resume the Interport series with that city.

A letter to this effect will shortly be written to the Shanghai F.A., and if the latter agree, a Hongkong team will definitely go up. What sort of a team it will be is difficult to hazard a guess at the moment. Obviously if the Navy and Army players are not available and if the South China A.A. stars refuse to go to Shanghai, the Colony cannot hope to have anything better than a moderate team. But the idea seems to be that the result of the Interport does not matter very much; however, that Hongkong should fulfil its obligations does a great deal. It was the turn of the Colony to send a team north last year, but for various reasons it was decided not to do so. Now, however, the Hongkong F.A. have sufficient funds and they are making haste to assure Shanghai that a team will travel north to resume the series.

Sport And Politics

IT is all very well for theorists to not mix But in actual fact, they frequently do. The Royal Navy cannot release players because of the uncertainty of ship movements; the Army cannot guarantee that permission will be given to their players to go to Shanghai, probably because the present political situation does not warrant the authorities to allow soldiers to be absent from their units for long; and the Chinese simply refuse to play in Shanghai because of the Japanese influence in that city. You may remember that Lee Wal-long a few months ago agreed to go to Shanghai to take part in a series of exhibition soccer games, the proceeds of which were to go to War Relief. But such a fuss was made in the Chinese press that the country's soccer idol deemed it expedient to decline the invitation. The same situation prevails at the moment. There you are. Take away the Navy, Army and South China players, and what have we left? Nothing very much, I am afraid. But the Hongkong F.A. apparently are determined to make the trip if Shanghai wants them to send a team. That's the spirit!

Tennis Visitors

UNLESS their steamer has been delayed, the tennis team from Thailand, which is making a good-will tour abroad, will reach Hongkong to-day. There is no need for me to say that Hongkong tennis enthusiasts welcome them to these shores. The team consists of Muang Roeng (present champion of Thailand), Sanoh, Police Captain Rason Chatikavanij, a Cambridge "Blondie" of 1934, and Miss Sanguan, the lady champion of her country. Muang Roeng and Sanoh are already well-known in Hongkong as they have already played here before in a series of exhibition matches arranged by the Commissioner in the Colony, some years ago but Chatikavanij and Miss Sanguan are strangers. During their stay in Hongkong, an Interport match will be played on Davis Cup lines, that is, four singles and one doubles, spread over three days. The programme of matches was announced yesterday. The Thai brothers are taking on the singles and the Rumjahn cousins are playing the doubles. If the visitors play up to form, there should be some very interesting matches indeed.

Bloody Mess

WHEN the fight between Max Baer and Lou Nova took place nearly two months ago, the cubans merely said it was a good fight and made no mention of the brutality of the exchanges. In a recent issue of Time, the American news magazine, the following appeared, however, on the fight:

It was a roughhouse brawl. They hit with the backs of their gloves, they hit below the belt, they hit after the bell. They spat blood, dripped blood, slobbered blood. It was the sort of fight a reputable U.S. citizen would be horrified to see in a water-front saloon. Yet last week this primitive performance was billed as a top-notch heavyweight boxing match—staged in New York's Yankee Stadium to select a September challenger for the world's championship. And 18,000 presumably reputable U.S. citizens paid up to $11.50 a seat to watch it.

One of the contenders was 30-year-old Max Baer, onetime world's heavyweight champion who had not been in a ring for 18 months. The other was 24-year-old Lou Nova of Alameda, Calif., an inexperienced second-rater. By the eighth round, Baer's back was staggering, half-blind, and choking from the blood he had been swallowing ever since the third round, when an inch-long gash was opened on the inside of his mouth. Young Nova, unable to wind more than the gory performance any other way, kept pecking at Baer's bleeding mouth and eye, kept pummeling his hideously swollen cheek, kept pounding widely at his wheezing body.

In the eleventh round, the referee finally stopped the butchery, awarded a technical knockout to young Nova, who was in pretty bad shape himself. The 18,000 reputable U.S. citizens, sitting under the stars in Yankee Stadium, cheered long and loud. They thought it had been a good fight.

Cricket Story

THIS story comes from an Australian sailor, attached to a boat which recently docked at Portsmouth. Said sailor, just before leaving Sydney, took part in a cricket match between his own ship's crew and a rival crew. One of the teams turned up a man short and a "rookie" a newcomer to the Australian Navy was asked to fill the vacancy. Being a "rookie," few of the players, most of all his captain, a commanding officer, took much notice of the stranger and he was put in No. 11. When he went up to bat his side had lost nine wickets for a paltry 50 runs or so, but in less than no time he more than doubled the score before he lost his last wicket partner. Asked if he could bowl, the "rookie" said "yes, a bit." He then proceeded to skittle the opponents out for less than 40, his share being nine cheap wickets. After it was all over the rather bumptious commanding officer said: "Look here, rookie, you're almost good enough for first class cricket." "Yes, I know," said the rookie. "I have played in one or two Sheffield Shield matches and I was in the last two Australian Test teams. My name is Jack Fingleton."

THREE GOOD EFFORTS BY WOMEN

Athletic Meeting At White City

The Women's Amateur Athletic Association held their seventeenth annual championships at the White City Stadium on July 21 before a disappointingly small crowd of spectators.

Three performances stood out from a long series of events lasting for four and a half hours. The best, undoubtedly, was the win by Miss E. Forster, of the Civil Service, in the One Mile. Her time of 5 min. 15.3 sec. was a British record, being 2 sec. faster than Miss G. Lunn's time in 1937. There is, at present, no official world's record at this distance, which is not run in the Olympic Games.

The time hardly does justice to the superb way in which Miss Forster ran the race right from the start. Having soon gone into the lead she kept up a steady pace throughout, gradually going further and further ahead of Miss D. Harris, the winner last year. Her style was perfect, so very different from most of the other competitors of the afternoon.

DOUBLE SUCCESS

Miss L. Chalmers, of Portsmouth, scored a double success by winning the 200 and 400 Metres. Both races she won quite easily, and in the shorter distance it was her second victory, having won in 1937, when she established the British record of 24.9 sec. Miss D. Odham, the tall Milchem girl, has won the High Jump since 1936, and on July 21st she cleared 5ft. 5in. She is the present holder of the world's record of 5ft. 5 3/8 in., and on July 21st she only just failed to clear 5ft. 6in.

Miss Odham competed also in the 80 metres hurdles. In this latter event Miss K. Robertson scored her second successive win. In the Putting the Weight the winner, Miss B. Reid, succeeded in reaching 37ft. 5 1/2 in. It should be pointed out that this is a 4 kilo weight.

OFT-POSTPONED TENNIS MATCH PLAYED AT LAST VICTORY TO SOOKUNPOO TEAM BY SIX TO THREE

(By "Abe")

After five postponements, the important tie in the "A" Division of the Hongkong Tennis League between the Indian R.C. and the South China A.A. was played off at Sookunpoo yesterday, the result being a victory for the Indians by six sets to three.

Rain nearly caused a sixth postponement. Rain actually fell when the match was in progress, but after driving two pairs to shelter, it held off long enough for the game to be completed.

Conditions, however, were far from conducive to good tennis. The ground was soft and wet and there was a cross wind which prevented good control. Furthermore the light was poor.

The team fielded by the Chinese was not as strong as those in their earlier matches, and with the Indians turning out their best side, it was not surprising, therefore, that victory went to the Sookunpoo club. Nevertheless for two rounds the issue was very open. At the end of the first round, the Indians led 2-1, but at the end of the second round the Chinese won, each side claiming three sets. In the last round however, the Chinese went to pieces and the Indians took all three sets to clinch the issue.

TO PLAY C.R.C.

As the result of this victory, the Indians have earned the right to meet the Chinese R.C. in a play-off for the championship as they did last year. On that occasion, the Chinese won with comparative ease. Judging the Indians on yesterday's form, it would seem that the Chinese will repeat their success unless the Indians can improve their third pair, which was very weak.

The most successful pair consisted of Omar Rumjahn and I. M. A. Razack, who won all three sets, and did even better than the Rumjahn cousins who dropped their set against Sze-to Blek and Dr. P. Dew. A. R. Minu and A. H. Madar combined effectively in their first two sets, both of which they dropped, and only the weakness of C. K. Chan and H. K. Lee, South China's third string, enabled them to take the third.

By far the most impressive South China pair were Sze-to Blek and P. Dew, who played strong, forceful tennis to take the first two sets. Madar and Minu gave them little opposition, but even against the Rumjahn cousins they more than held their own and after leading by 4-1, they won this set in the eighth game.

VETERAN'S GOOD WORK

In the third set, against Omar Rumjahn and Razack, the 62-year-old veteran, Dew, had lost some of his earlier accuracy, and he and his partner succumbed by 6-3.

The wet ground suited Dew, whose shots, made with a low trajectory, shot off the ground with lightning speed. Even the seasoned Rumjahn cousins were troubled by his forehand, and it was too late when they discovered that his ground strokes on the backhand were distinctly vulnerable. But O. Rumjahn and Razack benefited by this discovery in the final round, and by concentrating their attack on this wing, they reaped their reward. However, right to the end, Dew's overhead work and his volleying remained steadfast.

Highlights of the match were the magnificent retrieving by Rumjahn and Razack; the splendid form shown by Dr. Dew; the unexpected defeat of the Rumjahn cousins; and the poor form displayed by C. K. Chan and H. K. Lee, who not only dropped all three sets but lost two to love.

Scores:

S. A. and H. D. Rumjahn (I.R.C.) beat C. K. Chan and H. K. Lee 6-0; lost to Blek Sze-to and Dr. P. Dew 2-6; beat J. Hsu and A. Chan 6-2.

O. Rumjahn and I. M. A. Razack (I.R.C.) beat Chan and Lee 6-0; beat Sze-to and Dew 6-3; beat Hsu and Chan 6-3.

A. H. Madar and A. R. Minu (I.R.C.) beat Chan and Lee 6-2; lost to Sze-to and Dew 1-6; lost to Hsu and Chan 2-6.

In a "C" Division match played at Sookunpoo yesterday, Indian Recreation Club were beaten 5-1 by Radio Sports Club. The Indians were short of a pair and conceded three sets.

SURPRISE CAUSED IN LEAGUE

A surprise was caused in the semi-finals of the Ewo Indoor Bowling League last evening when "The Bowlers" defeated "The Aspirants" by the narrow margin of ten pins. As can be seen from the scores, the contest was a close one. The result was a complete surprise inasmuch as it was generally expected that the "Aspirants," who were finalists in the last tournament, would win.

As a result of their victory, the "Bowlers" will now meet the "Champs" in the final.

The following were the scores of last night's match:

Last Season A Bad One For Arsenal

London, July 24. Arsenal Football Club—biggest money-spinners in Soccer in modern times—had a bad season financially last season. Their accounts just published show a balance of revenue over expenditure for the 1938-39 season of only £207. Cash in hand at the end of May was less than £4. Bank overdraft was nearly £23,000. Working profits were down by £5,000 to £2,942. A £20,000 reserve for income tax has been eliminated from the balance sheet. No mention is made in the report of any sums received or paid by the Arsenal through transfer fees. Bryn Jones alone cost £14,000, and the gate receipts were about £12,000 lower. The total receipts were £72,054. The receipts also included £8,048 from the sale of season tickets, £2,323 from programmes and handbooks. The principal items of expenditure were £10,051 players' wages, benefits and transfers, including provision for next season, £8,400 interest on loans, £2,183 travelling and hotel expenses, £8,709 general maintenance and other expenditure on properties, ground &c., £5,004 income tax, and £5,038 salaries and bonuses.

BRITISH SOCCER PLAYERS RETURN FROM A TRIUMPHANT TOUR OF SOUTH AFRICA

Only One Defeat In 12 Matches: £9,000 Profit Made On Whole Trip

London, July 24. Carrying Zulu spears and other souvenirs of their visit, 18 Soccer internationals have returned home from a 20,000 miles tour of South Africa. They left England on May 11.

Explaining the side's one defeat in 12 games played, Mr. C. Wretford Brown, joint manager with Mr. H. H. Hughes, said that the team were 48 hours in the train just before they went on to the field. Moreover, it was at Johannesburg—8,000 ft. above sea level—and A. H. Gibbons, the I.A.F. and Brentford forward, said they were "panting like dogs" after ten minutes. Mr. Wretford Brown also pointed out that the F.A. side were then wearing ordinary studded boots. Afterwards they used rubber studs, the only possible studs for such hard ground. The three Tests were won by scores of 3-0, 3-2, and 2-1.

"Every player in the party, the whole 18, was given a chance in the Tests. They have all come home with the honour of having represented their country in South Africa," he added. He also revealed that the captaincy had been allowed to go round, and that Eric Brook, the Manchester City winger, did not skipper the team all the time.

The estimated profit on the tour is £9,000, and the professionals may receive a bonus. Asks if he could estimate the profit to South Africa, Mr. Wretford Brown said "About £5,000. Three matches in Johannesburg drew £9,000 in gate money, the best takings of the tour. There was no 'bob' gate, the charge being half a crown."

SHOCK FOR TRAINERS

Trainers are due for a shock when the members of the touring party report to their clubs for duty. Without exception, the eighteen footballers have put on weight. The scales tell a tale of good food and few missed courses. Sam Bartram, Charlton's red-headed goalkeeper, is the worst casualty. He has put on 10 lbs.

It is generally thought in this country that the team played only twelve matches. That is incorrect; they played thirteen, but one will not be recorded in the official report. The thirteenth was against a native side at Madeira in response to a charity appeal, wirelessed to the boat. All the players volunteered to play and were allowed to pick their own side, which won by 4-1.

Absence of rain for six weeks made Eric Brook homesick for Manchester. His colleagues say he was playing for the sight of it being in South Africa. He saw plenty on arrival at Southampton.

Everybody spoke in glowing terms of Fenton's play. The Middlesbrough marksman scored 24 of the 65 goals in 11 games. The match he missed was the only one lost.

While in Pretoria, Gibbons, the Brentford amateur international, paid homage to the graves of the R.A.F. boxers who were killed when their plane crashed during a tour of the Union. He says the authorities out there are planning to erect an impressive memorial at the cemetery.—Our Own Correspondent.

Exciting Match In Bowls Tourney

An exciting match was played yesterday in the second round of the Open Bowls singles championship between F. Cullen, of Kowloon Dock, and E. C. Fincher, of the Kowloon C.C., the former winning by the narrowest possible margin by 21-20. It is announced that the match in the quarter-finals of the Fairs between J. E. Noronha and C. G. Silva, and L. J. Silva and J. F. Ribeiro will be played on the Kowloon B.C.C. green to-morrow.

MIDDLESEX SATISFIED WITH FIRST INNINGS LEAD AGAINST YORKS

From Kenneth Rankin

Bradford, July 11.

Middlesex duly took 4 points for a first innings lead over Yorkshire here to-day, but the fact that it was their obvious intention when batting to content themselves with those 4 points was a definite disappointment to most people.

Against a total of 171 they batted five hours 20 minutes for 292, and when they had, at length finished, 210 minutes at most remained, and Yorkshire scored 172 for five, Leyland batting with splendid resolution for an hour and a half.

There was a period after four o'clock when Sims bowled so well as to suggest that, given more time, Middlesex might well have won, but that they did not fancy their chances was shown when refreshment was served on the field.

When play began, with Edrich a different person from that of Monday, the score progressed at something like an appropriate pace from one end. Not, however, from the other, where Allen made only 19 out of 58 in the first hour. Edrich by that time had added 30 to the 30, which had taken him 130 minutes the previous evening, when he was bowled by a quick off-break from Robinson.

On his departure one might have expected an attempt, no matter the cost, at an onslaught, for Middlesex were then 54 ahead and defeat was the wildest improbability. But little of the sort happened and Yorkshire's bowling was certainly not going to be partner in any such thing.

At one o'clock the lead was 100, after which methods of violence were at length employed and Middlesex were out just before lunch. All that remained now was to see whether they remained untoward occurred in the three and a half hours remaining for play.

HUTTON AGAIN. The first five minutes were occupied by Sutcliffe's personal supervision of the correct arrangement of the light screen, after which Hutton played another splendid innings, making 47 in 75 minutes. At 09 Sutcliffe played on to Sims who, bowling to two slips, was turning the ball a lot as Mitchell found to his cost at four o'clock and Barber at 4.15 when an hour and a half was left.

Here was tension and a thought in Middlesex minds of what might have been was accentuated when Yardley was bowled at 4.30 and five wickets were down—a lead of 18 and over an hour to go. Leyland, however, did not concern himself with runs to any extent, but he was clearly in the mood to be there at the end—and so he was.

The receipts for the game reached £228, and this, together with the

Sporting Tit-Bits

FOR the first time in the history of international polo a visit of an English team to America has resulted in a financial loss. The fact that on this occasion the loss has amounted to £24,000 can only be described as a catastrophe. Little was realised from the proceeds of exhibition games in California and the English share of the Meadowbrook gates amounted to only £3,000 about a quarter of what was expected. The price realised for the ponies were exorbitant—70 were taken over. Forty of them were sold for an average of less than £300, an unprecedentedly low price for an international stable, and one considerably below their cost price.

WINNERS of district competitions held in all parts of England and Wales took part in the finals at Wentworth on July 26 of the national tournament for women golfers organised by the Daily Telegraph and Morning Post. The Silver Challenge Trophy, for the best handicap aggregate in the two divisions (silver and bronze) was won by Miss K. S. Simons, of West Runton, Norfolk, who played from a handicap of 25, and returned net scores of 74 (East course) and 72 (West course) for a total of 146.

WHEN W. R. Hammond caught G. Headley in the West Indies' second innings at Old Trafford, he completed an individual record of 100 catches in Test cricket, which is not likely to be bettered. Nearest contemporaries are S. J. McCabe (42) Bruce Mitchell (40) and Verity (29). Hammond has not made his "bag" so intensively as W. G. Grace, who caught 39 Australian batsmen in 22 Tests. His catching "century" made in 67 matches, is made up as follows:—37 v Australia, 30 v South Africa, 21 v India, 8 v New Zealand, and 4 v Indies.

FOR many weeks Windsor and Eton Cricket Club prepared for their summer tour of Devonshire, and when the 15 members of the Club returned from Torquay recently they used Torquay as a centre for the tour—they were able to boast that they did not have one reverse. Not a single ball could be bowled in any of the seven matches which were arranged, because of bad weather!

GLAMORGAN are dispensing with the services of their two senior professionals, Dai Davies and Mercer, at the end of the season. Both have played for Glamorgan since 1923. Mercer has taken more wickets than any other Glamorgan bowler, and Davies has scored most runs. Mercer took all ten wickets for 26 runs in an innings against Worcestershire in 1936, and is the only Glamorgan batsman to score three successive centuries.

THE Army won the Inter-Services athletic championships at Portsmouth on July 26 with 30 points. Royal Air Force, the holders, scored 30½, Royal Navy and Royal Marines 19½. Five new records were set up. Royal Air Force set up new times in the 880 yards relay (1 min. 29.5 secs.) and 440 yards relay (4.35 secs.) The Army clipped the weight putting (85ft. 2½ ins.) and two-mile relay (7 mins. 58 secs.) records, while Royal Navy and Royal Marines won the mile relay in the best-ever time of 3 mins. 20.5 secs.

SEVERAL of the horses trained by Captain Boyd-Rochfort at Newmarket are suffering from some disease of the mouth which brings out ulcers. Among those affected are Lady Zia Wernher's St. Leger horse, Casanova; Mrs J. Corrigan's Golden Tiger, and Mr. J. H. Whitney's Torch Song, who did not run at Goodwood this week on that account. Captain Boyd-Rochfort believes that a number of stables have the complaint, and he is consulting one of the Club's Veterinary Surgeons on the matter. Lord Portal's Fair Test is also said to be affected. This horse won the Lancashire Produce Stakes at Liverpool recently. Captain Boyd-Rochfort's stable is one of the largest in the country, and includes some of the most valuable horses in training.

32 Debutantes Go To Eunice's Party

MR. JOSEPH KENNEDY, U.S. Ambassador, recently took part in the coming-out dance of his daughter Eunice, who is seventeen.

Twenty-four privileged guests were invited to dinner. And for the dance, at 10.30 p.m., the invitation list included:—

- 32 bachelors;
- 32 debutantes;
- 33 chaperones;
- 24 unmarried girls (mostly 1938 debutantes);
- 34 marrieds.

In her bachelor list Eunice included the Hon. Peter Bently, owner of last year's Derby winner; Prince Frederick of Prussia; and Mr. Geoffrey Lloyd.

Among the unmarried girls were Miss Sylvia Muir (spotted by Robb and Lucy Milner as being the best-dressed Ascot girl) and nineteen-year-old Lady Gillian Drummond, who acted as Embassy hostess for her father, Lord Perth, in Rome.

Among the marrieds Eunice included Mrs. Henry Luce, author of "The Women."

On the dinner list as her special friends were three Americans—Mr. Dick Sears, Mr. Larry Davis and Mr. Beverly Boyert—and Earl Halp.

Eunice wore a frilly peach-coloured model. Mrs. Kennedy's chaperone was white.

A FAVOURITE. Outside the red and white awning door, when her guests arrived, stood forty-two-year-old Frederick E. Venn, first lance lieutenant.

Venn, who has been complimented by the Duke of Kent on the shine on his top hat, is a favourite at Embassy and other smart dances. He gets 10s. 6d. plus tips for an evening, and fills in his daytime in attending weddings and doing licensed messenger work.

The guests walked up twenty-four red-and-green carpeted steps and turned right beside purple hydrangeas into the parquet ballroom.

There was a buffet in the Louis XVI. room, and there were American gramophone records in the Pine Room for use when the band were not playing. Supper was served downstairs.

Summer Stains

SUMMER is a prolific time for stains of all kinds, but they all have an antidote, usually consisting of some simple household commodity that is in every housewife's cupboard.

Grass stains are, perhaps, the most common at this time of the year, and these can be removed easily by soaking the garment in warm milk for half-an-hour, rubbing the soiled part with a cut lemon, and then washing in the usual way.

If the stain is on grey or cream flannel it is better to use glycerine. Rub it well into the stain, leave for three or four hours, and then wash off.

Moss stains are more stubborn, but you can rid of them by soaking the garment overnight in cold water to which has been added a small teaspoonful of vinegar. Next morning wring the article out, rub some methylated spirits on the stain, leave it on for five minutes, then wash with a soapy lather.

Fruit stains are another summer trouble, but they generally appear much worse than they prove to be when tackled. Rub salt on them while are still fresh, and wash in warm, soapy water. Cotton articles can be soaked first for half an hour; the stain will then need less rubbing. Garden Party "Casualty"

If you spill some lemonade over your best garden party frock do not worry about it, but when you get home rub the stained part thoroughly with crude glycerine and leave for an hour, then sponge off with clear, tepid water.

Tar and petrol stains from road and car should be dampened with cold water, sprinkled with eucalyptus oil, and then rubbed with household soap—carpet soap for preference.

Sea water will often stain dark clothes, but a rub with cloudy ammonia will quickly remove any marks. Rinse the ammonia out of the garment as soon as the stain has gone by rubbing several times with a rag dipped in clear water.

If brown shoes get marked with salt water dissolve a small piece of washing soda in a saucer of warm milk and dab this on the stains while it is still warm. When the stains have disappeared let the milk dry on the leather and then polish in the ordinary way.

When unbreakable picnic utensils are stained, clean them with a good, non-scratching scourer sprinkled on a raw potato and the stains will soon vanish.

The main point to remember when dealing with any stain is that treatment should be given as soon as possible. The quicker you apply the remedy the better it will work.

Gale Page of the screen finds that eau de Cologne is not only a grand aid to daintiness but also a soothing relief for headaches and that general tired feeling.

Varied Benefit Derived In Use of Eau de Cologne

IF YOU have discovered the delightful benefits of eau de Cologne, you wouldn't part with it at any season—but particularly not during the hot summer months when there are so many additional uses for this fragrant, cooling liquid. Whether you are a country or city dweller, traveller or stay-at-home, eau de Cologne is practically indispensable if you want to keep fresh.

Cologne and indulge in frequent Cologne foot baths during intermissions of the fall collection showings which occur at the peak of summer heat.

A LIGHT ASTRINGENT

If you have an oily skin, the use of Cologne as a light astringent before applying powder keeps the skin cool and fresh even though you wear a suit or frock that is warm. Hollywood stars have taken this hint most willingly, for it's not easy always to look cool and collected under hot studio lights.

There are many other little things you can do with eau de Cologne to add to your summer comfort and fragrance. After your bath, rub yourself with it as you do at any time of the year, but be more liberal with it around your neck, arms and wrists. You'll find your hair less inclined to oiliness if you dash a few drops into the rinse water when shampooing your hair. Try the same trick in the rinse water of your undies, handkerchiefs and fabric gloves. Dab a bit on your leather gloves and on the lining of your summer hats.

If, during a busy day, your feet burn until you can hardly bear the thought of another step, a tepid foot bath and eau de Cologne rub will make a new woman of you. There is nothing like a dash of Cologne to rescue you from headaches when you travel. Just rub a little of your forehead, the palms of your hands, and drop some on your handkerchief. You need never worry about being too lavish, for the perfumes used to scent Cologne are so delicate there is no danger of an overbearing fragrance.

CHOICE OF SCENTS

Speaking of scents, there are some delightful new ones for the discriminating. One which is just as much a favourite among men as it is among women, has a clean, crisp aroma. It is cool, unassuming and so subtle that men enjoy using it as an after-shave lotion, and women use it because it blends perfectly with any perfume. You can buy this Cologne alone in its tall crystal bottle, or with its matching twin, a Cologne with a more pungent, rich fragrance of Spanish geraniums.

Another favourite is entirely different, with a truly feminine fragrance, light, fragile and romantic. This has a light floral bouquet. The fact that its formula is very old and that it is supposed to have been the favourite Cologne of the Empress Josephine, may make it sound more appealing to you.

Experiment with Colognes. You may prefer one with the natural crispness that comes from the citrus flower oils with which a real Cologne is blended. You may like one scented with the perfume you wear most frequently, or you may prefer to substitute a new fragrance and use Cologne exclusively in place of perfume for hot weather. In any case, find one that not only refreshes you, but helps you express your personality.

SHORT CUTS

To clean ivory or bone knife handles, make a paste of lemon juice and whiting, rubbing this well into the handle. If very much soiled, allow the paste to remain on for a few hours. Then rinse quickly and polish with a soft cloth.

The chance of breakage of cup handles is lessened when cups are hung from hooks in the pantry.

A folded Turkish towel placed in the bottom of a dishpan may save a precious piece of china or glassware from breaking, if it should slip from the hand in the process of washing.

CURRENCY SITUATION

Chungking Official Arrives in Colony

Mr. Hsu K'an, Administrative Vice-Minister of Finance of the Chinese Government, has arrived in Hongkong from Chungking. It is learned from Chinese sources.

It is understood that Mr. Hsu's visit to the Colony is primarily in connection with a new effort by the Chinese Government to stabilise the exchange rate of National Currency. Two plans for the stabilisation of the exchange rate and for the strengthening of the central financial machinery are reported to have been mapped out by the Chungking authorities.

Regulations are expected to be officially announced shortly.

DUTCH CRISIS

DEGEER FORMS NEW CABINET

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 9 (Trans-Ocean).—The news that Baron Degeer had succeeded in forming a new Cabinet came too late for most newspapers, so that so far there is no press comment on the solution of the Cabinet crisis.

However, the "Telegraph" predicts that the new Government will not have a very long life. The general attitude in the Hague and Amsterdam is negative. There is an inclination to await developments. There seems to be no likelihood of Parliament re-assembling for the time being.

At its first session the Cabinet will draw up the budget estimates for 1940.

In financial circles it is regarded as reassuring that Baron Degeer has taken over the Ministry of Finance.

2,000,000 Cigarettes Destroyed

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH". LONDON, Aug. 9 (Reuter).—The report from Christchurch (New Zealand) attributing the destruction of 2,000,000 English cigarettes to the new N. Z. import regulations, is without foundation, according to the acting Minister for Customs, who states that the cigarettes were a slow selling line, and the importer decided that it was not worth while paying duty on the residue of his stock. Accordingly he had it destroyed. The situation arose long before the import regulations were heard of, and the cigarettes had been in bond for four years, and had greatly deteriorated.

PROPAGANDA IN FRANCE

PARIS, Aug. 9 (Reuter).—Further provisions for dealing with foreign propaganda are published in the official journal to-day.

All persons receiving directly or indirectly funds from foreign sources as payment for publicity work in France, must make a declaration to the Government, revealing the organisation for which they are working, country of origin, payments received, and the place and date of such payments.

The regulations will be enforced immediately.

STARVING JEWS MAROONED

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH". SMYRNA, Aug. 9 (Reuter).—Starved, thirsty, exhausted and penniless, 500 Jews are marooned aboard the steamer Parita, flying the Panama flag in the harbour here.

The authorities have refused them permission to land.

The steamer has exhausted its fuel and the engines have broken down, so that the ship is unable to return to Constantinople, where the refugees embarked, until funds have been received for repairs and stores.

They Don't Want The League Presidency

BELGRADE, Aug. 9 (Trans-Ocean).—Political quarters to-day confirmed that Yugoslavia has declined the presidency of the League Council which would have fallen to her this autumn.

The decision does not come as a surprise in view of the disinclination, which has been noticed here during the last few months, to take further active participation in the League.

Mexican Proposals

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (Reuter).—The Mexican Government's new proposals for settling the oil expropriation dispute will involve vesting in a neutral third party of the balance of power over the oil properties, according to well-informed circles here.

MAH-JONG CHEATERS

Defendant's Allegations In Menaces Case

A description of a game of mah-jong played between complainant's friends and himself, was described in detail in the witness box by Li Chiu, 30, the first defendant, when evidence for the defence was commenced before Mr. T. J. Houston at the Central Magistracy yesterday.

Li is charged with Fung Chuen, 30, and Tse Ho, 38, with demanding $40 with menaces from Yu Sau-man, 30, clerk employed at Sincere's Perfumery, Kennedy Town, on June 28. Defendants are also charged with conspiracy.

Mr. G. K. Hall-Drutton, assisted by Sub-inspector J. O'Donovan, prosecuted, and Mr. C. A. S. Russ was for the defence.

Inspector O'Donovan said a report was made to him by Yu on June 30. He marked a $10 note by putting a pin-hole in the top right hand corner and making up the number.

At 8 p.m. he went to 137, Belcher Street, where the three defendants were seated at a table in the rear room. Li was pointed out to him as the man who had received the $10 note. The note had been sent out by the purchase of three cigarettes. On being recovered, it was found to be the one he had marked and given to Yu.

Tse Ho, third defendant, was discharged by the Magistrate owing to lack of evidence.

Li, in evidence, said he had been a partner for six or seven years, and had known Fung and Tse for a similar period. Yu called with two friends to see him on June 28 and they had a game of mah-jong in the rear room. Li lost about $30, after playing eight rounds, and his friend, Lee Kung, lost about $5.

Called at the shop again the next day, and suggested another game, but as Li was a little suspicious, he did not play. Another game, however, was played on June 28 when during the playing of a big hand, Yu discarded a "five circles" which enabled his friend to win. The friend had already three green dragons, three red dragons, and three circle cards on the table. Li immediately pushed down Yu's cards, and found that the "five circle" card was from a pair held by Yu. He also had a one bamboo, while three had been discarded.

On speaking to Yu about it, Yu said he was not familiar with the game and then asked his other friend to play for him.

About noon, the following day, Li was standing in the door of his shop when he saw Yu pass. He spoke to Yu and said he and his friends had been cheated at the mah-jong game, and asked for the money back. Yu said he would meet him at the shop that night, and then left. At the shop, after some bargaining, the sum of $10 was agreed on.

Witness denied having ever made any threats to Yu, and said the matter had been discussed in a friendly manner. He could give no reason why Yu had informed the Police.

Hearing was adjourned until August 24.

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH".

LONDON, Aug. 9 (UP).—There are insistent reports to-night that the British Government has decided to hand over the four accused Chinese in Tientsin to the Court of the Japanese-sponsored local regime.

Inquiry among responsible British quarters elicits the information that the Law Officers of the Crown have now completed their examination of the fresh evidence the Japanese have supplied regarding the alleged complicity of the four Chinese in the murder, on April 6 of the Chinese Customs Inspector, Chung.

It was also stated that an announcement regarding the fate of the four men may be expected shortly.

It will be recalled that Britain's refusal to surrender these men in May precipitated the Japanese Army blockade of the British Concession in Tientsin on June 14, which has continued without interruption ever since.

On the eve of the blockade Britain proposed to Tokyo that a tribunal comprising one British, one Japanese and one American as Chairman should judge the case.

Japan's reply was a blockade of the concession and the raising of demands for British co-operation in abolishing Chinese currency in favour of Japanese money at Tientsin, the surrender of £800,000 worth of the Chungking Government's silver stored in British and French banks in Tientsin and the admission of Japanese police to help exterminate Chinese espionage plotting against the Japanese inside the Concession.

Inquest On Amah

Found In Reservoir In Semi-Nude State

An open verdict was returned by Mr. R. Edwards at the Central Magistracy yesterday at the conclusion of an inquest into the death of Li Cheung-hing, 20, a woman, whose semi-nude body was found floating in Aberdeen Reservoir on July 9. The Coroner said that there was insufficient evidence for him to determine whether death was due to suicide or was accidental.

Evidence given earlier revealed that the woman, who was employed as an amah in a house on The Peak, had misadventured herself with the No. 1 "boy," Yung Shiu-wing, who was employed in 302 The Peak. She was questioned by her elder sister, Li Ngan-hing, regarding rumours of her misconduct, and denied the allegations. Yung also denied misconduct with the woman. Witnesses stated that the deceased did not appear worried or upset prior to her death.

Li Ngan-hing was called yesterday. On July 7, she saw her sister and told her she had heard rumours that she was "in love" with someone. Deceased denied the rumours. Witness asked her to leave her employment but deceased refused.

Witness sent for Yung and told him that people had been saying he had misadventured himself with the deceased. He denied he had done so. Deceased by his tears, went down on her knees, and said that whatever happened, she would not leave 302 The Peak. Witness struck her twice on the ankles with an umbrella.

Questioned by the Coroner, Li said deceased appeared very upset over the quarrel. Ordinarily she was not a person who was easily upset by small matters. Deceased, she said, had never threatened to commit suicide. She could not swim.

Li Luk, amah, said she was temporarily employed at 302 The Peak. Witness said she noticed that Yung and the deceased appeared to be on intimate terms. The girl was upset, but when questioned refused to say anything. She often borrowed sums of money from witness and always appeared hard-up. Witness questioned her as to what she did with her money and she finally admitted that most of it had been borrowed by Yung.

Yung Shiu-wing, who had previously given evidence, and admitted misconduct with the deceased, was recalled. He denied that the nights the girl did not return to 302 The Peak to sleep with Li Luk she had been with him. Deceased, he explained, was in her own quarters at 108 The Peak.

Mr. King submitted that there was no evidence to connect anyone with the death of deceased. Though much had been said about the morals of a witness, that had nothing to do with his Worship's findings. He suggested that Li Ngan-hing was a vindictive person.

Giving his decision, the Coroner said there was no evidence of violence to the body. There was insufficient evidence for him to determine whether death was due to suicide or was accidental.

Mr. R. M. King held a watching brief for Yung Shiu-wing, Li Mui and Fung Kiu, servants employed at 302 The Peak. Acting Sub-inspector A. F. Estall was present for the Police.

NO RADIO LICENCES

Two Chinese Summoned At Kowloon Magistracy

Summoned for possession of a radio without licence, Wong Wai-tong of Pine Street, was fined $10 by Mr. Q. A. Macfadyen at Kowloon Magistracy yesterday. Defendant's representative told the Court that since the summons had been issued a licence had been taken out.

A fine of $15 was imposed on Chung Chun of Wooning Street, for a similar offence. Chung admitted that he did not take out a licence until Tuesday.

Damage To Missions In China

LONDON. The damage to Missions in the Province of Shensi was referred to in a Parliamentary question recently. Mr. R. Gibson asked the Prime Minister to what missionary body the property that was recently damaged in the Province of Shensi belonged; what was the nature, extent, and amount of the damage; and what arrangements are being taken for its restoration?

Mr. Butler: According to the reports received by my Noble Friend damage has been done to the premises of the China Inland Mission at Linfear and Hungting in South Shensi. The English Baptist Mission at Tzichow in the north of the same province was broken into but was not looted. Details of the damage done have not yet been reported and pending their receipt I am not able to say what action may be appropriate in the matter.

TRANSPORT IN CHINA Big U.S. Project Revealed

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
CHICAGO, Aug. 9 (UP).—The Chicago Journal of Commerce reports that the Keeshin Freight Lines Incorporated, a Chicago motor trucking firm, has contracted with the Chinese Government to introduce America's high speed motor transportation to China.

One of the Company's chief executives, Mr. J. L. Keeshin, declined to make any comment on the report. The Journal also states that the Universal Trading Corporation, which was organized to handle the US$25,000,000 credit China obtained from the United States several months ago, is reported to have ordered 5,000 American trucks to replace the railway facilities captured by the Japanese.

It is understood that Mr. Maurice Sheehan, Vice-President of the Keeshin Lines, is leaving for China by ship on August 16, to make a survey of Chinese highway transportation problems.

Reports from New York state that the Vice-President of the Universal Trading Corporation has confirmed that "several thousand American trucks have been purchased and the purchase of more is contemplated."

He added that definite plans for motor transportation in China have not yet been made, but that Mr. Sheehan will make a preliminary survey and report to the Chinese Government.

Death Crash In "Safest Plane"

MR. P. NESBITT WILLOUGHBY, young aircraft designer, was killed recently when the machine which he claimed to be the safest of all aeroplanes, crashed. Mr. Hugh N. Olley, of Carmarthen, the pilot, was also killed.

Mr. Willoughby was managing director of Willoughby Delta Company, and lived in Fishburn Road, St. Leonards. The aeroplane, called St. Francis, was built in the company's works at Wilney. Half an hour before crashing near Bicester, Oxfordshire, it had left Minister Lovell Aerodrome.

TEST MACHINE

Two years ago, when he was 26, Mr. Willoughby had an idea for making flying safer. He worked on designs for a plane consisting of a main wing with the tailplane and elevator carried on side wings extending backwards. He had planned a long-range air liner with a top speed of 300 m.p.h. and room for 20 passengers.

The St. Francis was built to prove the structural and flying qualities of the general design. The compound wing arrangement was to give it a safety factor much higher than that of other types.

The test machine had been flying regularly since the beginning of the year.

SAILPLANE'S 300FT. DIVE TO GROUND.
Pilots circling over Derbyshire hills in national soaring contests yesterday saw 28-year-old William Godson, of Manchester, stall his home-made sail-plane as he was banking and spin 300ft. to the ground. Godson was taken to Slockport Infirmary where he died within a few hours.

By clever flying, the pilot of a glider avoided making a forced landing in the centre of Long Eaton, Derbyshire, yesterday and came down safely in a cornfield. He was Flight-Lieut. Latham Carr Withall, of the R.A.F. Duxford.

A provisional harbour construction office will be opened at Peiping on August 13 with Dr. Takamishi of the Japanese Ministry of Home Affairs as the director.

A branch office to take charge of the construction work will be established at Tangku.

The first stage in the projected harbour construction will be completed by 1942, at a cost of 75,000,000 yen, which will be accommodated by the North China Development Company.

Upon completion of the first stage, the port of Tangku, situated at the estuary of the Peiho River, will be capable of disposing of 7,500,000 tons of cargoes annually.

MAY CALL COMMONS

Premier And Situation
On Continent

LONDON, Aug. 9 (Trans-Ocean).—The Political Correspondent of the London "Star" expresses the belief this afternoon that the Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, will re-summon Parliament in the near future to present a statement on the international situation.

The Correspondent adds that a new and decisive stage has been reached in the negotiations in Moscow between Soviet Russia, France and Great Britain, with the return to London of Mr. William Strang, the foreign expert and technical adviser.

It is hoped in London that the difficulties which have held up the political state of the Moscow negotiations will have been removed before the military talks now under way conclude in about a fortnight.

By this time the Premier will have returned to London from his vacation in Scotland.

PEACE WITHIN LABOUR RANKS

LONDON, Aug. 10 (Trans-Ocean).—The Independent Labour Party will once more decide whether to return to the fold of the Labour Party, at a special conference convened for September 17.

This announcement was made yesterday after the National Council of the Party had voted in favour of union with the Labour Party.

The I.L.P. had 12,000 members and is represented in the House of Commons by three members—Mr. James Maxton, Mr. John MacGovern, and Mr. Campbell Stephen.

The I.L.P. was originally the left wing of the Labour Party with pronounced pacifist leaning. In 1932 it separated from the Labour Party.

Big Cholera Increase

There was a substantial increase in the cholera incidence in Hongkong yesterday, 20 new cases being reported, 19 of which were from the island.

The total number of notifications for the year is now only one short of 450.

During the last 24 hours, 16 new cases of typhoid fever were reported, the year's aggregate being 4,778, while there were four new cases of enteric fever, two of dysentery, and one each of meningitis and measles.

SALINAS, Cal.
"Petting party robberies" just like Sheriff Carl H. Abbott's headache, but not because he cannot catch the thieves. He already has the petting party bandits, but he is unable to locate the petting parties who were robbed, and it gives him no basis for filing a complaint.

Moribund Tokyo Negotiations: Critical Decision WALK-OUT THREATENED BY JAPAN'S MILITARY LEADERS

MIRACLE BABY STILL LIVES

MANILA, Aug. 10 (UP).—The baby born with its heart exposed in a cavity in its breast has completed its third day of life, with its condition unchanged.

Physicians and surgeons are still in consultation on the phenomena.

The father of the child today announced that he has rejected a local sports promoter's offer of $10,000 to exhibit the baby in New York at the World's Fair.

Medical authorities are planning to make a film record of the infant's heart's action, but the leading medical authorities have a divided opinion on the feasibility of such an operation.

THREAT TO YUGO-SLAVIA

Italians, Germans
Mass Troops

LONDON, Aug. 10 (Reuter).—Reports from the Yugo-Slav frontier arouse fears that Yugo-Slavia is to be the centre of the next European crisis, writes the special correspondent of the "News-Chronicle" from Belgrade.

He adds that it is reliably reported that Italians in Albania and Germans in the region of the Slovene borders are massing troops and materials in a highly suggestive manner.

Leading political and military circles in Belgrade fear that the Axis Powers will soon bring pressure to bear upon Yugo-Slavia to assure her "neutrality" in the case of war.

Yugo-Slavia would be expected, inter alia, to allow her roads and railways to be used for Axis military purposes.

It is certain that Yugo-Slavia will not agree and it is expected, therefore, that, within a few weeks, terrible press campaigns, which will be followed by more dangerous moves, against "disloyal" Yugo-Slavia.

LONDON, Aug. 10 (Reuter).—Both the "Daily Telegraph" and "Daily Herald" diplomatic correspondents report substantial movements of German troops on the Moravia-Slovak frontier.

The "Telegraph" adds that the units are proceeding in a southerly direction.

The diplomatic correspondents say that pressure is being exerted on Hungary by Germany as Hitler is not satisfied with Hungary's bare reaffirmation now and again of his friendship with the Axis.

The "Daily Herald" correspondent states that Hitler's planned visit to Budapest in June had to be abandoned because the Hungarians flatly refused the request that some thousands of Gestapo agents should be admitted to what Herr Hitler's Violation of Border.

WARSAW, Aug. 9 (Reuter).—A communiqué announces that a member of a German armed patrol which crossed the Polish frontier in the Corridor, was wounded in a border incident.

The statement says that a patrol of three was 300 yards on the Polish side of the frontier and ignored the challenge and warning shot fired by the Polish frontier guard.

It is unofficially understood that the incident occurred over two days ago.

Forster's Speech

BERLIN, Aug. 9 (Reuter).—Herr Forster's speech in Danzig is being awaited here with much interest, as it is considered that it will be virtually Hitler himself speaking, regarded as directly, even ostentatiously inspired, as it follows closely Herr Forster's visit to Herr Hitler.

Below are two stories, special to the "Telegraph", of what is happening in North China to-day. In an exclusive interview, Mr. H. M. Anderson, the Canadian who refused to strip at the Tientsin barriers, tells of his reasons for defying the Japanese. Baptist missionaries who have evacuated Hsinghow also tell of their experiences in exclusive interviews.

"RED FLAG TO A BULL"

Japanese Sentry's
Obstinacy

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
TIENTSIN, Aug. 10 (UP).—Mr. H. McClure Anderson, the Briton who refused to strip for the Japanese sentries in Tientsin yesterday, to-day told the "United Press" why he defied the Japanese.

"I was wearing the lightest of summer clothing and obviously could conceal nothing, I turned out my pockets, showing I was carrying only a handkerchief, my spectacles and keys.

"I cannot understand why my wife was not permitted to pass, as she carried a special Japanese Consulate permit.

"Whether can I understand why she and an elderly lady were pushed from the searching shack by the sentries."

Had Special Permit
Mr. Anderson explained that his wife left the British Consession with a special permit, for the purpose of bringing their household goods from their residence in the occupied area, which they had recently sold.

"When they were unable to make me strip, the sentry motioned to my wife to undress," Mr. Anderson continued.

"She naturally refused.

"It seems that the Japanese Consular permit affected the sentry like a red flag to a bull.

"He gave us more trouble than assistance.

"There was no question of language difficulties because the sentry could obviously read Japanese. The Japanese controlled Chinese police were not present, otherwise I could have explained our difficulties to them in the Chinese language."

Mr. Anderson is a native of Edinburgh and came to China in 1902.

2 a.m. Robbery In Cameron Road

Lai Pun was charged this morning before Mr. E. Himsforth at the Kowloon Magistrate's court with larceny of one lady's handbag, containing a ferry ticket, a comb, a powder compact, a pair of scissors and $50 in Hongkong currency, the property of Miss E. Gath of Cameron Road.

Lai was further charged with offering a bribe of $10 to a constable when arrested.

Detective-Sergeant D. Davis said Lai entered the house about 2 o'clock this morning by climbing up a drain-pipe, and left by the same way.

Lai admitted the charges and was sentenced to six months' hard labour on each charge. He had previous convictions for various larcenies and two years' imprisonment for the latter offence.

"DOWN WITH BRITAIN"

Missionaries Repel Chinese Mobs

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
PEIPING, Aug. 9 (UP).—The British Baptist missionaries from Hsinghow, Mrs. J. Lewis, Miss E. E. Chapel and Mr. and Mrs. H. Hayward all of whom came from London, to-day told the "United Press" that they had evacuated because the Japanese army authorities had notified them that they are unable to guarantee you will not be killed.

On July 31, they said, a poster appeared in Hsinghow forbidding the Chinese to sell anything to the British. On August 2, new posters appeared with the words "Kill the British." They were posted on the gate and wall of the British Mission.

The British notified the Japanese authorities, but received no reply.

As a result of threats, the British people dismissed their Chinese employees, after which the missionaries moved and tended the Mission goods, dragged water from a 160 feet well and also kept guard on the Mission.

Anti-British Mob
On August 3 an anti-British mob appeared. They beat on the Mission gate, shouted threats and threw bricks at the Britons, who were standing in the compound.

When the gates appeared on the verge of being broken down, Mrs. Lewis opened them, while Mr. Hayward stood by and received the Chinese police, who participated in the demonstration.

The police said they were seeking a certain Chinese, but when they were out of sight the mob acted beligerently and handed Mr. Hayward a letter, referring to the "Perfidy of England" from the time of the Opium Wars and also declaring: "We do not want to repeat the horrors of the Boxer days, but unless you leave we will be forced to do so."

The Britons again appealed for protection from both the Japanese and Chinese officials, but received the reply that the movement was spontaneous and therefore could not be controlled.

The Japanese army authorities promised to do their utmost to protect the Britons, but at the same time they warned: "We are unable to guarantee you won't be killed" and urged them to evacuate immediately.

Appeal For Protection
The Britons then decided to evacuate because it was impossible for them to work.

On August 5, aided by the Japanese army authorities, who assisted in their packing and their transportation to the railway station.

Taiquan Demonstrators
On the way to Peiping they saw an anti-British demonstration at Taiquan, where a letter had been delivered to Britons, demanding their evacuation within three days.

The Britons at Taiquan were Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Stonak, of Bristol, Mr. R. Dart, from Exeter, Miss E. A. Rossiter, from Weston-super-Mare, and Miss V. G. Jacques, from London.

They said the Americans at Taiquan, Miss L. S. Hoch, of the Church Brethren Mission and Miss Anna Ziesse of the Assemblies of God had so far not been molested.

NEW YORK, June 10 (Reuter).—Charges have been forwarded to Mr. Cordell Hull by Attorney Cahill, at the request of the Grand Jury, alleging that the French Foreign Ministry permitted a diplomatic bag to be used for smuggling commercial films into the United States.

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
TOKYO, Aug. 10 (Domei).—It is authoritatively learned that Mr. S. Kato, the chief Japanese delegate to the moribund Anglo-Japanese negotiations, interviewed the British Ambassador this morning and requested a definite statement of British policy regarding continuance of the negotiations.

The Japanese Minister requested the British Ambassador to state whether he could interpret the British preparations as bona fide preparations.

TO QUIT PARLEYS
Mr. Kato informed Sir Robert that the Japanese military delegates from Tientsin had decided to quit the parleys and return to Tientsin early next week.

Unless the British proposals were received before their departure, the Japanese Government would reserve to itself freedom to determine whether the conference should or should not be resumed.

The British Ambassador is understood to have replied that Great Britain had no intention of unnecessarily delaying the conference. He was not, however, in a position to say definitely whether he would receive instructions from his home Government.

The interview lasted for half-an-hour.

Increasingly Restless
The Anglo-Japanese negotiations have now been in recess for ten days.

Informal quarters understand that the Japanese military delegates are becoming increasingly restless at the delay, and have decided to break off the conversations and return to Tientsin.

If they take this action, they will insist, it is believed, that the venue of future talks becomes Tientsin and not Tokyo.

There are indications that the situation will reach a decisive stage within the next 48 hours.

The chief Japanese military delegate, Major General Muto, called on the Director of the East Asia Bureau, Mr. Kurihara, at the Foreign Office this morning, in order to discuss the situation.

Tense Atmosphere
TOKYO, Aug. 10 (Reuter).—The atmosphere at yesterday's conference of the Japanese Inner Cabinet, further details of which have become known, was described as very tense.

It is reported that General Itagaki, the War Minister, stated forcefully and in detail, the army's viewpoint on what he described as the "new situation in international relations."

He referred particularly to Japan's relations with Russia and Britain, and also dealt with the abrogation by the United States of the commercial treaty.

General Itagaki laid down in the strongest terms the army's "immutable policy for an immediate solution of the European problem."

It is believed that the Inner Cabinet will meet again during the week-end to discuss the matter, having for the moment refrained from taking a final decision owing to the magnitude of the issues involved.

Poland Surprised
SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
DANZIG, Aug. 9 (UP).—Herr Forster, the Danzig Nazi leader arrived here by airplane from Prague to-day.

He immediately went to his private residence where, it is understood, he is now working on a speech he will deliver at a mass meeting at 8 p.m. on Thursday.

Common Interests
TOKYO, Aug. 10 (Reuter).—It is reported that the French Charge d'Affaires yesterday made representations to the Foreign Office to the effect that France has common interests with Britain in the Tientsin currency and silver stocks issues, and France requested Japan to recognise this fact.

It is understood that the United States Charge d'Affaires, on Tuesday also, emphasised with the Foreign Office the importance of the Tientsin currency and silver stocks issues, and France requested Japan to recognise this fact.

BRITISH PROTESTS Anti-Foreign Wave Increasing In North

LONDON, Aug. 9 (UP).—The British Foreign Office to-day instructed the British Ambassador to Tokyo to lodge a strong protest against the confiscation of the British-owned anthracite mines in Honan, and to remind the Japanese of their undertaking, which was assumed in the Tokyo formula, to preserve order in the occupied areas.

It is expected that France and Belgium will take similar views with regard to the shares in the mines held by their nations.

It has been stated here that this is the first time the Japanese have attempted to seize British property in China.

Lord Halifax has returned to London and has delivered immediately into current affairs, notably the situation in the Far East.

It is understood he is studying the draft of the new instructions to Sir Robert Craigie regarding Chinese currency and the silver holdings in the Tientsin concessions.

Tenedos Here From Swatow

H.M.S. Tenedos arrived in Hongkong from Swatow this morning. The situation in Swatow was quiet when she departed from the northern treaty port.

Passengers aboard the warship were Mr. E. Gosano, of the Hongkong & Shanghai Banking Corporation, Mr. J. Ashant, and Mr. W. Beckett.

According to reports from Swatow itself, the trouble on Monday developed when a crowd of hawkers and gamblers to remove from British land in the vicinity of the consulate.

When the hawkers and gamblers refused to leave and became demonstrative, sailors were landed from H.M.S. Tenedos.

TENEDOS OFFICER'S "REGRETS"

Landing Of British Sailors At Swatow

ALMOST STARTLING in its abruptness, a communique was issued by the British naval authorities in Hongkong this morning in the following terms:

"The Commanding Officer of the British destroyer and the British Consul at Swatow have expressed their regret that the incident on Monday arose out of the presence of British sailors."

The communique refers to the incident in Swatow on Monday, when a landing party was sent ashore from H.M.S. Tenedos at the request of the British Consul, Mr. H. D. Bryan, to protect the British consulate and British subjects.

The appeal for naval assistance became necessary when a small mob of Chinese demonstrators threatened the British Consulate and Club.

Sticks And Stones

Sticks and stones were thrown by the mob and during the demonstration, one of the demonstrators, a Chinese stall-holder, was injured by a catapult.

It has been emphasised that the landing party from H.M.S. Tenedos was unarmed when it went ashore, and at no time did any incident occur involving British sailors.

The expressions of regret were tendered to the Japanese Consul, Mr. Takai, by Lt. Cmdr. Burry, Commanding Officer of H.M.S. Tenedos, and by Mr. Bryan, the Consul. It is not stated whether the Japanese officials have accepted the regrets.

Japanese Snub

An earlier message from the "Domei" News Agency stated that a request by the British Consul in Swatow for a modification of the Japanese demands regarding Monday's incident had been flatly rejected by the Japanese authorities.

The rejection was made by the Japanese Consul, Mr. Takai.

Subsequent efforts by the British Consul to approach the Japanese garrison commanders were fruitless, the military officials refusing even to see the British official.

In his interview with the Japanese Consul, Mr. Bryan was accompanied by Lt. Cmdr. Burry, of H.M.S. Tenedos, and Capt. H. Hickling, of H.M.S. Duncan.

He requested that the Japanese demands regarding Monday's incident be modified by the withdrawal of the demand that the British authorities acknowledge that sailors from H.M.S. Tenedos were involved.

The request was rejected.

2,000,000 Cigarettes Destroyed

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

LONDON, Aug. 9 (Reuters).—The report from Christchurch (New Zealand) attributing the destruction of 2,000,000 English cigarettes to the new N. Z. import regulations, is without foundation, according to the acting Minister for Customs, who states that the cigarettes were a slow selling line, and the importer decided that it was not worth while paying duty on the residue of his stock.

Accordingly he had it destroyed. The situation arose long before the import regulations were heard of, and the cigarettes had been in bond for four years, and had greatly deteriorated.

English News-Stands Don't Want "Time"

TIME

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

LONDON, Aug. 9 (UP).—The American news magazine "Time" has been unofficially banned from Britain's book-stalls.

The action has been taken by the Wholesale News Agents' Federation, which has announced that it will refuse to handle the magazine.

It is believed here that this is the beginning of an unofficial censorship of foreign publications.

It is reported that the Federation is concerned over the freedom with which many foreign publications criticise British institutions and personalities.

Prior to the Abolition of Censorship several issues of "Time" had pages deleted by the Federation, the deletions being references to Mrs. Ernest Simpson and King Edward VIII.

LADY LOST ON CORFU

Passenger Disappears Between H.K. & S'pore

SHANGHAI, Aug. 10 (Reuters).—A wireless message has been received in Shanghai reporting that an Englishwoman, Miss Hilda Chester, is missing from the P. and O. Corfu which left Shanghai for England on August 1.

Miss Chester is aged 30 and was a sister in the Shanghai Municipal Council's Isolation Hospital, which she joined five years ago on arrival in Shanghai from England.

She is on her first home leave, bound for Liverpool, where her sister lives.

She disappeared from the Corfu on August 8. Friends in Chengtu and Shanghai report that she was very cheerful on leaving and quote her as saying she was looking forward to being in England again.

They Don't Want The League Presidency

BELGRADE, Aug. 9 (Trans-Ocean).—Political quarters to-day confirmed that Yugoslavia has declined the presidency of the League Council which would have fallen to her this autumn.

The decision does not come as a surprise in view of the disinclination, which has been noticed here during the last few months, to take further active participation in the League.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (Reuters).—The Mexican Government's new proposals for settling the oil expropriation dispute will involve vesting in a neutral third party of the balance of power over the oil properties, according to well-informed circles here.

Big Order From China Bank Fulfilled COLONY FIRM PRINTS MILLIONS of DOLLARS

MILLIONS of bank-notes, ranging in value from subsidiary notes of ten-cent denomination to notes valued at $10, have been printed in Hongkong during the past seven months, enquiries by the "Telegraph" reveal.

The bank-notes were printed on behalf of the Central Bank of China by the Chung Hwa Book Company, one of the biggest printing establishments in the Far East.

With the completion of the contract for printing the bank-notes, the company has discharged 1,100 workers employed in the Note Printing Department.

The Company, however, will reopen its printing works at Matsuhoki, Kowloon, as soon as the Note Printing Department is finally closed down.

An official of the Company refused to disclose the total value of the bank-notes printed under the contract with the Central Bank, but revealed that 90 per cent. of the notes were subsidiary notes of ten and twenty cents value. The remaining ten per cent. are of one dollar, five dollar and ten dollar denomination.

2,000 Sheets Daily

"All the subsidiary notes were printed by hand presses, and the dollar-notes were printed by rotary presses," said the spokesman.

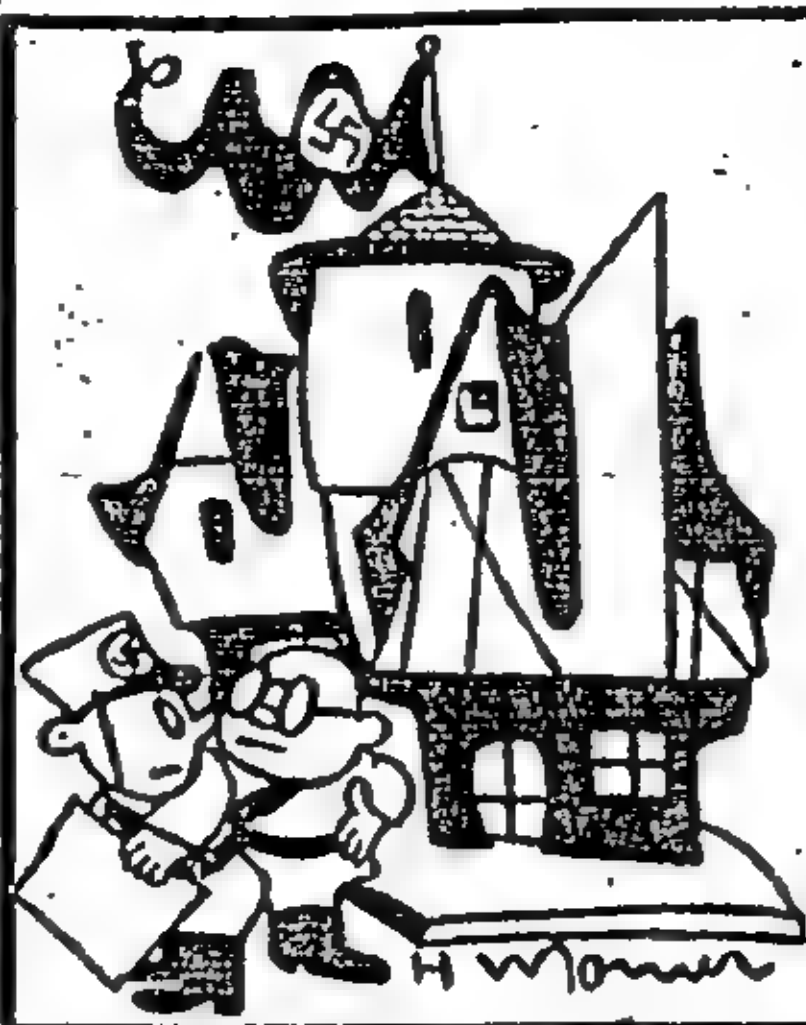

"The company has 65 hand presses with an average total printing capacity of 2,000 sheets daily. Each sheet consist of a number of notes."

Questioned regarding the mass dismissal of employees including 200 women, the spokesman replied: "The discharge of 1,100 employees is primarily due to the completion of the printing of the notes ordered."

No new contract has been received from the Central Bank of China."

However, the dismissed employees allege that the reason given above is only a pretext, and demand "a substantial documentary proof" of the completion of the printing of notes.

Telegram To Chungking

On Monday when the Printing Works were closed, the discharged employees sent a telegram to the Chinese Government in Chungking, asking if the Chung Hwa Printing Works had printed all the notes ordered by the Bank.

The Company's spokesman emphatically denied the allegation. The reason for the mass discharge, he said, was simple and just, "as the company has no more work to be done in the Note Printing Department."

"The Central Bank of China has already a big reserve of notes printed

"NO, NO NANETTE" WILL BE PRODUCED BY H. P. S.

THE HONGKONG Philharmonic Society has decided to produce the well-known musical comedy "No, No Nanette" as its next offering.

The work will be produced at the Queen's Theatre on December 13-16 inclusive. Rehearsals will commence at the beginning of next month.

The production will be in the capable hands of Mr. W. Robertson, who has been connected with many Philharmonic successes. In the past, Musical Director will be in the equally capable hands of Surg. Capt. G. V. Hobbs, R.N.

The "Telegraph" is informed that the Philharmonic Society has some vacancies for the dancing sequences, and requests any ladies or gentlemen interested to communicate with the Hon. Secretary, Mr. H. M. Cockle, of 13, Chatham Road.

"No, No Nanette" has been a most successful musical comedy, and still enjoys an enormous vogue in amateur circles at home. The continued appeal of this very popular work is indicated by the fact that in 1938 alone, over 40 amateur societies in Great Britain produced it.

The work was first produced under the direction of Messrs. Clynne and Waller at the Palace Theatre, London, in 1925. The original cast included such well-known artists as Blinnie Hale, Vera Pearce, George Grossmith, Joseph Coyne and Seymour Beard.

Oil Tanks Not A Danger

A.P.C. Official's Statement

Apprehension of residents living in the Causeway Bay area, where the Asiatic Petroleum Company's oil tanks are situated, regarding their safety in the event of Hongkong being attacked, was stated by an official of the Company this morning in an interview with the "Telegraph" to be unfounded.

"It is true that the oil tanks would be one of the first objectives of bombing planes, but that area would be as safe as any other," he said.

The reason is that elaborate preparations have been made to safeguard the oil supplies. The fire fighting apparatus consists of the most up-to-date equipment and any fire caused by a bomb could be extinguished very rapidly, the official stated. An incendiary bomb falling into any of the tanks would have no effect at all, while strong retaining walls have been built for each tank, ensuring that oil overflowing from a damaged tank would still remain inside the retaining walls.

It was also emphasised that in the event of an attack on the Colony these oil tanks would be adequately protected by anti-aircraft guns that it would not be an easy matter to make a direct hit on the tanks.

There are large supplies of oil stored in the Colony and no fear need be entertained of a shortage.

CURRENCY SITUATION

Chungking Official Arrives in Colony

Mr. Hsu K'an, Administrative Vice-Minister of Finance of the Chinese Government, has arrived in Hongkong from Chungking. It is learned from Chinese sources.

It is understood that Mr. Hsu's visit to the Colony is primarily in connection with a new effort by the Chinese Government to stabilise the exchange rate of National Currency.

Two plans for the stabilisation of the exchange rate and for the strengthening of the central financial machinery are reported to have been mapped out by the Chungking authorities.

Regulations are expected to be officially announced shortly.

Car Driver's Offences

Sequel To Accident

Luk Chan, 26, licensed driver of a private car, was charged on three counts when he appeared before Mr. E. Himsforth at the Kowloon Magistrate's court this morning.

The charges were (a) failing to keep left of Ma Tau Wai Road on August 2, (b) failing to report that he had knocked down a pedestrian in Ma Tau Wai Road, (c) failing to notify the police of his charge of address within 48 hours.

Acting Traffic Inspector Serim said about 8 a.m. on August 2, Luk was driving along Ma Tau Wai Road when he knocked down a pedestrian.

The injured man, who was then unconscious, was put into defendant's car. The car proceeded to Chatham Road via Hung Hom, and the injured man regained consciousness. Luk then ordered the man out of the car. Later the injured person made a report to the Water Police station, but defendant failed to report the accident to the Police. Because Luk failed to notify the Police, of his change of address, he was not found until yesterday.

Luk admitted the charges and was fined $20 on the first charge, $30 on the second, and $20 on the third.

Suspects Deported

LONDON, Aug. 9 (Reuters).—Two Birmingham I.R.A. suspects, aged 18 and 21 respectively, have been deported from Liverpool.

When the one bound for Dublin boarded the ship, stowage passengers greeted him with shouts of "Up I.R.A."

by the company. It is most certain that there will be no new demand for note printing for a long time.

Japanese Frustrated

"We have experienced great difficulties in transporting banknotes to the interior. All important ports have been either occupied or blockaded by the enemy, who keep an alert watch on the transportation of banknotes from the Printing Works in Kowloon to Chungking in the heart of the interior."

The spokesman claimed that the company's treatment of its employees in the Note Printing Department was among the best in the same industry in Hongkong.

"I don't see why they should have made so much trouble during the past few years," said he, referring to the strikes staged by the employees in the past months and the present protest against the dismissals.

"I would like the public of Hongkong to judge if the treatment is fair or not."

Firstly, the work was not heavy. We had one worker to each hand press. They worked nine hours a day and six days a week, and had 12 holidays a year in addition to Sundays. Each employee is entitled to a month's leave every two years, and the company paid for transportation if he was a Shanghai man. Free medical service was provided by the company.

Generous Allowances

"As to wages, the average wage among the workmen was $25, in addition to $7.50 boarding allowance and $3 lodging allowance. Besides wages and allowances, the company paid a bonus to the employees, the average amount for each worker being more or less equivalent to his or her wage. It is estimated that from January to June this year the company had paid in bonus the sum of $108,000 to about 600 hand press workers."

"Of the 1,100 workers dismissed, 800 are Shanghai employees and 300 are local workers. The company is paying the discharged Shanghai employees their wages up to the end of August, two months' extra payment, a bonus and $20 each for transportation back to Shanghai. To the discharged local employees the company is paying wages up to August 15, a bonus and one month's extra payment."

"We keep their addresses on file. If the Note Printing Department is engaged to print more banknotes in future they will be re-employed."

I think the company has done everything possible for the benefit of the discharged employees.

"No workers in the Bank Printing Department have been dismissed at present. However, the high cost of production in Hongkong, the abnormal exchange rate and the unprecedented difficulties in transportation have very deterrent effects on the business of the department. A primary school text book that costs 10 cents in Hongkong has to be sold at 70 cents Chinese National Currency in the interior."

"There is no intention at present to move the Printing Works to Kunming or Rangoon, but suggestions are being discussed to establish more branches inland," concluded the spokesman.

Writ for Habeas Corpus Provides First Class Sensation In London

ENGLISH JURISTS TO TEST TIENTSIN ISSUE

WHAT HABEAS CORPUS MEANS

HABEAS CORPUS is a writ having for its object to bring a person before a court or judge; specifically, the writ (entitled in full habeas corpus ad subjiciendum) commanding a person having another in custody to produce the body of the person detained, with the day and cause of his capture and detention, and to do, submit to, and receive whatever the judge or court shall consider in that behalf.

LONDON, Aug. 10 (Reuter).—Two leading legal authorities, Professor Norman Bentwich and Margery Fry, have sent a telegram to Viscount Halifax stating:

"We are alarmed at the rumour that the Chinese suspects in Tientsin may be handed over to the Japanese. We consider the legality of this action should be tested by a writ of habeas corpus in Shanghai, for which we propose to apply."

"Please give your assurance that no extra legal steps will be taken to deprive us, or the prisoners, of the statutory right of a stay of 15 days for making the application."

Professor Bentwich, M.C., O.B.E., M.A., is professor of international relations at the Jerusalem University. He was formerly Attorney-General for the Government of Palestine, and late of the Ministry of Justice, Cairo. At one time he was a lecturer at the Hague Academy of International Law. He was a director of the High Commission for refugees from Germany, and is a vice-president of the Council of Civil Liberties.

Professor Margery Fry, J.P., M.A., is a Governor of the B.B.C., and was one time Principal of Somerville College, Oxford. She was also Hon. Secretary of the Howard League for Penal Reform from 1919 to 1926.

Britain Capitulating?

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"—LONDON, Aug. 9 (UP).—There are insistent reports to-night that the British Government has decided to hand over the four accused Chinese in Tientsin to the Court of the Japanese sponsored local regime.

Inquiry among responsible British quarters elicits the information that the Law Officers of the Crown have now completed their examination of the fresh evidence the Japanese have supplied regarding the alleged conspiracy of the four Chinese in the murder on April 6 of the Chinese Customs Inspector.

It was also stated that an announcement regarding the fate of the four men may be expected shortly.

Precipitated Blockade

It will be recalled that Britain's refusal to surrender these men in May precipitated the Japanese Army blockade of the British Concession in Tientsin on June 14, which has continued without interruption ever since.

On the eve of the blockade Britain proposed to Tokyo that a tribunal comprising on Britain, one Japanese and one American as Chairman should judge the case.

Japan's reply was a blockade of the concession and the raising of demands for British co-operation in abolishing Chinese currency in favour of Japanese money at Tientsin, the surrender of £800,000 worth of the Chungking Government's silver stored in British and French banks in Tientsin and the admission of Japanese police to help exterminate Chinese terrorists plotting against the Japanese inside the Concession.

DUTCH CRISIS

DEGEER FORMS NEW CABINET

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 9 (Trans-Ocean).—The news that Baron Degeer had succeeded in forming a new Cabinet came too late for most newspapers, so that so far there is no press comment on the solution of the Cabinet crisis.

However, the "Telegraph" predicts that the new Government will not have a very long life.

The general attitude in the Hague and Amsterdam is negative. There is an inclination to await developments. There seems to be no likelihood of Parliament re-assembling for the time being.

At its first session the Cabinet will draw up the budget estimates for 1940.

In financial circles it is regarded as reassuring that Baron Degeer has taken over the Ministry of Finance.

STARVING JEWS MAROONED

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"—SMYRNA, Aug. 9 (Reuter).—Starved, thirsty, exhausted and penniless, 500 Jews are marooned aboard the steamer Parita, flying the Panama flag in the harbour here.

The authorities have refused them permission to land.

The steamer has exhausted its fuel and the engines have broken down, so that the ship is unable to return to Constantinople, where the refugees embarked, until funds have been received for repairs and stores.

Hongkong Radiophone Services To Open On Tuesday Morning

A "UNITED PRESS" message from Chungking states that a radiophone service between Kunming and Rangoon will be inaugurated in the middle of next month.

Preliminary tests have already been made and have proved quite successful.

This announcement follows closely on the report, exclusively published in the "Telegraph," regarding the forming services between Hongkong and Chungking and Hongkong and Manila.

The Hongkong services will be inaugurated next Tuesday.

The inauguration of the services to Chungking and Manila will be the occasion of an official ceremony, during which it is understood, His Excellency the Governor will exchange greetings with officials in the two cities.

Air Ministry Admits: "160 Raids On Nation Last Night"

LONDON, Aug. 9 (Reuter).—The fact that 160 air raids were made during the early part of the night alone—100 against the southern defending area and 60 against the northern zone—is revealed in Air Ministry communiques recording the progress of the air exercises in which 1,300 aeroplanes are participating.

The communiques state that the attackers first concentrated against the Thames estuary, 60 fighter patrols participating in defence.

Later the attacks were mainly directed against the northern and eastern defended areas, where 40 fighter patrols replied, though the defenders were hampered by low clouds and a 40 miles wide belt of rain.

Light and heavy anti-aircraft guns were also in action. The observer corps worked smoothly, and the balloon barrage was flown at "war stations" without incident.

Many intercepted
The Home bomber squadrons continued a counter-offensive throughout the night. Raid, counter-raid and mimic battles continued throughout the day, and it is claimed that a large number of attackers were intercepted. So far, out of the 1,300 planes, only three have failed to return, including the one which crashed at Tollington. One bomber is believed to be missing over the North Sea, while the pilot of a third landed his machine near Thetford after the crew of four, acting upon orders, had successfully parachuted to the ground.

Blackout Postponed
It is officially announced that the blackout scheduled for the greater part of Britain to-night has been postponed until to-morrow on account of the unfavourable weather forecast. However, the mimic aerial warfare is continuing, despite the blackout postponement.

A communique states that a second air raid on the south coast culminated in an attack on the army barracks at Newport, Isle of Wight. Most of the raiders in this area were intercepted or heavily engaged by anti-aircraft batteries before they had flown far beyond the coast.

How Naval Reservists Were Called To Fleet

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

LONDON, Aug. 10.
THE 12,000 naval reservists who were called up to join in the naval manoeuvres which start to-day received individual summonses to report at their depot.

The exercises in which they will take part have been carefully timed to follow the ending of the specially early summer leave granted to the Home Fleet.

In selecting the 12,000 men ship-owners have been consulted and every effort has been made to interfere as little as possible with the Mercantile Marine.

As a result, at least 8,000 of the 12,000 men are those actually on pension after putting in their full time in the Service or those whose five years on the reserve are still operative.

The R.N.R. and R.N.V.R. men called up under the new Reserve and Auxiliary Forces Act are mainly men holding shore jobs.

The same applies to those of the Royal Naval Volunteer Wireless Reserve. Nevertheless, a small proportion of the reservists are men of the Merchant Navy and fishing fleet.

"Splicing The Main Brace"
LONDON, Aug. 9 (Reuter).—During his review of the reserve fleet to-day, the King stood exposed to heavy spray in order to acknowledge the cheering from the ships. Instead of leaving it to the end of the visit, the King after lunch, made a flag signal from the Victoria and Albert to all ships of the reserve fleet to "Splice the Main Brace."

The King, in a message to the Vice-Admiral of the reserve fleet said that the bringing forward for sea service of so many ships in a few days had proved how smoothly the organization worked.

"The efficiency and smartness obtained in such a short time after commissioning can only be achieved by enthusiasm and the whole-hearted co-operation of all hands, and it leaves no doubt in my mind that the fleet will quickly reach a high standard of fighting efficiency."

The King sent hearty congratulations and good wishes to all of the reserve fleet.

The Vice-Admiral replied that the King's visit would encourage the officers and men to give their best to the task of bringing the ships to a high state of fighting efficiency.

AIR MINISTRY ADMITS: "160 RAIDS ON NATION LAST NIGHT"

Land bombers succeeded in avoiding the heavy defences along the Thames estuary and attempted to attack south London. There, a balloon barrage forced them to abandon low bombing and they came within convenient range of heavy anti-aircraft batteries. The Air Ministry states that a formation of Eastland bombers flew over London under anti-aircraft fire in the afternoon and were intercepted by defending Spitfires over Hyde Park.

In the northern area, the enemy crossed the coast at East Anglia north of Ipswich and near Cambridge, and broke into two small flights and attacked over a wide area—the manoeuvre was designed to confuse the defenders.

Birmingham Raid

A series of raids on London were intercepted before they came within striking distance of the capital, and an area in north Birmingham was also raided.

France Impressed

PARIS, Aug. 9 (Reuter).—The British air manoeuvres, combined with the review of the reserve fleet have made a big impression in France, as reassuring evidence of British watchfulness.

"It is not a coincidence, but a sign," declares the "Paris Soir" in commenting on the fact that the exercises are taking place at the same time as Herr Goerdeler's journey between Berchtesgaden and Danzig.

The "Intransigent" says that "our allies" general staff have endeavoured to reproduce as nearly as possible the conditions of real warfare. We know we can count on our allies, as they can on us."

West Coast "Wrecked"

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
LONDON, Aug. 9 (UP).—Theoretically, Westland's western coastal towns have been wrecked and there is debris in the wake of the raids of the first 24 hours of the manoeuvres.

The Eastlanders penetrated to south London, where there was the stiffest resistance by the Westland fighters with their balloon barrages and anti-aircraft guns, which repelled the Eastlanders before they reached the heart of the city.

COURT MARTIAL

All I want is a reasonable judgment as to whether when an officer is showing you his complete confidence and tenderness in a case such as I have depicted. It is perhaps reasonable that I should trust him in more open waters between Boca Tigra and Hongkong, particularly when that officer has on 26 previous occasions passed that point as officer of the watch, frequently under my observation.

"Ten minutes before the accident, I gathered that the ship was in a normal position steering a normal course, and I know of no occasion on which alteration of course toward land had been made on a previous occasion between Black Point and Tap Sank Kok and that I had reason to suppose that I would pass at least two cables off the rock."

Asked why he did not have his ship fixed or secured, he said that such was not practicable in the circumstances which he had explained. To fix a cross bearing necessitated the officer of the watch leaving the bridge. When he went on to the bridge at 1.12 p.m. he estimated that the Tarantula would pass Tap Sank Kok from two to two and a half cables away. After leaving the bridge, he returned to his cabin. He could see nothing from his cabin if he sat down, but he could see something if he stood up. He was satisfied that Lt. Hale was capable of taking the ship through. Accused himself had made the passage from Canton to Hongkong 14 times and Lt. Hale was officer of the watch on each occasion.

Cross-examined, accused said he considered two to two and a half cables an adequate margin "pass Tap Sank Kok." He agreed that navigation of Umston Road by eye was a perfectly easy matter. He admitted that he was not looking out of his window when he was in his cabin. He did not notice the ship make an alteration of course toward the land.

Should Have Been On Bridge
Cdr. W. P. McCarthy, of H.M.S. Tamar, said he had previous river experience, both in the Yangtze and the West River. The normal method of navigation was by eye and getting to know the locality thoroughly. He was well acquainted with the portion of the river between Black Point and Tap Sank Kok, and had navigated that stretch by eye. He usually passed from one and a half to two cables off the rock. There were no useful leading marks in that vicinity. Red Point was not discernible. His opinion was that the officer of the watch should be on the bridge because of the large numbers of junks in that vicinity.

BRITISH PROTESTS

Chinese silver are reported to have stiffened the British reluctance to concede to the Japanese demands.

Tientsin Protest
TIENTSIN, Aug. 9 (Trans-Ocean).—Mr. E. C. Jamieson, the British Consul-General, has written a protest to the Japanese Consul-General concerning the latest anti-British demonstrations, and has requested the Japanese authorities to suppress further anti-British acts in the occupied territories.

According to Chinese reports, Mr. Jamieson also asked for Japanese police protection for the premises of British concerns in these areas.

The Japanese reply has not yet been drawn up.

Newspaper Threatened
SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
PEIPING, Aug. 9 (UP).—The "Peiping Chronicle" has received at least four threatening letters alleged to be from Chinese, all posted in Peiping but in different handwriting, refuting the stories of anti-American demonstrations.

The letter threatened the use of bombs and pistols if "such communistic propaganda is published again."

Reply To Protest

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
TIENTSIN, Aug. 10, (Domel).—Japanese authorities have, nothing to do with the anti-British agitation among Chinese citizens in Tientsin, Mr. Tashiro, Japanese Consul-General, declared in his written reply to Mr. E. C. Jamieson, the British Consul-General, regarding the British protest against the Chinese mobbing of the British International Export Company and other British shops in the Third Special Administrative District on Friday last.

In his reply, Consul-General Tashiro claimed that the Japanese authorities were not in a position to accept the British representations.

The note assures the British authorities, nevertheless, that Japanese efforts to protect British residents and business firms in the affected area.

On the basis of the inquiries carried out by Japanese authorities, the note claims that the Chinese mobbing was a spontaneous demonstration of the anti-British feelings among Chinese citizens.

It suggests that the situation would easily be settled if Britain effected a drastic revision of its "conception of North China."

CHUNGKING, Aug. 9 (UP).—The belief that the Japanese military invasion of China has reached its final stages so far as advances further west are concerned, and that hostilities will now settle down to a bitter economic and financial struggle in which foreign assistance will play a dominating part, has resulted in the complete linking of the foreign and economic policies of the Chinese Government.

CAUSE FOR REJOICING

The prospects of a loan from the United States of U.S.$350,000,000, which could be used immediately for the purchase of supplies, and to which no strings would be attached, added to the present negotiations with Britain for further loans, as well as barter agreements with France, has given the Chinese Government greater cause for rejoicing now than at any other time since the war began.

Barter agreements—under which China exchanges raw materials for needed manufactured articles and war materials—the improvement of the western highway system, which, according to best-informed foreign sources, has given China much greater facilities for new supplies than they have had since the fall of Hankow, are evidence that China has cause for optimism.

PACT WITH RUSSIA

With the American agreement for bartering trucks for wood oil as the starting point, the Chinese Government has negotiated a new barter agreement with Russia, and is now laying plans for barter trade with France for mechanical equipment and industrial machines.

It is hoped that a similar agreement will be concluded with Britain, if and when Britain indicates by actions that she has abandoned her policy of appeasement with Japan and decides that friendship with China is more essential.

The reported agreement for joint Anglo-Japanese policing of the Tientsin Concession and the admission of Japanese advisers to the Municipal Council has aroused dissatisfaction with the British attitude and is viewed by official circles here as an admission by Britain that the Japanese have a right to assist in the policing.

This is believed to constitute de facto recognition of the Japanese occupation and the new puppet regime, while the acceptance of Japanese advisers on the Municipal Council places Tientsin in a category similar to that of Manchuria.

Tit For Tat

When the question of suppression of anti-Japanese publications and anti-Japanese groups is mentioned, Chinese here always retort, "Anti-Japanese elements should be suppressed, but the same treatment should be given to the pro-Japanese elements if strict neutrality in the concessions is to be obtained."

Hopes Of British Aid
However, there is still great hope here for a volte-face in Britain's attitude. Meanwhile, China is attempting to line up all other possible foreign assistance.

Although there is no official information of any American loan at present, certain informed circles believe that a loan will be made available within six months, especially if Britain refuses aid.

Meeting In Shanghai
SHANGHAI, Aug. 10 (Reuter).—It is learned that Mr. Cyril Rogers of the Bank of England, who is a member of the Anglo-Chinese stabilisation fund committee, is at present in Shanghai, having come here unheralded from Hongkong.

Mr. Rogers has had meetings with the British Ambassador, Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, and other officials, and it is believed that the position of the Chinese currency formed the principal topic of discussion.

He arrived here several days ago, but news of his presence in Shanghai only leaked out yesterday.

It is understood that he is sailing back to Hongkong to-day.

Nature Aids China

CHUNGKING, Aug. 9 (Trans-Ocean).—The wind and rain had proved China's best allies, stated a military spokesman to-day.

Opposed by bad weather and the Chinese armies, the Japanese offensive had come to a halt and in the mud in the Shanai province.

The spearheads of the Japanese column had been scattered, or completely turned back.

The spokesman also stated that the Japanese formations trapped in the Shensi mountains had now little chance of escape. They were completely cut off from the rest of the Japanese forces in Shanai, and their lack of food had become almost desperate.

Italy's Manoeuvres

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

TURIN, Aug. 9 (UP).—The conclusion of Italy's vast war manoeuvres was witnessed by the King of Italy, who was attended in a campaign uniform.

Signor Mussolini was notably absent. Other spectators of the final review were the German, Hungarian and Spanish Military Missions. The Italian Crown Prince was also present.

HOW NAVAL RESERVISTS WERE CALLED TO FLEET

Final decision would depend on world conditions. The scene of the manoeuvres will not be announced until autumn, but they will presumably be held in late January or early February.

Reports that the manoeuvres will be held in the Hawaiian area are "speculative" and are based on the fact that they were held in the Caribbean last year. The manoeuvres are not usually held twice in the same ocean.

The non-committal attitude of the Navy officials has caused the impression that the final decision rests with President Roosevelt. It is recalled that the President suddenly altered the fleet plans to visit New York and sent them to the Pacific, presumably on account of world conditions.

British War Games

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
LONDON, Aug. 9 (UP).—Great Britain to-day put 133 reserve warships on the active service list as Royal Air Force planes held mock fights over London.

King George reviewed the Reserve Fleet at Weymouth, and the fleet is starting out to-night for various bases, where it will join up with the Home Fleet.

Fifteen bombing planes this evening dropped white flares, representing bombs, over Central London, until they were repelled by fighting planes. In other parts of the country groups of planes have been engaged in combat practice throughout the day.

Air Raid Precaution units, including women in steel helmets and anti-gas uniforms, took the right of way in the streets en route to their stations. Despite the postponement of the blackout the air manoeuvres are continuing.

Men Commanded

LONDON, Aug. 9 (British Wire).—The War Office announces that the following message has been despatched to the commands at Home for communication to all ranks: "The Secretary of State for War and all members of the Army Council wish to record their appreciation of the way in which the whole army regular reserves, territorial and militia, are carrying out their many tasks in exceptionally trying conditions. It is to be hoped that an improvement in the weather will enable more comfortable circumstances to be enjoyed by all ranks, whose keenness and good spirit have surmounted so many difficulties."

The Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders possess in Private James Anderson of "C" company a poet of no common ability. Mr. Anderson's work is unobtrusively, and unpolished, and lacks the technical nicety of a more experienced versifier, but it has nevertheless the ring of true poetry. The following lines which appear in the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders' Magazine were written and interesting little sheet that is a credit to the Regiment—will compare not unfavourably with the recent productions of poets of far greater pretensions than this humble follower of the muse:—

Only a private soldier drawn from the thrice-dead—
 Only a private soldier, wet, clammy, and dead—
 To rescue a man from drowning he's plunged in the flood alone
 And in saving the life of a gallantly lost his own;
 By the by, a shudder
 he's placed at the cold, dead face, there's only a private soldier, there's only a private soldier,
 Only two private soldiers that stood by the Prince of France,
 And might have slain him all they fell in death pierced thro' by the Zulu lance;
 They stood there defying danger,
 and saving a king;
 Each man for his country's honour was willing to give his life;
 But the names were lamented, but the troopers' names scarce were heard—
 Oh! not they were private soldiers, if not—
 Only a private soldier—a mark for the Zulu man's ball;
 Only a mark for a patryu shilling to die

Fanatical and mysterious rites have combined in Japan's past to bring about uprisings and deeds of violence. The police, ever watchful for indications of popular unrest, saw some resemblance in the behaviour of the white-robed worshippers of the "Lied" sect of the Brotherhood League prior to the 1932 revolt in which Premier Inukai was assassinated.

Three men were arrested in Tokyo on July 15 of this year and confessed to an assassination plot against Count Hirota, then Prime Minister of Japan. Priv.-Sec.; the present Lord Keeper, Kurahai Yuasa, and Imperial Household Minister Tsuneo Matsudaira.

Since then there have been unopposed reports of other assassination plots against Minister of the Navy Admiral Mitsuama Yonai, the Navy Vice-Minister, Vice-Admiral Soroku Yamamoto, and Seilin Ikeda, former finance minister and present leader of the Price Policy Commission. The military line as to the likelihood of plots are moderate; persons of high ability who are opposed to embroiling Japan in headstrong acts antagonistic to other nations. They used their influence against the proposed Germany-Italy-Japan military alliance and their opinion has prevailed. The Japanese have not yet undergone a course of moderation in Japan's dealing with Great Britain and the United States.

The anti-British demonstrations in Tokyo this summer showed another aspect of the present situation. There is no lack of genuineness about the feeling against Britain in Japan.

"Japan must immediately evidence profound respect for American life and property in China by arresting recurrence of such incidents as the bombing of American schools, the beating of American citizens, and the military occupation of American educational institutions. Unless this is done negotiations for a new treaty cannot be opened." The Japanese people have known little about the frequent protests of

The Sun Attacks HERE

Strong, warm sunshine is pleasant to the body but it is hard on the eyes. The brilliant light causes eye-strain which, in turn, brings headaches and ageing lines. The hot, dust-laden atmosphere encourages microbes, and dries up the natural moisture round the eyes, causing ocular congestion and leading to all kinds of eye-troubles.

Optrex eye lotion stops all this. Its regular use prevents strain, removes dust and germs, strengthens the eye muscles and keeps your eyes happy and healthy. Optrex is recommended by Doctors and Opticians all over the world.

On Guard

THE demonstrations by Britain's armed forces England is witnessing this week are a comforting reminder that our Homeland is fully prepared and able to meet any sudden challenge from the Totalitarians. The aerial and naval manoeuvres now taking place are the greatest combined defence operations the world has ever witnessed. His Majesty the King yesterday reviewed over 130 warships comprising the Reserve Fleet, whilst 1,300 planes have taken to the air in mass attack and defence on a scale that no other nation has attempted.

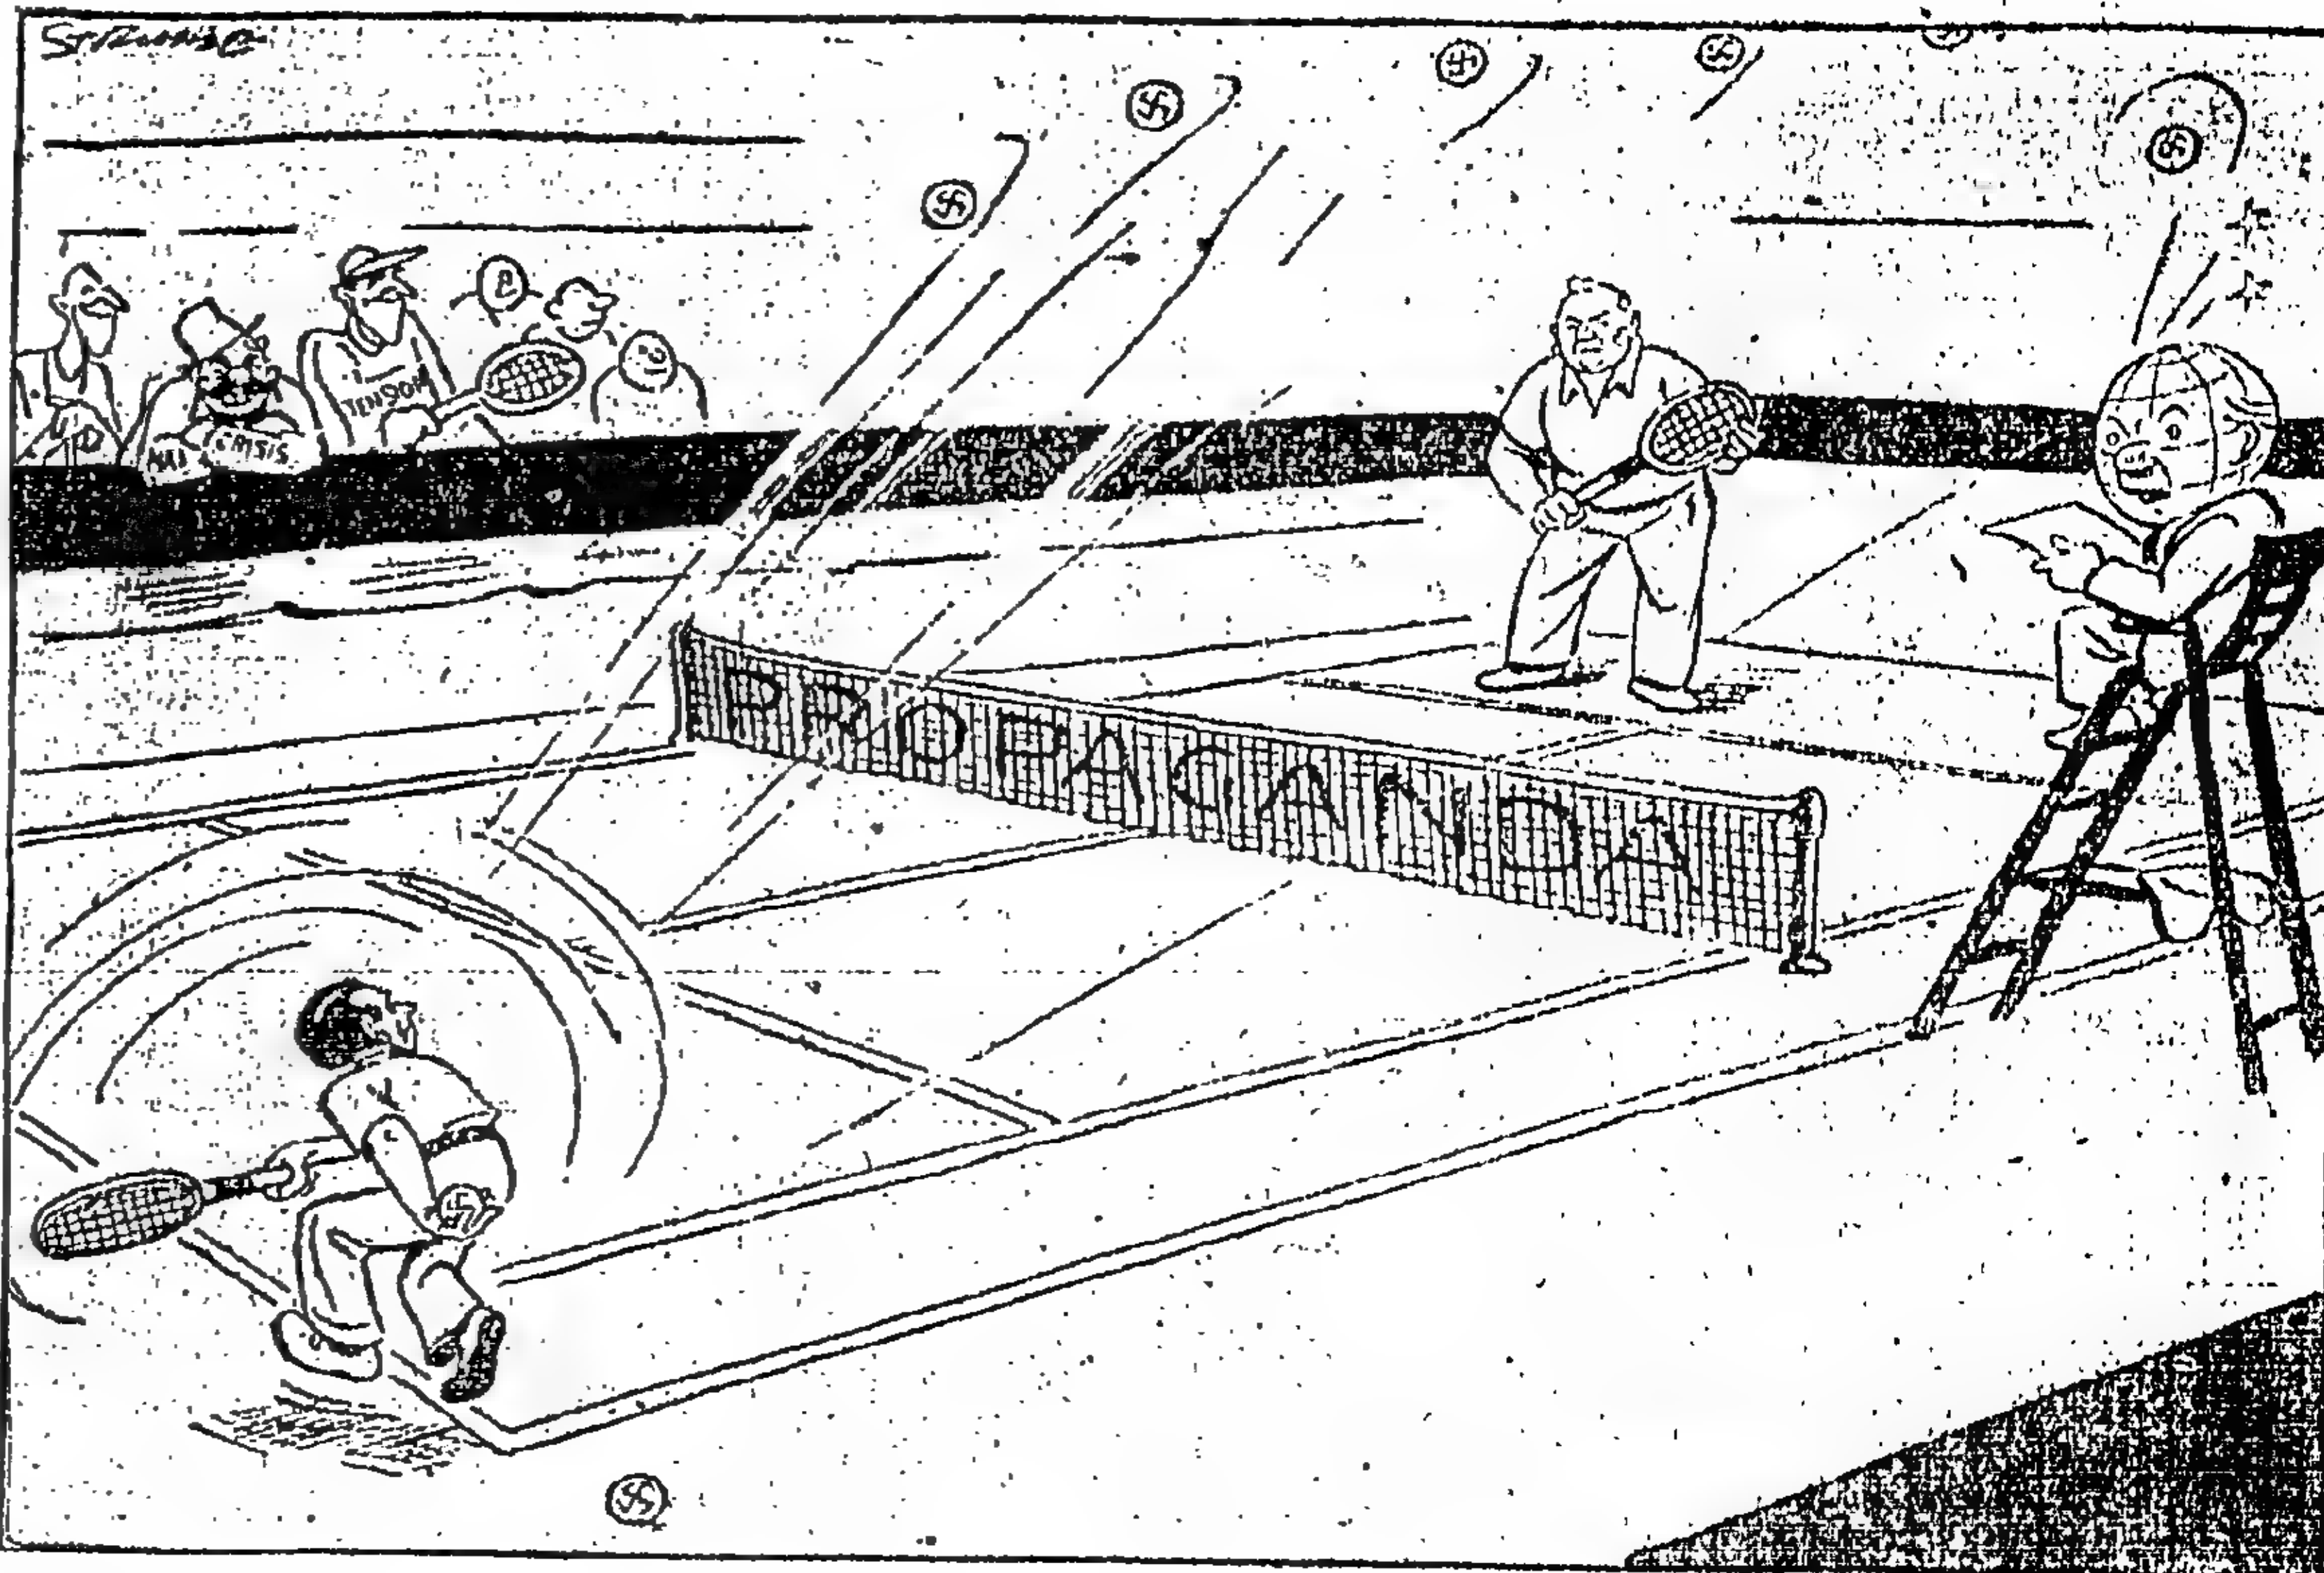

Mobilisation of the Reserve fleet alone has entailed the calling up of an additional 12,000 retired naval officers, reservists and pensioners, and it is computed that nearly 1,000,000 men and women have been mobilised in connection with the air defence tests.

Even more significant than the scope of the manoeuvres is the fact that they have started this year several weeks earlier than is customary. In short, these vast displays of aerial and naval power coincide with the period of the year when peace or war may be decided.

The British combined manoeuvres are certain to be characterised as "provocation" in the Axis Press. Yet in fact they are the logical and necessary reply to the mobilisation of troops which has already taken place in Germany and Italy and is still going on. Just in case Herr Hitler or Signor Mussolini are preparing to make trouble, Britain has prepared to meet it.

The decision for peace or war in Europe rests still, as it has rested for so long, with Herr Hitler and with him alone. If he decides for peace, the British manoeuvres will run their course and the participants will go home again. If he decides in favour of a new adventure in aggression, at least he knows what to expect.

The impressive exercises now under way (they will continue, in the case of the Navy, until October) leave no possible ground for misunderstanding about Britain's will and capacity to act.

CHAMPION OF LOST CAUSES

I SHALL just call him Bill for I know he would hate publicity. The first time I saw him he was crouching behind a pile of sandbags, covered with grime and caked blood, and blazing away with a rifle at the troops of the legally elected Government of Brazil.

It was during a revolt in Sao Paulo, and although the rebels had captured the town they were losing steadily, and it was obvious that their cause was lost.

I heard Bill cursing in English, with a pronounced Scottish accent, so I paused in my cautious crawling behind the barricade and asked what he was doing. Bill just grinned.

I reached the comparative safety of a shop, and was resting there for a moment when Bill came in. He was off duty for an hour, so we talked.

At first he did not seem inclined to explain what he was doing taking part in the internal quarrels of a foreign country. He tried to put me off with the excuse that "it was fun," and that "he just found himself in it."

When I pointed out that he had no right to be taking part in an affair which did not concern him, he became annoyed. "Damn it all," he said, "it's 50 to 1 against the rebels. The Government has sent up fresh troops. The rebels haven't a chance! I couldn't help feeling they needed some help."

He said some other things, too, and I began to understand. "So," I said, "You are a champion of lost causes." Bill looked like an uncomfortable schoolboy, and murmured something about "the underdog."

I did not see Bill for some time after. But I read about him. A British subject was arrested in Buenos Aires for obstructing the police in the execution of their duty and for assault. It was Bill, of course, and his only excuse was that there were three policemen trying to arrest one man and using physical force.

Bill had just joined in to level things a bit. He spent three months in an Argentine jail for that.

Years after I heard of him being mixed up in another South American revolution, and again he was on the losing side. And once I got a letter from him when he was on his way

THIRTEEN hundred Royal Air Force planes are participating this week in the greatest aerial manoeuvres Britain has witnessed. It is, in effect, the coming of age of the modern R.A.F.

At the end of the Great War the air power of Britain was supreme, but, true to our tradition, we began to lower our defences as soon as hostilities ceased and our Air Force was the first to suffer.

It gradually sank to fifth or sixth place, and, but for the revelation of its weakness when we were at odds with Italy over Abyssinia, it might have gone down lower still.

There was no escaping the hard fact that we were outclassed in the air, and since then we have been busy on a series of reconstructive programmes so that we might re-assume the position of an Air Power to be reckoned with.

It is wholly fitting, therefore, that the coming of age of the R.A.F. should arrive with the completion of the programme as originally conceived, equipping the national defences with a Metropolitan Air Force—which numbers 1,750 first-line aircraft of modern type.

Last May that figure was stepped up to 2,370, and there appears to be every hope that this new total will be reached in twelve months.

Behind this frontage there will then exist, moreover, a back area, as it were, of industrial and Ministerial activity to ensure that, in material and personnel, this first-line force can maintain its strength notwithstanding the severe losses which are anticipated in air warfare of the future.

Sir Kingsley Wood's speech in presentation of the Air Estimates, and the full-dress debate in discussion of them has displayed to the world at large an imposing facade of British air power.

Production mounts by leaps and bounds, the types on order are as good as scientific ingenuity can devise, the training establishments are full, and recruits are pouring in.

SUPPORTING the Regular units are many auxiliary and volunteer formations calculated at one end immediately to replace casualties and at the other to provide a mass reserve which after further training may be drawn on to fill the gaps.

to China to help to defend Manchuria.

After that I neither saw nor heard of him for a long time. I did hear of him, finally, back here in Scotland. He was working heroically for national peace organisation! I was somewhat puzzled by this until I realised that there was another cause likely to be lost.

Time passed and I met him again. He was as full of enthusiasm as ever. He was off to Spain to fight for the Government. I could not resist asking—

PLEASE Turn To Page 7.

Nor is this all. Developments are taking place in the Dominions, particularly Australia and Canada, which will not only make those smaller Air Forces a powerful imperial reinforcement, but will convert them into reservoirs of material equipment to supplement home manufacture.

Finally, in the background, stands the U.S.A., likely at the very least to be benevolently neutral, with a huge productive capacity available to us.

All this points to the belief that our resources are vast enough to bear down any enemy combination in the long run, and no one realises that position better than Herr Hitler.

Over there they are pinning their faith on the "blitzkrieg," as they call it, or a lightning war, and the German wheels of industry are turning on that account alone. We can hardly hope to overtake their output in actual preparation for the stroke, for they have gained a long lead on us.

A country which is straining every nerve to encase itself in armour, which is as highly industrialised as we ourselves, which has a labour scarcity instead of grievous unemployment, and which can name the day, is hard to overtake in armaments production.

This fever of preparation is in the nature of a gamble, depending for success on what is hoped to be the pulverising effect of mass bombardment from the air. But if this hope be disappointed, then the very earnestness of the preliminary efforts will rebound on their own heads.

They will have spent themselves, before war breaks, for a machine which is geared to the highest pitch can do no more, and when overstrained by the dislocating effect of internal hurry which war brings in train it is likely to do much less.

WE, on the other hand, provided we survive the first resounding blows, can speed up our machine with the prolongation of hostilities and have it running smoothly on top gear when the other is creaking badly. Our resources are illimitable.

Confronted with a situation of that kind, we have to be more than careful in the composition of our air power. Logically, and long before such a situation arises, we should have imposed on ourselves a two-Power standard in the air as once we did at sea.

The threat of air attack by superior air power can be, as we have lately seen, a weapon in itself. It is undeniable that a sense of air inferiority, and the spectre of the bomber over France and England, enabled Hitler to call our bluff at Munich.

It is too late now to build up our air power to anything like equality with that of Germany, let alone a two-Power standard, while partly is merely a vague expression. We let slip the opportunity when we had it in our grasp.

All we can do now is to adjust the balance between our fighter and our bomber forces that each can play its part in the service of our national defence, remembering that equally with the head and heart of Empire, which are the British Isles, we must protect its veins and arteries, which are our sea communications and its extremities and lower limbs, which are our Dominions beyond the seas.

NOW, in our peculiar necessity a properly balanced air force is a matter of delicate adjustment, for we are vulnerably situated and our capital lies on the threshold of the country. It is our base of operations and must, at all costs, be made reasonably secure. But not to the detriment of our bombing capacity.

Without ability to carry war to the enemy we are merely covering up and allowing him to raid us when and where he cares, without the power on our part of taking adequate reprisal. The enemy is just as apprehensive of air attack as we are, but if it came to his knowledge that we were developing our fighter arm, purely for home defence, at the expense of our own raiding power it would relieve him from much anxiety on that score and enable him to concentrate on bombing.

The public is reassured to hear of our growing air power, but it presumes that it will be built up according to the needs of strategy, and with a view to knocking out the other side.

THIS cannot be if it is mainly designed to meet the raider overhead and stop him getting through. Our base of operations must have of course, sufficient fighters but there are other means of protecting it, such as anti-aircraft fire, the balloon barrage and reliable forms of A.R.P.

Air warfare has a cruel logic of its own. We must expect to be knocked about as long as the enemy has power to deliver the blows, but the extent of his activities in that respect will depend on our capacity for returning tit for tat.

Such is the background of the colossal expenditure on air defence and of the Votes which are now agreed to. We can produce the aircraft, we can enrol the men, and we have the money, too. It is only now to be hoped that the functioning is properly understood, and that, above all, the bomber force should not be denuded in favour of the fighter for the sake of an appearance of security which is false. Otherwise we may well congratulate ourselves that our house will be very soon in order.

Man Robbed Of $1,000 In City Street

WALKING quietly along Bonham Street yesterday, Mak Yuk-leung, who lives in Des Voeux Road West, gave a grunt of pain when a Chinese collared with him, but his exclamation turned to one of rage a few moments later when he discovered that the man had skillfully stolen $1,000 from him.

The victim was carrying the money in his jacket pocket, and the rapidly with which it was lifted by the collaring pedestrian left Mak completely ignorant of the ulterior motive, until it was too late for him to catch the thief.

Another skillful theft was also carried out on a tramcar in Wanchai yesterday, Chan Wing of the Nan Kong boarding house having jewelry worth $345 taken from him.

In neither case has the thief yet been apprehended.

Macao Greets Its Governor

Special Enthusiasm By Local Chinese Community

Our Own Correspondent
MACAO, Aug. 9.—Macao's popular administrator, Dr. A. Tamagnini Barbosa, was accorded a hearty welcome on his return to Macao today.

Arriving by the steamer Taisan, H.E. the Governor was met by a representative gathering consisting of leading officials and their wives, naval, military and civil officers, as well as prominent members of ecclesiastical bodies, functionaries of various government departments, and members of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce and other Chinese institutions.

Those present at the wharf included Comm. Rodrigues Coelho, Officer Administering the Government, Sr. Bossa, Inspector-General of Colonies, Mr. Meneses Alves, Colonial Secretary, Comm. S. Vieira, Comm. Freitas Ribeiro, Lieut. Arbrantes, Col. Azevedo, Capt. F. Correa, L. Gomes, Dr. F. Moutinho, Lt. P. da Costa, Dr. F. de Castro, Messrs. L. Martins, P. J. Lobo, and Gomes Silva, Drs. Vargas Montez, and Gomes de Santos, Fathers Sarmiento and Alves, Mr. H. W. Bradley, Commissioner of Customs, Mr. A. W. Hockenfull, British Vice Consul, Mr. H. Nolasco, Consul for Holland, Mr. S. Senna Fernandes, Consul for Siam, Messrs. Leung Hau-yuen, Chu Wai-bing, Tung Si-long, Chiu Lap-chee, and many others.

Macao's troop of Portuguese boy-scouts and the Boys' Brigade of the Salesian Institute were also present to greet His Excellency.

Ships Dressed
All ships in port were dressed in honour of the occasion, and as His Excellency stepped ashore the band played the Portuguese National Anthem which was followed by a salute of 10 guns from the Artillery Battery. Upon leaving the wharf, the Governor inspected the Guard of Honour drawn from the Infantry Regiment, under the command of Capt. Silva Carvalho.

The spontaneous enthusiasm on the part of the local Chinese community exceeded all previous occasions. Before the Governor drove away, a long string of fire-crackers was set off. His Excellency made his way to his residence through streets which were a riot of colour. Impromptu triumphal archways had been erected at various prominent points of the route, interspersed by smaller arches of festoons and flags.

In the evening, thousands thronged the brilliantly-lit streets in holiday mood in order to attend the dragon and fish lantern processions, and to view the Chinese outdoor shows and fireworks display.

A banquet took place at the Hotel Riviera and marked the end of the day's festivities of welcome to His Excellency.

Chief Justice Thanks Counsel For Argument

ARISING out of their successful appeal against conviction for permitting premises to be used as a brothel, Mr. M. H. Turner and Mr. H. J. Armstrong, trustees of the estate of Sir Paul Chater, brought an application for costs against the Crown before the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor and Mr. Justice R. E. Lindell, Puisne Judge, in the Full Court this morning.

The motion was dismissed. Mr. H. G. Sheldon, K.C., instructed by Deacons, appeared for the applicants, and Mr. J. B. Prentis, Assistant Crown Solicitor, was for the Crown.

Mr. Sheldon said the motion was to ask that the costs of the appeal, judgment of which was given on May 15 last, be paid by the Crown to the appellants. The section relevant to the matter was Section 133 of the Magistrates Ordinance which gave power to the Full Court to determine the question and to make such order as to costs as they deemed fit.

Counsel then quoted a case in which a revenue officer was the respondent, a conviction having been obtained by him for selling beer by retail without an excise licence. The point was whether the Crown should or should not receive costs and it was held by the trial Judge that in all cases costs should be given either by the Crown or to them.

Rule Now Extinct

The Chief Justice observed that the procedure in that case was by rule, and queried whether in the present action the same principle could be followed, as judgment had already been delivered.

Mr. Sheldon agreed that such a rule was now extinct, but pointed out that at the conclusion of the appeal he had asked the Court to deal with the question of costs. Their Lordships did not deal with the question then, and in Chambers subsequently they directed that notice should be filed.

"It would be a hard thing for a litigant if he could not approach the Court after filing the notice as directed," said Counsel.

His Lordship: Judgment has already been given and my difficulty is whether we can now go back and review and modify the judgment. Actually, your application could not be entertained in Chambers and if proceedings were to be taken at all would have to be by notice. That was why we suggested it could come before the Court.

"What Am I To Do?"

Mr. Sheldon: We did not choose Chambers as a venue; we did so only because it was convenient for both parties. Your Lordships were asked by me to deal with the question of costs, but it was not dealt with. What am I to do? The judgment was delivered, and I was therefore shut out. If the judgment had been delivered in Court I would have dealt with the question of costs.

His Lordship: It would be unbelievable if you hadn't.

Counsel then continued his arguments in support of his application, and quoted authorities to show that the respondent should pay costs "when unsuccessful." The result, he said, was that the Crown neither gave nor received costs, but he submitted this could not be applied in Hongkong because of a provision which treated the Crown as an ordinary litigant, liable to receive or pay the costs.

Continuing, Mr. Sheldon said the discretion of the Court should be exercised in favour of his clients. They were trustees of an estate and the proceedings against them were entirely misconceived. Not only that, but before the proceedings had been started they had communicated with the Crown pointing out that they were not the persons who ought to be served with the notice. In spite of that, the Crown proceeded with the case, with the result that the applicants were convicted. They subsequently came to the Appeal Court and the Crown then agreed that the charge which it had brought would not be upheld.

Under the circumstances, the applicants should get their costs.

Crown's Reply

Replying for the Crown, Mr. Prentis agreed that the Court had discretion in the matter, but submitted that the general rule of the Crown neither giving nor receiving costs should not be departed from. It had been stated, went on Mr.

Prentis, that the applicants had communicated with the Crown before the proceedings had been started, pointing out that they were not the persons to be served with the notice. That was correct but at the same time the Crown had also invited them to argue the point out, but no notice of this was taken. Therefore there was no other course open to the Crown except to take proceedings in order to ascertain whether its views or those of the applicants were correct.

The applicants' views had since been held as correct, but it was also found that the section in question was difficult of construction and was open to more than one meaning.

Mr. Prentis then went on to submit that if the applicants chose to own property, whether in trust or otherwise, in an unsavoury neighbourhood, they could not be in a better position than that of an individual holding it in his own personal rights, for it would mean the Crown taking proceedings against trustees at its own peril.

The only occasion in criminal proceedings where costs could be awarded against the Crown was where there was something malicious or oppressive in the conduct of the prosecution. In such cases, costs were awarded in a manner indicating the displeasure at the way in which the prosecution had been conducted. But in the present case, there was nothing which could be construed as malicious or oppressive and therefore costs could not be awarded.

Grateful For Arguments

Dismissing the motion, the Chief Justice said: "We are grateful to counsel of both sides for the very careful and full arguments with which they have assisted us, but in our view the point for decision is really a simple one. We are dealing with criminal proceedings and an appeal from the decision of a Magistrate. In our view there is no question whatever as to our power to award costs, either for or against the Crown in such proceedings, but there is, and long has been, a well-set rule of practice that in criminal matters on appeal no order as to costs is made unless in cases, happily rare, where the prosecution has been undertaken maliciously or oppressively."

"In the case we are now considering, this is the only real point for consideration. The proceedings were taken under an Ordinance, the wording of which had given my Brother and myself considerable food for thought. I can find nothing in the proceedings that savours either of oppression or of malice, and the view that I have formed is that there is no reason why this Court should depart from the well-set rule of practice. The motion is therefore dismissed."

U.S. Cotton Deal With Spaniards

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 (Reuters).—Mr. Warren Lee Pierson, President of the Export and Import Bank, prior to leaving for Europe today, said that the cotton to be sold to Spain will be purchased in the open market, and not specifically drawn from loan stocks.

He said that the shipments were expected to start immediately, with shippers benefiting from the export subsidy.

Interest on financing will probably be three and a half per cent. Questioned with regard to the possibility of similar arrangements with other countries, Mr. Pierson said that the only other country which might be interested in such a cotton arrangement would be Germany, which already had private commercial credits with the United States.

Mr. Pierson admitted that the Export and Import Bank had substantially depleted its loaning capacity, but that large repayments on outstanding loans were enabling the bank to assume its part in financing the Spanish deal.

Van Zeeland Heads New Refugee Organisation

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

LONDON, Aug. 10 (UP).—N. Paul van Zeeland, the former Belgian Prime Minister, has agreed to become head of a new body set up by the United States, Britain and other countries interested in refugee problems.

The new body is being formed to negotiate with Germany for the orderly emigration of Jews.

Report On Immigration

Geneva, Aug. 9 (UP).—The High Commissioner for Refugees, Sir Herbert Emmerson's report, issued to-night, said, "The only Country in which the settlement groups are on a considerable scale is Palestine, but there is a possibility there will be other countries under the continued examination."

He said that the United States,

Palestine, Australia and South America were main contributors to the refugee problem. The number of refugees who left Germany territory in 1938 was not less than 120,000 and some estimates say 140,000, many of whom have not yet found permanent homes or obtained permission to earn a living, but "probably at least 50,000 who left German territory in 1938 have found new means of livelihood."

Took A Warship To Steal Two Rifles From Junk

IT TOOK A full-sized Japanese warship to capture two rifles and 200 rounds of ammunition from a frail little junk at Ah Chau this week.

The master of the junk, Li Ling-ngai, returned to Hongkong yesterday to report to the police that a large Japanese warship hove into sight as he was sailing the junk in Chinese waters, and the vessel despatched a motor boat filled with Japanese sailors, who boarded the junk, and left later bearing with them the insignificant booty mentioned above.

No attempt was made to molest the occupants of the junk, and once the Japanese sailors had discovered the rifles and ammunition, they boarded their own motor boat and returned to the warship. The junk was allowed to continue its course.

Sequel To Tarantula Mishap CAPTAIN OF WARSHIP REPRIMANDED FOR NEGLIGENCE

FOUND GUILTY of negligently performing a duty imposed upon him, in that he omitted to be on the bridge during the period in which to his knowledge H.M.S. Tarantula was passing close to a known and hidden danger on July 11, Capt Francis Cyril Flynn, commanding H.M.S. Tarantula and Senior Naval Officer, West River, was sentenced to be reprimanded at a Court-martial held on board H.M.S. Tamar this morning.

The Tarantula grounded on a rock off Tap Sank Kok in the Urnston Road of the Canton River on July 11.

The Court comprised Capt. Clement Moody (Eagle) President, Capt. G. M. K. Keble-White (Medway), Cmdr. J. A. C. Hill (Westcott), Cmdr. H. H. Palmer, Cmdr. T. H. Hampton and Pay. Lt.-Cdr. A. Lade (Tamar), Judge Advocate.

Capt. A. R. M. Bridge (Eagle) prosecuted, and accused was represented by Cmdr. E. V. Lees and Pay. Cmdr. C. S. B. Hickman.

Circumstantial Letter

The circumstantial letter stated that since July 1, 1939, the Accused has been borne in the books of H.M.S. Tarantula for Command of that ship. He is still so borne.

On July 11, 1939, H.M.S. Tarantula was on passage from Canton to Hongkong and at about 12.30 passed about 7 cables to the South west of Ma Chau Island, intending to pass through Urnston Road. Lieutenant Henry Francis Ormsby Hale, Royal Navy, First Lieutenant of H.M.S. Tarantula, had charge of the afternoon watch, and the safe navigation of the ship through Urnston Road was entrusted to him by the accused.

At about 1.12 p.m. when the ship was approximately four cables to the southwest of Black Point, the accused visited the bridge. He was entirely satisfied with the distance of the ship from Black Point at that time, and with the ship's course. The ship was heading S. 32° E. by compass at that time giving a clearance from Tap Sank Kok of about two cables only. He did not remain on the bridge however to see the ship safely navigated past Tap Sank Kok.

It is evident that between 1.12 and 1.22 p.m. the Officer of the Watch allowed the ship to get too close to the shore between Black Point and Tap Sank Kok. At 1.22 p.m. the ship grounded on a rock close to westward of the latter point. The rock was almost certainly that which appears on the chart about half a cable off the point. The accused was not on the bridge at the time of the grounding.

The ship was being piloted by eye and the Officer of the Watch had the accused's authority to make alterations of course as requisite without reference to his Captain. This is evidently the normal practice in ships of the West River Flotilla. This is a matter of plain navigation similar to that in any pilotage waters. By making use of land fixes combined with a clearing bearing of Red Point on Chu Lu Kok Island a ship can be more easily and more safely navigated through the Road than by eye. Further it cannot be said that in this locality the Officer of the Watch's local knowledge exceeded that of the Captain, thereby justifying the accused in leaving the navigation solely in the Officer of the Watch's hands.

Between Bocca Tigris and Hongkong the worst danger to be avoided in clear weather is the rock off Tap Sank Kok. In spite of this, however, and the small clearance being given to this danger, the Accused failed to be on the bridge while passing it.

I consider that as Captain of the ship the Accused should have remained on the bridge after passing Black Point with the ship heading so close inshore. Had he done so he would have observed that the ship was getting too close to the land, and would have been in a position to take steps to avoid it. His failure in the above respect constituted, I submit, a grave neglect of duty and contributed towards the grounding, rendering him guilty of the charge preferred against him.

Lt. Hale's Evidence

Lt. H. F. O. Hale was then called. He said he was Officer of the watch on the Tarantula on the afternoon of July 11. Accused came on to the bridge at 1.22 p.m. when the ship was off Black Point, about four cables away. The compass course was S.

32 E. Had the ship maintained that course, she would have passed three to four cables off Tap Sank Kok. Accused gave no instructions when the ship was passing through Urnston Road. Witness was navigating by eye, and took no fixes by cross bearings.

When accused came on the bridge, he remained for a minute or two, and then left. Five minutes after passing Black Point, witness altered course to S. 35 E. and five minutes after that, the ship grounded on a rock off Tap Sank Kok. The time was 1.21 p.m. Accused appeared on the bridge a moment after the ship grounded. The submerged rock was 70 or 80 yards off Tap Sank Kok.

Cross-examined, Lt. Hale said he had been First Lieutenant of the Tarantula for over two years. He had passed the rock off Tap Sank Kok 20 times. Accused was always on the bridge when he first joined the ship, but now he went up sometimes and sometimes not. He always came up every quarter of an hour to see how things were going on. During the time witness was on the ship, he passed Tap Sank Kok about one to two cables away.

Did Not Encourage Cutting Corners

To a question whether he had gained the impression that the accused encouraged cutting corners, witness said he certainly did not. The Captain's bridge was immediately below the bridge, and access to the outside by means of a ladder was under his door. It was a matter of seconds for him to get to the bridge. When the accused came on the bridge at 1.12 p.m. the ship was on a course which would have taken her three to four cables off Tap Sank Kok.

Cmdr. Lees: Then why did you alter course towards land?

Lt. Hale: I was a little confident. Have you ever before altered course towards land between Black Point and Tap Sank Kok?—I cannot remember.

Witness went on to say that when accused was on the bridge, the least distance by which he had passed Tap Sank Kok was one and a half to two cables. The Tarantula had a draught of five feet, with a beam of 30 feet. There were no useful leading marks between Black Point and Tap Sank Kok.

Witness said it was difficult to take accurate compass bearings. To do so necessitated leaving the bridge and walking over a nine inch wide plank. The standard compass was 30 feet from the bridge.

Re-examined by Capt. Bridge, witness said he could not say for certain what could be seen from the captain's cabin with regard to the movement of the ship's head. He had not been in the captain's cabin when there had been an alteration of course. A small alteration would be hardly noticeable.

No further witnesses were called for the prosecution.

Accused's Evidence
Accused next gave evidence. He said he had the most complete confidence in his officer of the watch, and he went on to explain the reason why he was not on the bridge at the time of the grounding. He would like to make clear first of all, he said, that there was no question of his trying to run away from his responsibilities as a captain.

Explaining why he had complete confidence in his officer of the watch, accused said that that officer had taught him, for example, to take his ship so close to the river bank in order to get under the telegraph wires stretching across the river. He had also shown accused how to get through a 30 yards gap in a strong tidal way between one bank and rocks, which necessitated immediate alteration of course. They had also been through a Chinese village standing on piles on either side of the river, leaving a channel of about 50 yards in which to get through. There was a "100" degree turn in the middle of the village and the maximum tide was six knots. There were also rapids and rocks on both sides.

U.S. FREIGHTER AFIRE AT SEA

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
BOSTON, Aug. 9 (UP).—The local Coast Guard Station has received a radio report from the American freighter Pipestone County, saying she is afire 700 miles north-east of Boston. The report says "not yet serious."

The New York Coast Guard Office said that the Cutter-Chelan radiocast the freighter, who advised that there was a fire in the hold.

The message added: "Not yet extinguished, outcome uncertain, Coast Guard assistance desired."

It is estimated that the Cutter Champlain will reach the freighter within nine hours.

Palestine Patrol Boat Sinks

JERUSALEM, Aug. 9 (Trans-Ocean).—The coastal patrol boat Sinbad, belonging to the British police force in Palestine, sank near Wadi Falik, south of Naphan to-day, following an explosion on board.

One member of the crew, a British police sergeant, was killed.

Two of members of the crew of seven were injured and have been sent to hospital in Haifa.

Zionist Conference

GENEVA, Aug. 9 (Reuters).—Non-co-operation with the British Government in retaliation for the suspension of Jewish immigration in Palestine and the White Paper policy, was urged by Rabbi Meir Berlin in his opening address at the world conference of the Mizrahi (the orthodox wing of the world Zionist organisation).

Rabbi Berlin urged the Jews of the world to mobilise to fight against the curtailment of historic Jewish rights in Palestine.

He declared that immigration must continue despite the artificial restrictions. All Zionist groups should forget their differences and form a united front to combat the British Government's new policy.

Family Allowances As Election Cry

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
LONDON, Aug. 9 (Reuters).—A scheme for family allowances in the wages system will be an issue in the forthcoming general election.

This was decided at the Liberal Summer School at Cambridge to-day, where it was stated that the economic disadvantages of parenthood was one of the most powerful factors contributing towards the inadequate birth-rate.

Mr. J. C. Cadbury advocated that a commission of inquiry frame a practical proposal, and suggested that some of the features of the continental countries, including Germany and Italy, might well be copied in Britain.

Economic Recovery Depends On Europe

LONDON, Aug. 9 (British Wire- less).—Prospects of a further general economic recovery depend on the international situation, declared the Minister of Transport in a speech on Tyneside to-day.

He went on: "If any improvement makes some reduction in our defence preparations possible—and there appears at the moment no sign of that very substantial alteration of policy in certain quarters which alone can do so—I believe the result would be demands for the normal products of industry, which a better atmosphere between nations would immediately bring about."

ROBSON AND NISH IN LAST FOUR OF OPEN BOWLS PAIRS

Peculiar Scoring In Some Of The Singles Matches

Several interesting matches were played in the Open Bowls Championships yesterday. In the quarter-finals of the Pairs, T. E. Robson and H. Nish defeated G. Duncan and W. Gill by 26-16, while ten more matches were decided in the second round of the Singles.

Playing consistently, Robson and Nish scored on 11 heads against their opponents' ten, but what really gave them their wide margin of victory were the two fives which they registered in the course of the match, the first on the seventh head and the second on the 17th. Apart from these two fives, there was very little in the scoring of the two pairs.

Robson and Nish, however, led all the way, 6-1 on the fifth, 15-0 on the tenth, 18-0 on the 15th and 24-0 on the 20th.

In the Singles, the most peculiar game was seen on the Hongkong F.C. green, where A. M. Omar defeated a sub-master, E. Zimmerman, by 21-10. On the seventh head Zimmerman was leading 10-4, but he never scored again, whereas his opponent "chalked" up 4, 3, 3, 4, 1 and 4 on successive ends.

Zimmerman broke down completely on the last six heads and the match concluded on the 13th.

On the same green, L. J. Silva eliminated F. Channing by 21-13, requiring 17 heads in the process. Silva had a four on the sixth end and two threes, while Channing also had two threes amongst his failures.

DALLAH THROUGH
A. R. Dallah, who reached the semi-finals last year, made further progress at the expense of a team-mate, D. M. Khan, whom he defeated by 21-8. Dallah was shaky at the start and allowed his opponent to take a lead of 7-1 on the sixth head, but he made a good recovery and conceded only one more shot after this. Khan led 8-3 on the ninth end, but thereafter Dallah had 3, 1, 3, 1, 3, 2 and 3 to reach his goal.

On the Police R.C. green, H. Gittins, after leading by 14-0 on the sixth head, defeated K. M. Omar 21-8 on the 15th head. Omar scored only on four heads in the course of the game. Each player registered a four.

C. F. Remedios, a former champion of Shanghai, was a little too steady for S. M. White on the Kowloon F.C. green and won by 21-9. Remedios led all the way, and had one solid spell of scoring when, from 8-7 on the 11th end, he took the score to 19-7 on the 17th.

Trailing behind J. S. Logan at 9-10 on the 14th head, R. Bana finished up with six winning heads which were sufficient to give him game. He had 1, 3, 3, 2, 1, and 2 to reach his 21 shots.

On the Indian R.C. green, A. J. Hall started well against J. H. Gelling and led 7-0 after four heads. On the seventh he was 11-2 in the lead, but on the 10th he had an advantage of only two shots, 11-9. However, with a single and a three on the next two ends, he was 15-9 in the lead, and at the 13th, he was leading 20-11. For four heads, Gelling prevented him from taking the all-important point. Gelling himself, however, could only score singles on these four

Here And There With "Abe"

Right Spirit Shown By Local Soccer Officials

EVEN if one does not think highly of Hongkong's chances of winning in the circumstances, one must admire the spirit of the Hongkong Football Association in having already decided to send a team to Shanghai in November to resume the Interport series with that city.

A letter to this effect will shortly be written to the Shanghai F.A., and if the latter agree, a Hongkong team will definitely go up. What sort of a team it will be it is difficult to hazard a guess at the moment. Obviously if the Navy and Army players are not available and if the South China A.A. starts refuse to go to Shanghai, the Colony cannot hope to have anything better than a moderate team. But the idea seems to be that the result of the Interport does not matter very much; however, that Hongkong should fulfil its obligations does a great deal. It was the turn of the Colony to send a team north last year, but for various reasons it was decided not to do so. Now, however, the Hongkong F.A. have sufficient funds and they are making haste to assure Shanghai that a team will travel north to resume the series.

Sport And Politics

IT is all very well for theorists to say that sport and politics should not mix. But in actual fact, they frequently do. The Royal Navy cannot release players because of the uncertainty of ship movements; the Army cannot guarantee that permission will be given to their players to go to Shanghai, probably because the present political situation does not warrant the authorities to allow soldiers to be absent from their units for long; and the Chinese simply refuse to play in Shanghai because of the Japanese influence in that city. You may remember that Leo Wu-long a few months ago agreed to go to Shanghai to take part in a series of exhibition soccer games, the proceeds of what were to go to War Relief. But such a fuss was made in the Chinese press that the country's soccer idol deemed it expedient to decline the invitation. The same situation prevails at the moment. There you are. Take away the Navy, Army and South China players, and what have we left? Nothing very much, I am afraid. But the Hongkong F.A. apparently are determined to make the trip if Shanghai wants them to send a team. That's the spirit!

Tennis Visitors
UNLESS their steamer has been delayed, the tennis team from Thailand, which is making a good-will tour abroad, will reach Hongkong to-day. There is no need for me to say that Hongkong tennis enthusiasts welcome them to these shores. The team consists of Muang Roeng (present champion of Thailand), Sanoh, Police Captain Rasom Chakravani, a Cambridge "Blue" of 1934, and Miss Sanguan, the lady champion of her country. Muang Roeng and Sanoh are already well-known in Hongkong as they have already played here before in a series of exhibition matches arranged by Mr. Vilas Ostananda, Thailand Trade Commissioner in the Colony, some years ago but Chakravani and Miss Sanguan are strangers. During their stay in Hongkong, an Interport match will be played on Davis Cup lines, that is, four singles and one doubles spread over three days. The programme of matches was announced yesterday. The Teul brothers are taking on the singles and the Rumjahn cousins are playing the doubles. If the visitors play up to form, there should be some very interesting matches indeed.

Bloody Mess

WHEN the fight between Max Baer and Lou Nova took place nearly two months ago, the cables merely said it was a good fight and made no mention of the brutality of the exchanges. In a recent issue of Time, the American newsmagazine, the following appeared, however, on the fight:

It was a roughhouse brawl. They hit with the backs of their gloves, they hit below the belt, they hit after the bell. They spat blood, dripped blood, slobbered blood. It was the sort of fight a reputable U.S. citizen would be horrified to see in a waterfront saloon. Yet last week this primitive performance was billed as a top-notch heavyweight boxing match—staged in New York's Yankee Stadium to select a September challenger for the world's championship. And 18,000 presumably reputable U.S. citizens paid up to U.S. $11.50 a seat to watch it.

One of the contenders was 30-year-old Max Baer, onetime world's heavyweight champion who had not been in a ring for 15 months. The other was 24-year-old Lou Nova of Alameda, Calif., an inexperienced second-rater. By the eighth round, Baer—been Baer was staggering, hunched, and choking from the blood he had been swallowing ever since the third round, when an inch-long gash was opened on the inside of his mouth. Young Nova, unable to wind up the gory performance any other way, kept pecking at Baer's bleeding mouth and eye, kept pummeling his hideously swollen cheek, kept pounding wildly at his wheezing body.

In the eleventh round, the referee finally stopped the butchery, awarded a technical knockout to young Nova, who was in pretty bad shape himself. The 13,000 reputable U.S. citizens sitting under the stars in Yankee Stadium, cheered long and loud. They thought it had been a good fight.

Cricket Story

THIS story, too, comes from an Australian sailor, attached to a boat which recently docked at Portsmouth. Said sailor, just before leaving Sydney, took part in a cricket match between his own ship's crew and a rival crew. One of the teams turned up in a short and a "rookie" a new-comer to the Australian Navy was asked to fill the vacancy. Being a "rookie," few of the players, most of all his captain, a commanding officer, took much notice of the stranger and he was put in No. 11. When he went in to bat his side had lost nine wickets for a paltry 50 runs or so, but in less than no time he more than doubled the score before he lost his last wicket partner. Asked if he could bowl, the "rookie" said "yes, a bit." He then proceeded to skittle the opponents out for less than 40, his share being nine cheap wickets. After it was all over the rather bumptious commanding officer said: "Look here, rookie, you're almost good enough for first class cricket." "Yes, I know," said the rookie. "I have played in one or two Sheffield Shield matches and I was in the last two Australian Test teams. My name is Jack Fingleton."

OFT-POSTPONED TENNIS MATCH PLAYED AT LAST

VICTORY TO SOOKUNPOO TEAM BY SIX TO THREE

(By "Abe")

After five postponements, the important tie in the "A" Division of the Hongkong Tennis League between the Indian R.C. and the South China A.A. was played off at Sookunpoo yesterday, the result being a victory for the Indians by six sets to three.

Rain nearly caused a sixth postponement. Rain actually fell when the match was in progress, but after the driving rain subsided, it held off long enough for the game to be completed.

Conditions, however, were far from conducive to good tennis. The ground was soft and wet and there was a cross wind which prevented good control. Furthermore the light was poor.

The team fielded by the Chinese was not as strong as those in their earlier matches, and with the Indians turning out their best side, it was not surprising, therefore, that victory went to the Sookunpoo club. Nevertheless for two rounds the issue was very open. At the end of the first round, the Indians led 2-1, but at the end of the second round the Indians were even, each side claiming three sets. In the last round, however, the Indians took all three sets to clinch the issue.

TO PLAY C.R.C.

As the result of this victory, the Indians have earned the right to meet the Chinese R.C. in a play-off for the championship as they did last year. On that occasion, the Chinese won with comparative ease. Judging the Indians on yesterday's form, it would seem that the Chinese will repeat their success unless the Indians can improve their third pair, which was very weak.

The most successful pair consisted of Omar Rumjahn and I. M. A. Razack, who won all three sets, and did even better than the Rumjahn cousins who dropped their set against Sze-to Biek and Dr. P. Dew. A. R. Minu and A. H. Madar combined ineffectively in their first two sets, both of which they dropped, and only the weakness of C. K. Chan and H. K. Lee, South China's third string, enabled them to take the third.

By far the most impressive South China pair were Sze-to Biek and P. Dew, who played strong, forceful tennis to take the first two sets. Madar and Minu gave them little opposition, but even against the Rumjahn cousins they more than held their own and after leading by 4-1, they won this set in the eighth game.

VETERAN'S GOOD WORK

In the third set, against Omar Rumjahn and Razack, the 62-year-old veteran, Dew, had lost some of his earlier accuracy, and he and his partner succumbed by 6-3.

The wet ground suited Dew, whose shots, made with a low trajectory, shot off the ground with lightning speed. Even the seasoned Rumjahn cousins were troubled by his forehand, and it was too late when they discovered that his ground strokes on the backhand were distinctly vulnerable. But O. Rumjahn and Razack benefited by this discovery in the final round, and by concentrating their attack on this wing, they reaped their reward. However, right to the end, Dew's overhead work and his volleying remained steadfast.

Highlights of the match were the magnificent retrieving by Rumjahn and Razack; the splendid form shown by Dr. Dew; the unexpected defeat of the Rumjahn cousins; and the poor form displayed by C. K. Chan and H. K. Lee, who not only dropped all three sets but lost two to love.

Scores:

S. A. and H. D. Rumjahn (I.R.C.) beat C. K. Chan and H. K. Lee 6-0; lost to Biek Sze-to and Dr. P. Dew 2-8; beat J. Hsu and A. Chan 6-2. O. Rumjahn and I. M. A. Razack (I.R.C.) beat Chan and Lee 6-0; beat Sze-to and Dew 6-3; beat Hsu and Chan 6-3. A. H. Madar and A. R. Minu (I.R.C.) beat Chan and Lee 6-2; lost to Sze-to and Dew 1-6; lost to Hsu and Chan 2-6.

Division Match
In a "C" Division match played at Sookunpoo yesterday, Indian Recreation Club were beaten 5-1 by Radio Sports Club. The Indians were short of a pair and conceded three sets.

Indoor Bowling

SURPRISE CAUSED IN LEAGUE

A surprise was caused in the semi-finals of the Ewo Indoor Bowling League last evening when "The Bowlers" defeated "The Aspirants" by the narrow margin of ten pins. As can be seen from the scores, the contest was a close one. The result was a complete surprise inasmuch as it was generally expected that "The Aspirants," who were finalists in the last tournament, would win. As a result of their victory, the "Bowlers" will now meet the "Champs" in the final. The following were the scores of last night's match:

Last Season A Bad One For Arsenal

London, July 24.
Arsenal Football Club—biggest money-spinners in Soccer in modern times—had a bad season financially last season. Their accounts just published show a balance of revenue over expenditure for the 1938-39 season of only £687. Cash in hand at the end of May was less than £4. Bank overdraft was nearly £23,000. Working profits were down by £5,000 to £2,942. A £20,000 reserve for income tax has been eliminated from the balance sheet. No mention is made in the report of any sums received or paid by the Arsenal through transfer fees. Bryn Jones alone cost £14,000, and the gate receipts were about £12,000 lower. The total receipts were £72,954. The receipts also included £27,048 from the sale of season tickets, £2,323 from programmes and handbooks. The principal items of expenditure were £10,061 players' wages, benefits and transfers, including provision for next season, £8,409 interest on loans, &c., £6,183 travelling and hotel expenses, £5,709 general maintenance and other expenditure on properties, ground &c., £5,084 income tax, and £3,038 salaries and bonuses.

BRITISH SOCCER PLAYERS RETURN FROM A TRIUMPHANT TOUR OF SOUTH AFRICA

Only One Defeat In 12 Matches: £9,000 Profit Made On Whole Trip

London, July 24. Carrying Zulu spears and other souvenirs of their visit, 18 Soccer internationals have returned home from a 20,000 miles tour of South Africa. They left England on May 11.

Explaining the side's one defeat in 12 games played, Mr. C. Wreford Brown, joint manager with Mr. H. H. Hughes, said that the team were 48 hours in the train just before they went on to the field. Moreover, it was at Johannesburg—0,000 ft. above sea level—and A. H. Gibbons, the R.A.F. and Brentford forward, said they were "panting like dogs" after ten minutes of the F.A. side also pointed out that the F.A. side were then wearing ordinary chukka boots. Afterwards they used rubber studs, the only possible studs for such hard ground. The three Tests were won by scores of 3-0, 3-2, and 2-1.

"Every player in the party, the whole 18, was given a chance in the Tests. They have all come home with the honour of having represented their country in South Africa," he added. He also revealed that the captaincy had been allowed to go round, and that Eric Brook, the Manchester City winner, did not skipper the team all the time.

The estimated profit on the tour is £9,000, and the professionals may receive a bonus. Asked if he could estimate the profit to South Africa, Mr. Wreford Brown said: "About £5,000. Three matches in Johannesburg drew £9,000 in gate money, the best takings of the tour. There was no 'bob' gate, the charge being half a crown."

SHOCK FOR TRAINERS
Trainers are due for a shock when the members of the touring party report to their clubs for duty! Without exception, the eighteen footballers have put on weight. The scales tell a tale of good food and few missed courses. Sam Bartram, Charlton's red-headed goalkeeper, is the worst casualty. He has put on 18 lbs.

It is generally thought in this country that the team played only twelve matches. That is incorrect; they played thirteen, but one will not be recorded in the official report. The thirteenth was against a native side at Madeira in response to a charity appeal wireless to the boat. All the players volunteered to play and were allowed to pick their own side, which won by 4-1.

Absence of rain for six weeks made Eric Brook homesick for Manchester. His colleagues say he was praying for the sight of rain in South Africa. He saw plenty on arrival at Southampton.

Everybody spoke in glowing terms of Fenton's play. The Middlesex batsman scored 24 of the 65 goals in 11 games. The match he missed was the only one lost.

While in Pretoria, Gibbons, the Brentford amateur international, paid homage at the graves of the R.A.F. boxers who were killed when their plane crashed during a tour of the Union. He says the authorities out there are planning to erect an impressive memorial at the cemetery.

Exciting Match In Bowls Tourney
An exciting match was played yesterday in the second round of the Open Bowls singles championship between F. Cullen, of Kowloon Dock, and E. C. Fincher, of the Kowloon C.C., the former winning by the narrowest possible margin by 21-20. It is announced that the match in the quarter-finals of the Pairs between J. E. Noronha and C. G. Silva, and L. Silva and J. F. V. Ribeiro will be played on the Kowloon B.C.C. green to-morrow.

Cliff Jones To Play Again

Cliff Jones, the famous Welsh Rugby international pivot, will emerge from temporary retirement to play for Cardiff again next season. The former Cambridge Blue and Welsh captain made this known following receipt that he had passed his final law examination. Jones did not play at all last season, and his return will be welcomed by Wales.

MIDDLESEX SATISFIED WITH FIRST INNINGS LEAD AGAINST YORKS

From Kenneth Rankin

Bradford, July 11. Middlesex duly took 4 points for a first innings lead over Yorkshire here to-day, but the fact that it was their obvious intention when batting to content themselves with those 4 points was a definite disappointment to most people.

Against a total of 171 they batted five hours 20 minutes for 202, and when they had at length finished, 210 minutes at most remained, and Yorkshire scored 172 for five, Leyland batting with splendid resolution for an hour and a half.

There was a period after four o'clock when Sims bowled so well as to suggest that, given more time, Middlesex might well have won, but that they did not fancy their chances was shown when refreshment was served on the field.

When play began, with Edrich a different person from that of Monday, the score progressed at something like an appropriate pace from one end. Not, however, from the other, where Allen made only 19 out of 58 in the first hour. Edrich by that time had added 39 to the 30, which had taken him 130 minutes the previous evening, when he was bowled by a quick off-break from Robinson.

On his departure one might have expected an attempt, no matter the cost, at an onslaught, for Middlesex were then 54 ahead and defeat was the wildest improbability. But little of the sort happened and Yorkshire's bowling was certainly not going to be partner in any such thing.

At one o'clock the lead was 100, after which methods of violence were at length employed and Middlesex were out just before lunch. All that remained now was to see whether anything untoward occurred in the three and a half hours remaining for play.

HUTTON AGAIN
The first five minutes were occupied by Sutcliffe's personal supervision of the correct arrangement of the sight screen, after which Hutton played another splendid innings, making 47 in 75 minutes. At 69 Sutcliffe played on to Sims who, bowling to two slips, was turning the ball a lot as Mitchell found to his cost at four o'clock and Barber at 4.15 when an hour and a half was left.

Here was tension and a thought in Middlesex minds of what might have been was accentuated when Yardley was bowled at 130 and five wickets were down—a lead of 18 and over an hour to go. Leyland, however, did not concern himself with runs to any extent, but he was clearly in the mood to be there at the end—and so he was.

The receipts for the game reached £528, and this, together with the two collections, produced a sum of £568 without making any allowance for the first day's insurance.

Sporting Tit-Bits

FOR the first time in the history of international polo a visit of an English team to America has resulted in a financial loss. The fact that on this occasion the loss has amounted to £24,000 can only be described as a catastrophe. Little was realised from the proceeds of exhibition games in California and the English share of the Meadowbrook gates amounted to only £3,000 about a quarter of what was expected. The prices realised for the ponies were calamitous—70 were taken over. Forty of them were sold for an average of less than £300, an unprecedentedly low price for an international stable, and one considerably below their cost price.

WINNERS of district competitions held in all parts of England and Wales took part in the finals at Wentworth on July 20 of the national tournament for women golfers organised by the Daily Telegraph and Morning Post. The Silver Challenge Trophy, for the best handicap aggregate in the two divisions (silver and bronze) was won by Miss K. S. Simons, of West Runton, Norfolk, who played from a handicap of 25, and returned net scores of 74 (East course) and 72 (West course) for a total of 146.

WHEN W. R. Hammond caught G. Headley in the West Indies' second innings at Old Trafford, he completed an individual record of 100 catches in Test cricket, which is not likely to be beaten. Nearest contemporaries are S. J. McCabe (42) Bruce Mitchell (40) and Verity (29). Hammond has not made his "bag" so intensively as W. G. Grace, who caught 39 Australian batsmen in 22 Tests. His catching "century" made in 47 matches, is made up as follows:—37 v Australia, 30 v South Africa, 21 v W. Indies, 8 v New Zealand, and 4 v India.

FOR many weeks Windsor and Eton Cricket Club prepared for their summer tour of Devonshire, and when the 15 members of the Club returned from Torquay recently they used Torquay as a centre for the tour—they were able to boast that they did not have one reverse. Not a single ball could be bowled in any of the seven matches which were arranged, because of bad weather!

GLAMORGAN are dispensing with the services of their two senior professionals, Dal Davies and Mercer, at the end of the season. Both have played for Glamorgan since 1923. Mercer has taken more wickets than any other Glamorgan bowler, and Davies has scored most runs. Mercer took all ten wickets for 28 runs in an innings against Worcestershire in 1936, and is the only Glamorgan player to do so. Davies is the only Glamorgan batsman to score three successive centuries.

THE Army won the Inter-Services athletic championships at Portsmouth on July 20 with 35 points. Royal Air Force, the holders, scored 30½, Royal Navy and Royal Marines 10½. Five new records were set up. Royal Air Force set up new times in the 800 yards relay (1 min. 29.5 secs.) and 440 yards relay (4.35 secs.). The Army clipped the weight putting (55 ft. 2½ ins.) and two-mile relay (7 mins. 58 secs.) records, while Royal Navy and Royal Marines won the mile relay in the best-ever time of 3 mins. 26.1 secs.

SEVERAL of the horses trained by Captain Boyd-Rochford at Newmarket are suffering from some disease of the mouth which brings out ulcers. Among those affected are Lady St. Werburgh's St. Leger horse, Casanova, Mrs. J. Corrigan's Golden Tiger, and Mr. J. H. Whitely's Torch Song, who did not run at Goodwood this week on that account. Captain Boyd-Rochford believes that a number of stables have the complaint, and he is consulting one of the Jockey Club's Veterinary Surgeons on the matter. Lord Portman's Fair Test is also said to be affected. This horse won the Lancashire Produce Stakes at Liverpool recently. Captain Boyd-Rochford's stable is one of the largest in the country, and includes some of the most valuable horses in training.

TENNIS VISITORS ARRIVE

Change Made In Programme

The four tennis players from Thailand, Muang Roeng Sanok, Captain Kasom Chaitkavani and Miss Sanguan, who are on a goodwill tour, arrived in the Colony to-day by the Empress of Russia.

Arrangements for the Interport with Hongkong have been finalised, and a change has been made in the original programme. It was earlier intended that the matches should commence to-morrow, but it has now been decided to make a start on Monday instead.

Therefore, the Interport will be played on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

It is now announced that Miss Mudge Griffiths, who had been selected to play against Miss Sanguan, is going away and cannot take part in the programme. Her place will be taken by Mrs. Chiu Chun-chiu.

The following is the re-arranged programme:

Monday—Sanoh v. Tsui Yun-pui; Muang Roeng v. Tsui Wai-pui.

Tuesday—Miss Sanguan v. Mrs. Chiu Chun-chiu; Sanoh and Kasom v. S. A. and H. D. Rumjahn.

Wednesday—Sanoh v. Tsui Wai-pui; Muang Roeng v. Tsui Yun-pui.

Capt. Kasom Chaitkavani is the captain of the visiting side.

The Interport matches will take place on the Hongkong C.C. courts, play commencing each day at 4.15 p.m.

The visitors are having a knock-out at the Kowloon C.C. this afternoon.

Pat Beasley Marries Earl's Sister

London, July 24. Patrick ("Rufus") Beasley, the famous jockey, is to marry in London on July 20 Lady Alexandra Egerton, sister of the Earl of Wiltton. Lady Alexandra, who will be 20 years old in a few weeks, is a ward in Chancery. Permission of the court for her to marry was obtained last week. She first met "Rufus" Beasley during a race-week at Newmarket. They have been secretly engaged for a year.

Lady "Sandra" as she is known, left the House of Mrs. Bullock, one of her guardians in Cornwall, in March, to live in Newmarket. She is intensely keen on racing, and accompanies her husband-to-be to all meetings where he is riding. Red-haired Pat Beasley, thirty-year old last jockey to Captain Boyd-Rochford's stable, rode as an amateur in Ireland before deciding to turn professional. Captain Boyd-Rochford has granted him ten days' leave for his honeymoon which will be spent in Ireland.—Our Own Correspondent.

Schoolboys As Expert Life-Savers

La Salle Students Demonstrate

THE academic proficiency of the students at La Salle College has oft times been demonstrated, but the boys are now adding another accomplishment to their repertory in the form of efficiency in life saving.

Visitors to the Tai Wan beach yesterday afternoon were able to see some of the students in action under the kindly, but discerning eye of Sub-Inspector R. J. Hunt, who is the Hongkong representative of the Royal Life Saving Society.

The candidates, who were parading their ability before Inspector Hunt with an eye to qualifying for the bronze medal and intermediate certificate, gave demonstrations of land and sea drill in life saving, and a very high standard of efficiency was reached.

Considerable credit for the smart turn out is merited by their instructors, Mr. Loo Khim-ling and Mr. Richard Ma.

Those who satisfied Examiner Hunt for the bronze medal and certificate were:—A. Wong, George M. Wong, Matthew Young, Albert Ang, Leonard Portnagin, Marcus Ng, James Wong and Wallace Ma.

The two instructors also qualified to become first-class instructors of the Royal Life Saving Society.

Summer Stains

SUMMER is a prolific time for stains of all kinds, but they all have an antidote, usually consisting of some simple household commodity that is in every housewife's cupboard.

Grass stains are, perhaps, the most common at this time of the year, and these can be removed easily by soaking the garment in warm milk for half-an-hour, rubbing the soiled part with a cut lemon, and then washing in the usual way.

If the stain is on grey or cream flannel it is better to use glycerine. Rub it well into the stain, leave for three or four hours, and then wash off.

Moss stains are more stubborn, but you can rid of them by soaking the garment overnight in cold water to which has been added a small teaspoonful of vinegar. Next morning, wring the article out, rub some methylated spirits on the stain, leave it on for five minutes, then wash with a soapy lather.

Fruit stains are another summer trouble, but they generally appear much worse than they prove to be when tackled. Rub salt on them while are still fresh, and wash in warm, soapy water. Cotton articles can be soaked first for half an hour; the stain will then need less rubbing.

Garden Party "Casualty"

If you spill some lemonade over your best garden party frock do not worry about it, but when you get home rub the stained part thoroughly with crude glycerine and leave for an hour, then sponge off with clear, tepid water.

Tar and petrol stains from road and car should be dampened with cold water, sprinkled with eucalyptus oil, and then rubbed with household soap—carpet soap for preference.

Sea water will often stain dark clothes, but a rub with cloudy ammonia will quickly remove any marks. Rinse the ammonia out of the garment as soon as the stain has gone by rubbing several times with a rag dipped in clear water.

If brown shoes get marked with salt water dissolve a small piece of washing soda in a saucer of warm milk and dab this on the stains while it is still warm. When the stains have disappeared let the milk dry on the leather and then polish in the ordinary way.

When unbrenkable picnic utensils are stained, clean them with a good, non-scratching scourer sprinkled on a dry potato and the stains will soon vanish.

The main point to remember when dealing with any stain is that treatment should be given as soon as possible. The quicker you apply the remedy the better it will work.

D. L.

Gale Page of the screen finds that eau de Cologne is not only a grand aid to daintiness but also a soothing relief for headaches and that general tired feeling.

Varied Benefit Derived In Use of Eau de Cologne

IF YOU have discovered the delightful benefits of eau de Cologne, you wouldn't part with it at any season—but particularly not during the hot summer months when there are so many additional uses for this fragrant, cooling liquid. Whether you are a country or city dweller, traveller or stay-at-home, eau de Cologne is practically indispensable if you want to keep fresh.

Most of you indulge in as much Cologne as you do the rest of the year, so you must take extra precautions to keep from wilting. Though the sun may be scorching and the air heavy with moisture, you still want to look crisp as a lettuce leaf. How can you accomplish this miracle? There are several suggestions, the regular use of eau de Cologne being an important one.

Madame Jeanne Lanvin, noted Paris designer, has her lovely mannequins literally bathe in eau de

A LIGHT ASTRINGENT

If you have an oily skin, the use of Cologne as a light astringent before applying powder keeps the skin cool and fresh even though you wear a suit or frock that is warm. Hollywood stars have taken this hint most willingly, for it's not easy always to look cool and collected under hot studio lights.

There are many other little things you can do with eau de Cologne to add to your summer comfort and fragrance. After your bath, rub yourself with it as you do at any time of the year, but be more liberal with it around your neck, arms and armpits. You'll find you hair less inclined to oiliness if you dash a few drops into the rinse water when shampooing your hair. Try the same trick in the rinse water of your undies, handkerchiefs and fabric gloves. Dab a bit on your leather gloves and on the lining of your summer hats.

If, during a busy day, your feet burn and you can hardly bear the thought of another step, a tepid foot bath and eau de Cologne rub will make a new woman of you. There is nothing like a dash of Cologne to rescue you from headaches when you travel. Just rub a little of your forehead, the palms of your hands, and drop some on your handkerchief. You need never worry about being too lavish, for the perfumes used to scent Cologne are so delicate there is no danger of an overbearing fragrance.

CHOICE OF SCENTS

Speaking of scents, there are some delightful new ones for the discriminating. One which is just as much a favourite among men as it is among women, has a clean, crisp fragrance. It is cool, unassuming and so subtle that men enjoy using it as an after-shave lotion, and women use it because it blends perfectly with any perfume. You can buy this Cologne alone in its tall crystal bottle, or with its matching twin, a Cologne with a more pungent, rich fragrance of Spanish geraniums.

Another favourite is entirely different, with a truly feminine fragrance, light, fragile and romantic. This has a light floral bouquet. The fact that its formula is very old and that it is supposed to have been the favourite Cologne of the Empress Josephine, may make it sound more appealing to you.

Experiment with Colognes. You may prefer one with the natural crispness that comes from the citrus flower oils with which a real Cologne is blended. You may like one scented with the perfume you wear most frequently, or you may prefer to substitute a new fragrance and use Cologne exclusively in place of perfume for hot weather. In any case, find one that not only refreshes you, but helps you express your personality.

SHORT CUTS

To clean ivory or bone knife handles, make a paste of lemon juice and whiting, rubbing this well into the handles. If very much soiled, allow the paste to remain on for a few hours. Then rinse quickly and polish with a soft cloth.

The chance of breakage of cup handles is lessened when cups are hung from hooks in the pantry.

A folded Turkish towel placed in the bottom of a dishpan may save a precious piece of china or glassware from breaking, if it should slip from the hand in the process of washing.

THREAT TO YUGO-SLAVIA

circles here are very anxious to counteract any impression abroad that Germany or Danzig have in any respect, given way in the dealings with Poland.

Foerster's Return

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
DANZIG, Aug. 9 (UP).—Herr Foerster left Obersalzberg by plane early this morning and is expected at Danzig in the evening.

He is scheduled to speak to-day at a mass meeting in the Danzig Square, Danzig, in protest against the Polish threats to bombard Danzig.

Envoy Sees Halifax

LONDON, Aug. 9 (Reuters).—The German Ambassador called on Viscount Halifax at the Foreign Office this afternoon.

Berlin Conference

BERLIN, Aug. 9 (Trans-Ocean).—Nothing in the way of an official pronouncement has been made in explanation of the surprise visit to-day by the Hungarian Foreign Minister to the German Foreign Minister, who is staying near Salzburg.

The fact that both Ministers are at present on holiday may confirm the suggestion that the meeting was of a private character, but it is also presumed that there was an exchange of views on the Polish question which is now completely dominating German foreign policy.

30,000 Czechs Expelled

PRAGUE, Aug. 9 (Trans-Ocean).—No less than 30,000 Czechs had been expelled from the Olsa territory, which was annexed by Poland last autumn, declared a refugee to-day.

Poles Set Free

GDYNIA, Aug. 9 (Reuters).—The Polish customs officer M. Lipinski, who was sentenced to 18 months imprisonment this week for allegedly insulting the name of Hitler and Germany, has been set free by the Danzig authorities. He is now in Poland.

His liberation follows strong diplomatic representations by the Polish authorities.

Four other Poles were also set free. In retaliation for the arrest of Polish officials, a Danzig officer named Miller was to-day imprisoned at Tezow on the Polish side of the Danzig frontier.

Daladier Unperturbed

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
PARIS, Aug. 9 (UP).—The French Premier has prolonged his cruise on the French Riviera, the official explanation being that "nothing demands his presence in Paris at present."

To-day he visited the French Mediterranean fleet's flagship "Provence" at St. Raphael.

"Polish Chauvinism"

BERLIN, Aug. 10 (Trans-Ocean).—The assertion that Danzig is needed by Poland, and that refusal to respect Polish rights would as a necessity result in war, is hotly contested by the Berlin press.

The "Voelkische Beobachter" describes the statement as "impudent Polish claims," and says they are nothing but proof of the Polish chauvinism which has been fostered deliberately by the Western Powers, and which had become a threat to world peace.

Muller Released

GDYNIA, June 10 (Reuters).—It is now learned that Herr Muller, who was imprisoned recently (and not yesterday as originally reported) has been released in exchange for the liberation of Poles.

Political circles are awaiting this speech with great interest because it is scheduled as a protest against the alleged Polish threats to bombard Danzig, and also because it is expected that Herr Foerster will reveal the substance and results of his conversations with Hitler at Berchtesgaden.

Meanwhile, political developments in the Free City are more or less suspended.

Foerster in Danzig

The announcement that Herr Foerster has agreed to address the protest meeting on Thursday has caught Polish political circles by surprise.

It is believed possible that the Nazi leader will unveil Hitler's plans for the future of Danzig. Official quarters, however, emphasize that whatever Herr Foerster may say, Poland will maintain a calm determination to maintain her rights in the Free-City.

Nuncio in Rome

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
ROME, Aug. 9 (UP).—Cardinal Orsini, the Papal Nuncio, has arrived at the Vatican from Berlin.

He is expected to visit the summer residence of His Holiness the Pope at Castel Gandolfo shortly, to make a lengthy report on the situation regarding the church in Germany, and also to inform His Holiness of the latest developments regarding Danzig.

PEIPING, Aug. 10. (Dome).—Fears of a complete breakdown in the Anglo-Japanese conversations at Tokyo are heightened this morning. The Japanese military authorities are now preparing measures to be taken in China if the negotiations are not resumed on the basis demanded by Japan.

Japanese military circles here unofficially admit reports that the military delegates may withdraw from the conference.

It is understood that the Japanese military authorities in Peking are prepared to take vigorous and independent measures to fulfil their "special requirements."

LATE NEWS

Injured during the demonstration was hit on the head with a brick, which was flung by one of his compatriots.

At the time, bricks and stones were being freely used by the demonstrators. The man was struck so heavily that he fell to the ground unconscious.

Shortly afterwards, the Japanese soldiers arrived and the demonstrators dispersed.

Despite the apparent seriousness of the man's injuries, the Japanese sentries refused to allow any medical attention, and the man lay on the ground for over four hours before the sentries could be prevailed upon to let a German doctor attend to his injuries.

It was, however, too late, and the man shortly afterwards died. The British sailors from H.M.S. Temedosa at no time attempted to clash with the demonstrators.

S'HA! DOLLAR DOWN AGAIN

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
SHANGHAI, Aug. 10. (Dome).—The Chinese dollar continued to slide down from the fourpence level to-day.

Quoted at 3 3/4d. on London and 7 1/2 on New York at the opening session, it later fell to 3 1/4d. and 7 1/2d. and then to 3 1/8d. and 7 cents.

Quotations against Yen were 0 1/4 yen sellers and 0 1/4 yen buyers in the morning but later stood at 0 1/2 sellers and 0 2 yen buyers.

The Hua Hsing Commercial Bank notes were quoted at 150 dollars per 100 in selling and 100 dollars in buying.

The Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation lowered its selling rates to 3 1/4d. on London and 6 1/8 on New York.

Reports of the United States Government's decision to purchase Chinese silver and of the arrival in Shanghai of a member of the Joint Stabilization Committee failed to check the downward trend.

Some circles suggest that the legal tender will settle at 3 1/4d. Some constructive factors are believed necessary, however, in staying off the currency confronting the Chinese currency.

BRITISH POLICY

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
LONDON, Aug. 9 (UP).—Britain's reported decision to surrender the four Tientsin-Chinese competed for public interest with the lively activity of European diplomats in London to-day.

As a preliminary to his departure, probably on Thursday, for a holiday in Germany, the German Ambassador this afternoon visited Lord Halifax at the Foreign Office.

The German Embassy said he merely went to say farewell to Lord Halifax, but it is believed they thoroughly discussed European tension, especially between Germany and Poland, and that the German Ambassador will convey the British view to the German Foreign Minister, and also probably direct to Hitler.

The Rumanian Minister, meanwhile, left for Bucharest this afternoon, also bearing the latest information regarding the British attitude towards Germany's Drangnach Osten. He is expected to confer with the Rumanian Foreign Minister and return to London about August 21.

The Rumanian Legation to-day told the "United Press" they knew nothing about the rumoured scheme to add Russia to the British and French guarantees of Rumania's independence.

After four days consultations with his Government, the Polish Ambassador arrived here to-day by airplane and will probably soon consult with important officials here regarding Danzig and other hotbeds of conflict.

Lord Halifax this afternoon received the acting leader of the Opposition, Mr. Arthur Greenwood, to whom he gave up-to-the-minute information regarding European and Far Eastern developments.

Inquest On Amah

Found In Reservoir In Semi-Nude State

An open verdict was returned by Mr. R. Edwards at the Central Magistracy yesterday at the conclusion of an inquest into the death of Li Cheung-hing, 20, a woman, whose semi-nude body was found floating in Aberdeen Reservoir on July 9. The Coroner said that there was insufficient evidence for him to determine whether death was due to suicide or was accidental.

Evidence given earlier revealed that the woman, who was employed as an amah in a house on The Peak, had misadventured herself with the No. 1 "boy," Yung Shiu-wing, who was employed in 302 The Peak. She was questioned by her elder sister, Li Ngon-hing, regarding rumours of her misconduct, and denied the allegations. Yung also denied misconduct with the woman. Witnesses stated that the deceased did not appear worried or upset prior to her death.

Li Ngon-hing was called yesterday. On July 7, she saw her sister, and told her she had been saying he had misadventured himself with the deceased. He denied he had done so. Deceased burst into tears, went down on her knees, and said that whatever happened, she would not leave 302 The Peak. Witness struck her twice on the ankles with an umbrella.

Deceased by the Coroner, Li said deceased appeared very upset over the quarrel. Ordinarily she was not a person who was easily upset by small matters. Deceased, she said, had never threatened to commit suicide. She could not swim.

temporarily employed at 302 The Peak. Witness said she noticed that Yung and the deceased appeared to be on intimate terms. The girl was upset, but when questioned refused to say anything. She often borrowed sums of money from witness and always appeared hard-up. Witness questioned her as to what she did with her money and she finally admitted that most of it had been borrowed by Yung.

Yung Shiu-wing, who had previously given evidence, and admitted misconduct with the deceased, was recalled. He denied that the nights the girl did not return to 302 The Peak to sleep with him. Deceased, he explained, was in her own quarters at 108 The Peak.

A King submitted that there was no evidence to connect anyone with the death of deceased. Though much had been said about the morals of a witness, that had nothing to do with his Worship's findings. He suggested that Li Ngon-hing was a vindictive person.

Giving his decision, the Coroner said there was no evidence of violence to the body. There was insufficient evidence for him to determine whether death was due to suicide or was accidental.

Mr. R. M. King held a watching brief for Yung Shiu-wing, Li Mui and Fung Kiu, servants employed at 302 The Peak. Acting Sub-Inspector A. F. Estall was present for the Police.

NO RADIO LICENCES

Two Chinese Summoned At Kowloon Magistracy

Summoned for possession of a radio without a licence, Wong Wai-long, of Pine Street, was fined $10 by Mr. Q. A. A. Macfarlane at Kowloon Magistracy yesterday. Defendant's representative told the Court that since the summons had been issued a licence had been issued out of Chung Chun of Woosung Street, for a similar offence. Chung admitted that he did not take out a licence until Tuesday.

Damage To Missions In China

LONDON. The damage to Missions in the Province of Shensi was referred to in a Parliamentary question recently. Mr. R. Gibson asked the Prime Minister, to what missionary body the property that was recently damaged in the Province of Shensi belonged; what was the nature, extent, and amount of the damage; and what arrangements are being taken for its restoration?

Mr. Butler: According to the reports received by my Noble Friend damage has been done to the premises of the China Inland Mission at Linfen and Hingtung in South Shensi. The English Baptist Mission at Tachow in the north of the same province was broken into but was not looted. Details of the damage done have not yet been reported and pending their receipt I am not able to say what action may be appropriate in the matter.
